P R E F A C E .

It had early entered into the plan of the present work, that it should include, in like manner as the versions succeeding Tyndale, the earlier New Testament of Wiclid; and that thus the whole would more literally exhibit the fruits of the collective labours of all the Ante-James translators. But the objections that successively sprung up, soon satisfied the editor, that this was a hasty thought. Wiclid is, in the first place, professedly but a translation from the Latin Vulgate, not from the Greek ; and it would not be easy therefore to say, why it should have here a place, rather than the Rhemish New Testament of 1582. Then, the remote era of the work [A. D. 1380], made in the rude and changing state of the language, renders a Glossary to most readers indispensable ; an appendage, to be sure, provided without much pains, were this the most serious difficulty. But the versions of the sixteenth century are knit together by a commune vinculum of structure and diction ; and this, as was just implied, does not run back for an hundred and fifty years. Less than an half-century elapsed from the time of Tyndale's version to the last of those contained in this work [The Bishops'] ; and of the generation which called for either, no small part, it is natural to think, continued long enough to welcome its immediate successor. They were, in fact, not so much new versions as revisions of one another ; and this, so true of them, is emphatically true of that of king James ; though, as to qualities not denied it, so often and strangely admired, like—if it be not rather unlike—the bird in the fable, for borrowed plumage, and praised, as if an independent translation, for virtues not its own. The foregoing objection gives birth to yet another :—had all the variations of Wiclid been faithfully recognized, the contents of the margin, as it is, of an unwished-for extent, would have doubtless been doubled. It is plain, that the work of the old English reformer, to receive either due honour or justice, should be given to the public by itself alone ; and this, alas, will long remain a desideratum.

As to the other versions referred to, the Editor fondly believes, that by the scheme of comprehension pursued, the re-print of Tyndale with us, acquires a peculiar and enhanced value over the English work. To Tyndale himself, the central position is given, which is rightfully his, as the pioneer in time, as a martyr to his enterprise, and as the only truly independent translator ; while the rest take their humble places as satellites. Their essential variations being given as marginal readings, a complete VARIORUM edition of the Early Vernacular versions is produced ; the remarkable co-incidence of which, in their general frame-work, (as the few familiar with them well know) at once suggests and assists this mode of condensation. Their occasional discrepancies are all which it is worth the pains to select ; but by this simple method some half-dozen versions are in effect and to all practical purpose, embodied at the expense of no very serious enlargement of the volume, in limits or in cost. That either would ever again be re-published, is altogether unlikely ; and next to certain, if it were, that it would find a slow dispersion among antiquarians alone. But would it not be just ground both of regret and reproach, if without the slight memorial which these pages will preserve, works of such admitted excellence should pass away, and leave no trace behind ? What their successive and united labours have done towards producing an exact copy of the Original, will now at a glance be seen : and not less manifest will be the great obligations, though scarcely suspected, that are due them from the authors of that version which now reigns without rival or superior—chiefly because it reigns alone. We are apt to speak of the advantage, in some walks of authorship (as in that before us), to a later work, from the number of models and guides in kindred enterprises that preceded ; and to find an apology for the defects of an earlier one, in having an unbeaten path to travel. But when we turn in the present instance to look at the results, we are well-nigh tempted to suspect that in our mother-tongue at least, the series of biblical translation has, by some chance, been inverted.

It may be thought that as to Tyndale's text, the simple duty has been left to the Editor of guarding its integrity through the press. But it has not therefore been always simple, if by simple we mean clear. While the voices of antiquarians and critics unite in the highest eulogium on the version itself, it is not to be disguised, that as to its mechanical part, every page is instamped with the marks of haste. The harassed life of its unfortunate author is made present to our thoughts; and fancy paints, without effort, the bloodhounds of a merciless church tracking his footsteps. Broken in upon in the midst of the drudgery of the press in one city, he gathers up his fragments in what condition he may, and flees to another to complete his interrupted labours. With this in full remembrance, the orthography so curiously varying, even in the same paragraph or sentence, from itself, the confounding of distinct words through a single misplaced letter, the withholding or bestowment of capitals ad libitum, as it were, the unsightly exchange of the leading vowels as initial letters [as o for a etc.], and the seeming disdain of rule throughout—all find a prompt solution. The first impression on the reader however, is likely to be that of a book overrun with errors; and of this the Publishers desire to disabuse him in advance. Yet the Editor has ventured to meddle with this deformity but in the most palpable cases; well understanding to how many even these blemishes are precious. His apology for doing so at all is, that indubitably it is sometimes needed. But the English publisher has strangely and inexcusably enough left him to conjecture where. He undertook (in all honesty, doubtless) to give an exact fact-simile of the First edition of Tyndale. But though no immaculate specimen of typography has yet been known, and few works, since the Art began, have called with such peculiar propriety for a Table of Errata, that appendage is no where found. The editors of Re-prints in foreign lands have therefore to discriminate as they can, between its negligences as first given to the world, and the errors superinduced, beyond doubt, in its late revival by Mr. Bagster.

In the notation of Various Readings from the versions here embraced, infra lineam, regard has in the main been had only to essential differences, i. e. to differences in sense : to have extended it to particles and phrases, except when these had a bearing on the whole texture of the verse, would have been tedious to the collator, unasked for by readers, and encumbering to the work. The above rule was not indeed rigorously observed. Even verbal changes deserve a place, when curiosity might be amused by the recovery of some fast-fading word, or the ceaseless current of the language illustrated by another in a novel sense. Especially was it the wish, that the relative sources of the Version in common use might be obvious to all ; and words and clauses, not of much moment perhaps but as found in this, have been pointed out, when they might be traced to either of the earlier works, in particular. Of the class of various readings, there is a considerable number, which recur so often, that, to avoid their needless repetition, it was thought best, to give them once for all in a Tabular List with the answering expressions of Tyndale. This list will be found among the last of the preliminary pages, and the examples in question will not, except in a few instances of accidental insertion, be met with in the margin.

There are some readers, it is not unlikely, who will need instructions towards the profitable use of the Notes. The citations, as all know, stand in lieu of the words following the same numbers in the text. They are extended (whenever the case would permit,) until the versions above and below again meet : where this was inconvenient, the ordinary rules of grammar and syntax, it is hoped, will make it clear how far the marginal substitute is to run, at the first glance, or on a slight comparison. The meaning may occasionally not be so clear in respect to insets, i. e. notes within notes. They occur only where two or more authorities are affixed to the same citation ; and the inset in crotchets denotes that one of these authorities varies from the others as to a word or clause of the fragment common to them. The clause or word within the crotchets—as an uniform rule—answers to that which directly precedes it. Perhaps it will occasionally relieve uncertainty and doubt, to say, that where the inset is meant to stand for all the antecedent part of the citation, it begins, (and then only), like the principal note itself, with a capital. But in relation to the notes and the dilemmas they may sometimes create, there can, as a general advice be no greater convenience than the open page of the familiar scriptures ; with whose phraseology, the marginal citations, especially if from the Genevan or Bishops, will be so apt to correspond. Crotchets in the text show the extent of the omission by the version referred to below. The reference post [i. e. afterwards] signifies that the authority before it, repeats the specified expression once or oftener again in the chapter, if in answer to the same word in the list. Numerical reference, it will be observed, is often made to verses in advance ; for though this was the distinction of a later day, no other sure, and yet brief, designation could be thought of for examples sometimes distant ; and it was taken for granted, that in perusing this book, the common Bible would be readily at hand.

The Memoir of Tyndale which follows, is, in substance, that by Mr. Offor, recently issued in England. But it contained so much that was redundant in the way of reflection and comment as to interfere with the prescribed limits to this undertaking, already so far expanded ; and when its tone of prejudice and asperity towards Sir Thomas More and the dominant faith, its occasional cloudiness of style and looseness of statement, with its slender claims on the whole, as a piece of biography, all were considered, it was thought best to recast its materials anew. This acknowledgment was due both to the public and the English biographer ; as the following account could not, in propriety, be inscribed with his name, though any other would be still less appropriate.

They who have sometimes asked the sage question,—Where is the utility of a work like the present, have had their answer, we trust, in some things that have been advanced. We should not very sanguinely refer them, if still unsatisfied, to the contents of the volume itself. Let it be asked in return, (if this be not equally a problem to those concerned), What is the use of any modern translation, having the impress of research, ability and taste? The first fruits of the biblical learning of our own tongue, we “may not willingly”—and cannot creditably—“let die.” But this, not—as some strangely conceive—that they may be embalmed as curiosities, but converted to practical ends; as landmarks to denote the progress of the language, as lights to illustrate the oracles of truth. That with the smile of HIM, whose cause and kingdom it seeks to serve, such will be the results of this enterprise, the editor nothing doubts: and in that persuasion, dismisses it with the cheering sense of having been the humble instrument of diffusing, in a new—or, rather—long-lost form, so just an image of “that word of God which liveth and abideth forever.”

ERA IN WHICH HE LIVED—DESCENT—BIRTH—EDUCATION—ORDINATION—TAKES THE VOWS AT GREENWICH—TRANSLATES PORTIONS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT—RETURNS TO HIS NATIVE COUNTRY AS TUTOR IN A KNIGHT'S FAMILY—BECOMES AN OBJECT OF PERSECUTION—COMES TO LONDON—IS A POPULAR PREACHER.

THE efforts to throw off the dominion of the Romish Church, commenced long before, began to assume, early in the reign of Henry the Eighth, a definite and threatening aspect. Their success in no feeble measure, was accelerated by the insufferable pride and pomp of the prelates, and the bare-faced debaucheries of the monks. So indisputable was the latter, that when it was in controversy pressed home upon Sir Thomas More, he could extricate himself from the dilemma no otherwise, than by saying, “ Our mater is not of the lyuynge but of the doctryne.”*

At this period it was, that Luther cast away, without any reserves, his allegiance to the common Head of Christendom, and as one of the earliest steps in the work of Reformation, published the Bible in German. The spirit of translation spread apace. In January 1525, the aged Le Fevre printed the New Testament in French. And meanwhile, He of equally honored and endeared memory to British Christians, was preparing to give to the world, the Scriptures in his vernacular language—the fruits of many years of anxious and interrupted labour.

The ancient family of Tyndale were settled for centuries on the banks of the Tyne, in Northumberland. The stock could boast of baronial dignity, having its seat at Langley Castle, a small but strong fortress, whose ruins time has spared : they stand pleasantly on a rising ground in Tyndale.† During the wasting wars between the houses of York and Lancaster, Hugh, the then Baron de Tyndale, whose lot had been cast with the weaker party, escaped from the field of battle and took refuge in Gloucestershire. Despoiled of his honours, possessions, and even of his name—for in his extremity he had been driven to assume that of Hutchins—the fugitive could hardly have thought that these disasters would lead to an alliance, destined to immortalize his ill-starred and renounced name. The concealed Baron married Alicia, daughter and sole heiress of — Hunt, Esq., of Hunt’s Court, Nibley, Gloucestershire.

* Confutacyon of Tyndale, Vol. II. p. 364.

† Thomas Tyndale, writing to his cousin, February 3, 1663, gives this account of his family :—“ I have heretofore heard that the first of your familie came out of the north, in the time of the wars between the houses of York and Lancaster, at what time many of good sort (their side going down) did fly for refuge and succor where they could find it. That it was your predecessor his fortune to come into Gloucestershire, changing his name to that of Hutchins, and that afterwards he married there, and so having children, he did before his death declare his right name, and from whence, and upon what subject he came thither, and so taking his own name, did leave it unto his children.”—Rudder’s Gloucestershire, p. 757.

This property descended to John Tyndale alias Hytchins, his son and heir;* who had three sons; John who became a distinguished merchant in London,† and William the subject of this memoir. Several branches of the family were honoured with knighthood: Sir John Tyndale attended at the coronation of Queen Ann Boleyn, as a Knight of the Bath.

William Tyndale was born at Hunt's Court,‡ about the year 1477. At a very early age he became a very diligent student in the University of Oxford, having been instructed from a child in grammar, logic, and philosophy:§ he continued there until his proficiency in the Greek and Latin languages enabled him to read the New Testament to his fellow students in St. Mary Magdalen Hall, and to those of Magdalen College.||

Oxford was at this time, the most celebrated seat of learning in the world:—Erasmus, who was a student in St. Mary's, thus writes to a friend in Italy:—"Here I have met with humanity, politeness, learning not trite and superficial, but deep, accurate, true old Greek and Latin learning, and withal so much of it, that, but for mere curiosity, I have no occasion to visit Italy: in Grocyn I admire an universal compass of learning; Linacre's acuteness, depth, and accuracy are not to be exceeded." Here Tyndale took his degrees and laid the foundation of that skill in the learned languages so essential to the worthy accomplishment of the enterprise he was soon to take upon him. His name indeed illustrates the history of the sister University also; for from some cause it appears that he entered as a student at Cambridge, where he is said to have again taken a degree. Here he formed a lasting friendship with John Frith, his junior in years, but of eminent attainments, deep piety, amiable and unassuming manners, and withal a zealous reformer. Tyndale was ordained at the conventional church of the priory of St. Bartholomew in Smithfield, on the eleventh of March, 1502, by Thomas, suffragan Bishop of Pavaden, by authority of William Warham, Bishop of London, and was set apart as priest to the nunnery of Lambley, in the diocese of Carlisle. He took the vows and became a friar in the monastery at Greenwich in 1508.

The Rev. R. H. Barham of St. Paul's has happened to light upon a memorandum in Latin, of some interest in this connexion. On the title-page of the "Sermones de Herolt," a small folio, 1495, in the Cathedral library, is inscribed:—"Charitably pray for the soul of John Tyndale, who gave this book to the monastery of Greenwich of the observance of the minor brothers, on the day that brother William, his son, made his profession, in the year 1508."

To this period of his life, an allusion is found in the preface to his "Parable of the Wicked Mammon, May, 1528:" "A year before came one Jerome a brother of Greenwich also, through Worms to Argentine, saying that he intended to get his living with his hands, and to live no longer idly, and of the sweat and labour of those captives which they had taught not to believe in Christ, but in cut shoes and russet coats."

For some years previous to taking the vows, Tyndale not only had read the holy oracles to his fellow students, but by presenting in an English garb sundry portions of the New Testament,* evinced his early zeal for that sort of enterprise

* The English biographer has, it appears, in his hands, the original autograph of these translations, which "valuable MS." he derived "from the library of that eminent antiquary, the Rev. H. White of Lichfield Cathedral." It is in 4to., the margins ornamented with borders, and each portion accompanied with an ancient drawing in which has perpetuated his name. The version in these selections of scriptures, scarcely varies even in unimportant words, from his first printed edition, twenty-three years posterior in date ! an attestation, not to be gainsaid, to his singular proficiency and ripeness as a translator. That he was already, in his own apprehension at least, an obnoxious man, we may gather from the prayer interwoven in one of the drawings, referred to in the note, cherubs holding the scroll on which it is written : “DEFEND ME, O LORD, FROM ALL THEM THAT HAYT ME. W. T.” How long Tyndale continued with the Greenwich community, is left in uncertainty.

Returning to his native country he exchanged the life of a friar for that of tutor and chaplain in the family of Sir John Welch, a knight of Gloucestershire, whose liberal table was sure to procure him the frequent visits of the neighboring prelates and clergy. Luther having now become, from his bold defiance of the Pope, the one-absorbing topic, the chaplain was sometimes betrayed into dispute with his patron’s guests, on the new heresy ; when, mortified at the ignorance of his authorized guides, he warmly urged the study of the New Testament. This led them, in Fuller’s witty phrase, to prefer resigning Squire Welch’s good cheer, rather than to have the sour sauce of Master Tyndale’s company. His lady, who passed as a sensible woman, felt hurt when she saw the great men, she had been brought up to venerate, baffled in the discussion, and asked Sir William Tyndale,* if it was likely that she could prefer his judgment to that of such wealthy prelates. He was wise enough to forbear reply to a temper already evidently ruffled. Soon after however having translated “Erasmus’s Enchiridion,” he dedicated the manuscript to Sir imitation of some ancient missal. His initials W. T. occur in many places, and on two of the ornamental pillars he has placed the date, 1502 ; the capital of one having an inscription preceding the date,—

TIME TRIETH, 1502.

* The title given at that time to all priests : which after the Reformation gave place by degrees to that of Reverend.

John and his lady, which they read attentively, and to their happy conversion. But though firmly seated anew in their regard, the hostility of the beneficed clergy had been aroused, which could be quieted only by a citation to appear before the ordinary. With a deep sense of his danger, it was his fervent prayer on the way, that God would strengthen him to contend firmly, at all hazards, for the truth of his word. His persecutors had assembled strong; but whether from the influence of his protecting knight, or the secret providence of God, their courage failed, and he escaped without accusation. The ordinary however “rated him like a dog.”

Tyndale, soon after this, consulting an old doctor, who had been chancellor to a bishop, he privately told him, that, in his opinion, the Pope was antichrist, but advised him by no means to avow any sentiment of the kind, as it would be at the peril of his life. The caution however was little suited to a nature like his; for being in company with a popish divine, he argued so conclusively in favor of a vernacular translation of the Bible, that the divine, unable to answer him, exclaimed, “We had better be without God’s laws than the Pope’s.” This fired the spirit of Tyndale; and he indignantly replied: “I defy the Pope and all his laws; and, If God give me life, ere many years the ploughboys shall know more of the Scriptures than you do:” a pledge which he amply redeemed.

He now became so “turmoiled,” that regarding his stay in Gloucestershire as likely to involve the safety of his friends as well as himself, he left that county and preached frequently at Bristol, in London and other places; it is said, to crowded congregations. Continuing his connexion with the Romish church, while he sought to win souls to Christ, persecution, he knew, was only to be evaded by the avoidance of bad names and controversial questions. Even this was a difficult course to be followed long, and especially by a spirit so little disposed, as we have just seen, to do violence to its conviction.

At this period it was, in the language of Fuller, that “he tendered his services to Cuthbert Tonstall, a great scholar himself and therefore probable to prove a patron to a learned man." His commendation as such, by Erasmus, had indeed led Tyndale to hope for a chaplaincy in his palace, where without molestation he might pursue his biblical labors. An introduction from Sir John Welch to Sir H. Guilford, procured him through the latter, an audience of the Bishop. To him Tyndale presented an oration of Isocrates which he had translated into English, trusting for his success mainly to this evidence of his Greek scholarship ; "but though suing for himself in two tongues, both proved ineffectual ; the Bishop returning that he had more already than he could well maintain." Upon this disappointment he found an asylum in the house of Humphrey Monmouth, a worthy alderman, with whom he lived about half of the year 1523.

When a few years after, Monmouth was sent to the Tower on suspicion of heresy, this service to Tyndale was the heaviest count in his indictment. His memorial to the lord legate and the privy council, witnessed by Bishop Tonstall, are with the original articles, in the Harleian collection of State Papers. Mr. Offor says, that he did not examine these documents without some uneasy concern for the honour and character of Monmouth. A wealthy London merchant committed to such a prison, and on so heinous a charge, with all the terrors of confiscation, torture and death before him ;—how strong the temptation to lend a helping hand to even a baseless calumny against a poor and then exiled friar ! It is therefore a relief to the reader to see him coming out from the ordeal unblemished. His account of his first acquaintance with his guest, and of his domestic habits are detailed with all simplicity, and cannot be read without amusement, though not unmixed, surely, with a better feeling. "Upon iiiij years and a half past, and more, I herde the foresaid Sir William preache ij or iij sermondes, at St. Dunstones in the weste, in London, and after that I chaunced to meet with him, and with communycation I examyned him what lyving he had, he said, none at all, but he trusted to be with my lord of London in his service, and therefore I had the better fantasye to him. And afterwarde he went to my lorde and spake to him, as he tolde me, and my lorde of London answered him that he had chaplaines inougue, and he said to him that he would have no more at that time, and so the priest came to me againe, and besought me to helpe him, and so I toke him in my house half a year, and there he lived like a good priest as me thought, he studyed moste parte of the daye and of the nyght at his booke, and he woulde eat but sodden meate by his good will, nor drinke but small single beer ; I never saw him were lynen about him in the space he was with me ; I did promyse him ten pounds sterling to pracie for my father, mother, there sowles,* and all christen sowles. I did paie yt him when he made his exchang to Hamboro'. When I hard my lord of London preache at Powles Crosse that Sir William Tyndall had translated the New Testament in Englishe, and was nougately translated, that was the first tyme that ever I suspected or knewe any evill by him, and shortly all the letters and treatyes that he sent me with dyuers copies of bookes that my servant did write, and the sermondes that the priest did make at St. Dunstanes, I did burne them in my howse, he that did write them did see it. I did borne them for feare of the translator more than for any yll that I knewe by them." The worthy citizen soon obtained his liberty, was knighted, and in 1535 served his shrievalty. He died in 1537, and was buried at Alhallows church, near the Tower. He was a great ornament to the city, of good wealth, and great charity ; he contributed largely to the printing of the New Testament and other pious books against the errors of Rome. By his will, he appointed Latimer, Barnes, and two other gospellers to preach thirty sermons at his parish church, which he thought would do more good than so many masses said for the repose of his soul ; and he forbade the ordinary superstitions of candles and singing dirige, and ringing of bells at his funeral.*

* Light broke in gradually upon his mind, like the man who, having been born blind, suddenly received his sight, and said, "I see men as trees, walking." After he left England, he defended the real presence against Barnes, but very soon gave up that extraordinary delusion. In reply to More, he professes an historic faith in the perpetual virginity of our Lord's mother. It is interesting to trace the progress of his powerful mind in throwing off the errors which he had imbibed in his education.—See Confutation of Tyndale, fol. 249 and 260.

GOES INTO VOLUNTARY EXILE—CONFERS WITH LUTHER, AND PRINTS THE NEW TESTAMENT IN ENGLISH—DESCRIPTION OF THE TWO EDITIONS—VIOLENT OPPOSITION TO THE NEW TESTAMENT IN ENGLAND—SEVERE PERSECUTION OF THOSE IN WHOSE POSSESSION IT WAS FOUND—PUBLICLY BURNT AT PAUL’S CROSS.

BEFORE the close of the year 1523, Tyndale became a voluntary exile from his native land—and which he was never more to revisit;—having satisfied himself that no where within its limits was he likely to bring his labors to a prosperous issue. With the aid of a ten pounds’ donation from the friendly alderman, he quitted his hospitable roof and sailed for Hamburgh; thence he proceeded to Saxony to confer with the kindred spirits and fellow-reformers, of his age. Luther, who had just finished his German version, not only gave encouragement to the pious refugee to persevere in this twin-enterprise, but as some think, by his pecuniary assistance, lightened the burthen of his less able ally. The imagination cannot forbear to paint the meeting of two such eminent men; raised up by Providence for similar services to mankind. In some points of character, probably, they widely differed, as they certainly did in outward circumstances. The Englishman was a poverty-stricken exile, the German was the protegee of at least one considerable, spirited prince of the empire. But they resembled in the energy of soul and in other qualities, which the exigencies of the time required, and not less in the happy influence on their respective countries, of their efforts for the diffusion of the living word.

At Wytemburg, it is the opinion of Mr. Offor, that he completed the translation of the New Testament, assisted by his learned friend, Frith, who with William Roy, acted also as his amanuenses. He counts "it a popular error which ascribes the edition to the Antwerp press; the more remarkable, as no similar type was used there, nor did Tyndale visit that city until the year 1530." One edition of three thousand for general circulation, was followed, it is supposed, by a more sightly edition in 4to. with glosses* commenced at Cologne in 1526, and finished at Worms or Wytemburg; the type, cuts and ornaments of both these books being those used by the German printers on the Rhine. These circumstances are confirmed by the positive evidence of Brovius,† as to the one printed at Wittemburg in 1525 and that of Cochlæus, (an authority soon to be introduced) who broke up the printing of the second at Cologne. Tyndale himself seems to point out the order of these two editions at the close of this volume,

* Such is the statement of Mr. Offor; and with the ampler means of thorough investigation in his hands, the Editor must needs suppose the distinctions in the text well-founded. But since the present work (which is the first, the reader will please to remember, of these alleged editions, viz. that of 1525) opens on the eye with the date of 1526, since the table of Various Readings of the second edition collated with the first at the close of the Memoir, assumes them to be respectively of 1526 and 1534, and since all this is confirmed by the incidental mention of the two throughout the Sketch,—it will be strange if the reader, who values or himself observes precision of language, is not thoroughly bewildered by this confusion of terms. Yet of all this the English biographer seems utterly unconscious; nor to have once thought of using any qualifying explanation, with a view to remedy his apparent looseness of description. It would be well if the portions of Tyndale's Testament, issued in the successive years and in different forms, might be designated as two impressions of one and the same edition; but if this may not be,—and to judge from Mr. Offor's specimens on a succeeding page, they differ from each other as much (trivial as that may be) as does the edition of '34 from either,—then will it need a very discriminating faculty indeed to see, why this last is not the third, and its predecessors severally, the first and second editions.

† Preface to The Wicked Mammon, where he says “ that the rudnes of the worke, nowe at THE FYRST TYME, offende them not.” In the prologue to the 4to. no such expressions are found.

That after his first publication of the text, he thought it expedient to re-issue it again, with a view altogether to the prologue and notes to be annexed, the language of Sir Thomas More’s Strictures seems to favour: “ But surely the worde congregacyion, wyth the circunstaunces in the text: wolde not haue serued when he translated yt fyrste, to make the englyshe reader to take it for the chyrch, no more than idols for ymages; But mary he hath added vnto his translacion such circumstaunces synnys,”* etc.

We can trace the volume of Tyndale, soon after this date, as in course of circulation. Strype has recorded, from a private paper left by John Fox, that one John Pykas, when in trouble for alleged heresy, deposed, March 7, 1527, that about two years previously, he bought in Colchester, of a Lombard merchant (i. e. any merchant trading to foreign parts) the New Testament in English for four shillings: he does not say that it was printed; but, supposing it to be one of the first importation of printed Testaments, when manuscript copies were selling for very considerable sums, and the sale was attended with great risk, it may account for the charge of four shillings for so small a volume.

In the preface to the Wicked Mammon, published in May, 1528, Tyndale states, that the New Testament was completed two years previously; thus confirming the account given by Cochlaeus, one of the most active enemies of the Reformation. In his Memoir of the Life and Writings of Luther, he thus narrates the routing of the two pious aliens, Tyndale and Frith. Roy had quitted them, and gone to Strasburg.

cretly maintained them during exile, but even hoped that the whole of the English nation, without consulting the king's feelings, would in a short time become Lutherans, by means of Luther's New Testament, which they had translated into the English language. They had come to Cologne, that they might forward many thousand printed copies of the Testament thus translated, secreted under other goods, into England. Such was their confidence in the success of this attempt, that at their first interview they ordered the printers to put six thousand copies to press ; but fearing that a great loss would be sustained if the enterprise failed, they agreed to print only three thousand, it being easy, if they sold well, to print another edition. Pomeranus had already sent letters to the saints among the English, and Luther himself had written to the king. When he supposed that the New Testament would soon appear, such was his delight, that he inflated his followers with vain expectations, and they became intoxicated with joy, and revealed the secret before due time with their useless boasting." The narrative goes on to state, that Cochlaeus, having prepared an edition of Rupert's Commentary on Matthew, went to Cologne to superintend the printing of it, and happening to employ the same printers, he heard such whispers as led this divine to ply some of the workmen with drink, and while intoxicated, he drew from them their master's secret. His narrative thus continues—"Here having become better acquainted with the printers, he hears them occasionally ejaculate over the glass with confidence — let the English king and cardinal be willing or not, all England shall in a short space of time become Lutherans. He heard also that two Englishmen there, LEARNED, ELOQUENT, AND SKILLED IN LANGUAGES, made it a matter of exultation, but he never found an opportunity of seeing or speaking to them. Having invited some of the printers to his house, when they had become heated with wine, one of them in private conversation revealed to him the secret, how England was to be brought to Luther's side ; namely, three thousand copies of Luther's New Testament, translated into English, were printing, and that they had already advanced as far as signature K, in fours. That the cost would be abundantly supplied by the English merchants, who would secretly convey the work, when finished, throughout all England, and extensively distribute it before the king or the cardinal (Wolsey) could know of or prevent it. Cœchlæus, agitated with fear and wonder, outwardly dissembled his sadness, but soon revolving sorrowfully in his mind the extent of the danger, he devised means to paralyze this effort. He went privately to Herman Rinck, Bart., a counsellor and senator of Cologne, who was personally acquainted with the emperor and with the king of England, and opened to him the whole affair, as (thanks to the wine) he had discovered it. The baronet, to satisfy himself that the information was correct, sent a man to search the house where the work was carried on ; the printer acknowledged that it was in hand, and that a quantity of paper was purchased for it. Upon this he went to the senate, and obtained an injunction, forbidding the printer to proceed. The two English heretics taking with them the printed sheets, escaped and sailed up the Rhine to Worms, where the people were immoderately in favour of Luther, that they might there finish their undertaking. Rinck and Cœchlæus admonished the king, the cardinal, and the bishop about these proceedings, that all diligence might be used to stop this pernicious merchandize from entering any of the English ports. It is reported that Lord C. Tunstall, a most learned man, at that time bishop of London but now of Durham, when he had obtained one of these copies, declared to a great assembly in London that he had found upwards of two thousand errors and corruptions in that book."

This is the narrative of an eye-witness of repute, given to the world in 1549, at which time its accuracy was not questioned. But the slight regard given it by Lewis, led Mr. Offor to Cologne in 1830, to ascertain if possible its accuracy on the ground. His researches into the archives, which were kindly aided by the city secretary, Mr. Vaux, and others, brought to light the identical Herman Rinck, a senator in 1526, and faithfully answering to his portrait by Cochlaeus. The printer's house, the scene of the drama, was pointed out by these gentlemen, who themselves saw no reason to doubt the story of Luther's biographer.

The printers, it is curious to observe, speake of this English New Testament, as a translation from Luther; and hence perhaps the assertion has come, which is sometimes made, that Tyndale did not translate from the Original. But Lutheran was then the common by-word of reproach; and it was one of the artifices of monkish zeal to give out that the heretics, so styled, had invented two new languages which they called Hebrew and Greek*—that all who studied Hebrew became Jews—and that the New Testament was a modern invention by Luther. Every new version therefore was naturally enough called by his name, however faithfully made from the Greek. Tyndale, however, to whom the latter language was familiar from his youth, would have found it quite a different affair to cope with the German. Any rumours, however, to the discredit of his, as a second-hand version, will be utterly exposed by a minute and careful comparison of the text with the Greek,† the Latin Vulgate, and Luther's German; though who can doubt that he availed himself of all aids within his reach, in the difficulties that would arise; of which, conference

* Sir Thomas More relates a curious instance of the ignorance of a learned monk:—"A lerned prieste thorow out all ye gospels scraped out diabolus and wrote Jesus Cristus, bycause he thought the deuyls name was not mete to stande in so good a place." If this learned monk understood Latin, how would he, after such an alteration, read Matt. xiii. 39, or 1 John iii. 8? — Confutation, p. 126.

† In his Preface to the "Obedience of a Christian Man," Tyndale writes like one at home in the Original languages. The Greeke tongue agreeth more with the Englysshe than with the Latyne, and the properties of the Hebrue tongue agreeth a thousand tymes more with ye Englysshe than with the Latyne."

with the great lights among his Reformed brethren, was not by a wise man to be neglected.

Many pirated editions of this book were printed by the Dutchmen, particularly at Antwerp; but gain being all that was thought of, carelessly and incorrectly enough. The most accurate was by the exile, George Joy; who however privately corrupted the text, for which he afterwards apologized. This edition was printed by the widow of Christopher of Endhoven in Antwerp: her husband had died in an English prison for selling a pirated edition in 1531. Three years previously, John Raymond, a Dutchman, severely suffered, for causing 1500 of Tyndale's New Testament to be printed at Antwerp, one third of which were conveyed into England. The price at which they were usually sold, was thirteen pence for the small editions, and half-a-crown with the glosses; a sum more considerable than at this day it appears.

The first of Tyndale's editions is a small 8vo. handsomely printed: it consists of 336 leaves, of which 333 contain the text, the epistle to the reader and the errata filling the rest. Of this book only two known copies remain: one, wanting forty-eight leaves, in the Cathedral Library of St. Paul's; the other, from which through the public spirit and liberal tender of the principal of that college, the present edition is printed, adorns the Baptist Library at Bristol. This rare and precious volume is in the most beautiful preservation, the cuts emblazoned, and every leaf ornamented, as if intended for presentation to some royal or noble personage: the title, if it ever had one, is lost. The type is a neat German character, similar to that of Hans Luft, who, at Wyttenburg, and at Marburg, printed nearly all Tyndale's works. This literary gem was first discovered by John Murray, one of Lord Oxford's collectors, who generously rewarded him with a life-annuity of twenty pounds, paying him the first year in advance. Lord Oxford dying in 1741, while the annuity was still unexpired, his library was bought by Mr. Osborne, who, unconscious of the treasure in his hands, sold it to the celebrated collector, Mr. Ames, for fifteen shillings. Thence at his death [1760] it passed into the hands of Mr. John Whyte for fourteen guineas and a half ; and from him, after sixteen years possession, into those of Dr. Gifford, at the advanced price of twenty. From 1784, it has reposed in the Baptist Museum at Bristol, to which it was left by the Doctor, then librarian of the British Museum.

The edition with marginal glosses* was an elegant small 4to. with handsome cuts. The portion which has been discovered was printed at Cologne ; but probably the volume was completed at Worms. A fragment, containing the prologue and the gospel of Matthew to the twenty-second chapter, is in the possession of Mr. Thomas Rodd, an English bookseller, who has long promised it to the public, accompanied with much curious information. The prologue (of seven leaves) has been several times re-published under the title of “A Pathway into the Scriptures, by Tyndale,” but the liberties taken with it, both in the way of omission and addition, make it an abuse of his name. To what the variations in the text from the 8vo. edition amount, let the reader judge from the few that follow ; being the most material of the twenty-eight—the sum total—found in this fragment.

The specimens observe the order of the two editions ; the 8vo. 1526 (that contained in the following volume) standing first, the 4to. in crotchetts.

* Two or three specimens will give a fair idea of these glosses. With the earliest circulation of the New Testament, the English prelates were untiringly active to destroy what they alleged to be the prolific seed of heresy. Tunstall, bishop of London, already mentioned, led the way with his "injunction" to this end. Having set forth in the preamble "that many children of iniquitie, mayntayners of Luther's sect," "wandring from the way of truth and the catholike fayth, craftily have translated the New Testament into our English tongue, intermeddling therewith many hereticall articles and erroneous opinions, pernicious and offensive, seducing the simple people, attempting by their perverse interpretations to prophanate the maiestie of the scripture, which have hitherto remained undefiled," it proceeds, that "many books of the same imprinted, some with glosses, and some without, containing in the English tongue that pestiferous and most pernicious poyson, are dispersed throughout all our diocesse of London in great number, which without doubt will contaminate and infect the flocke committed to us," "to the grievous peril and danger of their soules, and the offence of God's divine maiestie," and ends with a requirement to deliver up all such copies "within thirtie days to our Vicar generall under pain of excommunication and incurring the suspicion of here-sie."

In February, 1527, Sebastian Harris, curate of Kensington, was proceeded against for this offence. But the bishop, impatient of such a snail-paced process, attempted the wholesale destruction of them by a stratagem in which, as is well known, he singularly outwitted himself. He deputed Packington, a merchant, and an acquaintance of Tyndale, to buy up for him all the copies of the latter Testament. “The bishop thinking that he had God by the too, when in dede he had (as after he thought) the devil by the fiste, said, gentle maister Packington, do your diligence, and get them, and with al my hart I will paye for them, whatsoever thei cost you, for the bokes are erronious and naughte, and I entend surely to destroy them all, and to burne theim at Paules Crosse. Tyndale sold him the books, saying, I shal gett moneye of hym for these bokes, to bryng myself out of debt, and the whole world shall cry out upon the burning of Goddes worde. And the overplus of the money that shal remain to me, shal make me more studious to correct the sayd New Testament, and so newly to imprint the same. And so forwarde went the bargain, the byshop had the bokes, Packyngton the thankes, and Tyndale had the money.” Afterwards, more New Testaments came thick and threefold into England. Sir Thomas More questioned George Constantine, a prisoner for heresy, how Tyndale and his friends were supported ; and he frankly told the lord chancellor, “It is the bishop of London that hath holpen vs, for he hath bestowed emonge vs a great deale of moneye in Newe Testaments to burne theim, and that hath been and yet is our onely succour and comfort.”* The destruction of these books, erroneously geven by Lord Herbert as on the 4th of May 1530, took place in 1528.

The Reformers were driven to a secret circulation of these silent agents of the truth ; in which they succeeded to a great degree, in despite of the efforts of More, Wolsey and Tonstall. Richard Herman, a merchant of the staple at Antwerp, was a considerable exporter of the prohibited books to England, at a great sacrifice of his fortune. Dr. Barnes and Mr. Fish dispensed them in London, Mr. Garret at Oxford, and pious reformers in every part of the kingdom : and all, in a confidence that was seldom betrayed.

Early in 1527, the Bishop proceeded into Essex to observe the effects of his proclamation ; and examining the suspected in his course. Some of the depositions may be seen below.*

The usual arguments of the Church were reserved for those who set at nought the proclamation by reading the proscribed book. An aged labourer, father Harding, being seen thus occupied by a wood side, while his more fashionable neighbours were gone to hear mass ; his house was broken open, English books of holy scripture were found under the flooring boards, and the poor old man was hurried to prison, and in due course, to the stake.

This rage for extirpating, as might be foreseen, inflamed curiosity in those who were unacquainted with the books in question, and endeared possession, in those who were. The sense of religious privileges is never so sure to rise to a passionate and tenacious regard, as when they can be safely enjoyed only by stealth. And old Harding, who had many years before been imprisoned for heresy, and knew that a second offence was beyond mercy ; may, without much ef-

* John Tyball first saw the New Testament in English about April, 1526, and at Michaelmas following came to London, and bought one for three shillings and two-pence of friar Barons, requesting that he would keep it close ; that in conversation the friar made a twyte of the manuscript copies, and said : “ A point for them, for they are not to be regarded toward the new printed Testament in English.” John Necton was directed by vicar Constantine in November, 1526, to Mr Fish, of whom he bought twenty or thirty copies of the great volume ; that Constantine had fifteen or sixteen of the biggest, and sold five or six to persons in London ; and that about Easter, 1526, he bought of G. Usher, servant to the parson of Honey-lane, eighteen New Testaments of the small volume ; and about Christmas, 1527, a Dutchman, who in Easter following was a prisoner in the Fleet, offered him 300 copies for 16*l.* 5*s.* : this was probably John Raimund.

fort of imagination, be thought in his humble cottage, and in secret communion with the precious and forbidden book, to hear with a kindred fervour to that in which the words were spoken, the voice of the inspired writer, speaking peculiarly him, " Eat, O friend, drink, yea drink abundantly, O beloved."

Fines, imprisonment and death for reading the New Testament were now the order of the day. Lawrence Staple was persecuted in 1531 for concealing four copies in his sleeve and giving them to Bilney, who was afterwards martyred. Staple escaped by abjuring. John Tyndale the brother of William, and Thomas Patmore, both merchants, had their doom from the Star Chamber court; but a milder one than that of Harding. It was, " That each of them should be set upon a horse, and their faces to the horse's tail, and to have papers upon their heads, and upon their gowns or cloaks to be tacked or pinned with the said New Testaments and other books, and at the standard in Chepe should be made a great fire, whereinto every of them should throw their said books, and farther to abide such fines to be paid to the king as should be assessed upon them."* The fine, according to Fox, was to a ruinous amount.

The arm of Wolsey was long enough to be felt even at Antwerp. Richard Herman, a merchant and citizen, " for that he dyd bothe with his goodis and pollicie, to his great hurt and hyn-derans in this world, helpe to the settynge forthe of the Newe Testament in Englisse," was expelled from his freedom in the company of British merchants. He was restored by an order from Anne Boleyn under her hand and seal, May 14, 1535.†

The natural result of the interdict is told by the annalist Hollinshed, with great simplicity. " Diuers persons that were detected to vse reading of the New Testament, set forth by Tindale, were punished by order of Sir T. More, who helde greatly against such booke, but still the number of them dayly encreased."

* State paper, British Museum.

† Idem.

The auto da Fe, not of Tyndale, but his book, found apologists among the ablest champions of Rome, more than half a century after. Dr. Martin, reader of divinity to the College at Douay, says: "The Catholike church of our countrie did not il to forbid and burne such booke which were so translated by Tyndal and the like, as being not in deede God's booke, word, or scripture, but the diuels word."* To which Fulke replied, "Neither can your heathenish and barbarous burning of the holy scripture so translated, nor your blasphemie in calling it the Deuils worde, be excused for any fault in translation which you have discouered as yet, or euer shall be able to descrye."

To the fiery test, Tyndale often adverts with a sort of presentiment, as if the fate of the book might be typical of his own. "Some man wil aske parauenture why I take the laboure to make this worke, in so moch as they will brunne it, seinge they brunt the gospel. I answere in brunninge the New Testamente they did none other thinge then I loked for, no more shal they doo if the brunne me also, if it be Gods will it shall be so."† At the close of one of his most interesting tracts, he says, "Whoso fyndythe or redythe this letter, put it furthe in examynacyon, and suffre it not to be hydde or destroyed, but multyplied, for no man knoweth what proffyt may come thereof. For he that compiled it, purposyth with Goddes helpe to mayntayne vnto the deathe, yf neade be. And therefore all Christen men and women, praye that the worde of God maye be vnbounde, and delyuerged from the power of Antichrist, and renne amonge his people. Amen."‡

The first of which he complained being, that a simple preacher might be the means of a sinner's conversion, and had the same power of binding and loosing as a pope, cardinal, or bishop. Again, "that the scripture in Englisse wold make sedition, brede errorrs and heresies, and so be euell." Joy replied : " Wo be to you that say that thing which is good to be euell, and that which is sweet to be bitter."—" Thus is the holye, cleare, good and swete gospell of Christe belyed and blasphemed of you. It is only unsavery, kovered and darke to you that peryshe." An anecdote by the church historian Fuller, shows that there were not wanting counterparts to the rancour of the clergy, in civil life. " When Tyndale's translation came over to England, O how were the popish clergy cut to the heart. How did their blear eyes smart at the shining of the Gospel in the vulgar tongue. Hall heard the town clerk of London swear a great oath, that he would cut his own throat rather than the Gospel should be read in English, but he brake promes and hanged himself."

Robert Ridley, a priest,* wrote " to master Henry Golde, chaplayne to my lorde of Canterbury," a letter in which he uses language in all probability current at the time. " No man would receaue a gospell of soch damned and practised heretikes, thow it were trew." He seems to have read the edition with glosses. “ More’s well refuted arguments proclaim,
 Tyndale’s great honor, his adversaries shame,
 He was the shield of truth, the scourge of error,
 This Island’s triumph, and proud Babel’s terror.”

THE CONTROVERSIAL WRITINGS OF SIR THOMAS MORE AGAINST TYNDALE, WITH EXTRACTS, ILLUSTRATING THEIR ABILITY AND TEMPER—TYNDALE’S ACCOUNT OF HIS TRANSLATION OF THE NEW TESTAMENT—HIS MOTIVES AND PURITY OF INTENTION—HE PUBLISHES MANY WORKS.

To check the march of the English reformer was thought to call for the selectest spirits which the ancient faith could muster ; and the fertile wit and great genius of Sir Thomas More were therefore enlisted in the controversy. Betaking himself to the usual strong-holds of his mother the church, he asserted that the written word was not the whole revealed will of God, but that the unwritten traditions of the church are of equal authority. His mode of arguing to prove this important point is “ I take it : that the word of God vnwryten is of as greate authoryte, as certayn, and as sure, as ys hys worde wryten in the Scrypture, which poynt is so faste and sure, pytched vpon the rocke, our sauour Chryst hymself, that neyther Luther, Tyndale, nor Huskyn, nor all the hell houndes that the deuyll hath in his kenell, neuer hytherto could nor whyle god lyueth in heuen and the deuyll lyeth in hell neuer hereafter shall (barke they, bawle they neuer so fast) be able to wreste it out.”* He is equally gentle when speaking of the opinions of the reformers on other points.

* Apology, f. 32 ; Confutation, fol. 176.

" All apparycyons they mocke at, and all the myracles they blaspheme, and say the deuyll doeth all,—as yf the deuyll had (with) his owne handes marked eche of them an .H. in the forehede with a fayre hote yron fet out of the fyre of hell."* Such are the words of the learned, witty, and eloquent More, and to whom, in despite of many such, we can not yet deny the epithet of a great man. Tyndale destroys this visionary castle of Tradition,† by a simple but effectual argument ;—in effect, that the written word of God is his revealed will, perfect as its Divine Author, who was incapable of misstatement or omission, and who has pronounced all to be accursed, who add to or take from his will as revealed.

The great Lord Chancellor published nine controversial volumes against Tyndale and Barnes, chiefly the former, four of these being in folio ! Formidable as they may seem, they are not without interest to an antiquary. The character of that eminent man, their author, is oddly made up of contrasts : a witty companion, but a stern fanatic ; fond in his own household circle, but lording it with an iron rod, over God's heritage ; an enlightened statesman, ably arguing in his study

They form a small 8vo. volume of extreme rarity, by Dr. Richard Smyth, the celebrated popish reader of divinity in Oxford, imprinted by Thomas Petit, 1547. These traditions, the learned Dr. gravely tells us, "we must both beleue stedfastly, and also fulfill obediently vnder peyne of damnation euer to endure. They are—the sacrament of the Lord's supper, only to be given by a priest—to be taken fasting—the wine to have water mingled with it—the consecration of the elements—to be kept in the pyxe or boxe at church—prayers for the dead—christening of infants, which necessary thinge hangeth onely vpon the apostles tradition wythout anye scripture that can prove it"—singing in public worship—praying towards the east—elevating and worshipping the host—making the sign of the cross—worshipping the crucifix—observing and not fasting on Sunday—keeping Easter and holydays—putting pictures and images in churches—fasting in Lent and on every Wednesday and Friday—holy water—priests not to marry—Mary continued a virgin until death, and that her body is in heaven."—Dr. Smith was appointed to argue with Bp. So persevering was his warfare upon Tyndale, that his early biographer compares the exiled reformer to a hunted hare with twenty brace of grey-hounds after him. The dignified clergy, in gratitude to this Atlas of their falling hierarchy, raised the sum of five thousand pounds, which they pressed upon his acceptance ; but to his honor, in vain. He had a presentiment that the cause, against which he laid himself out, would yet prevail, and said to his son : “ I beseech our Lord, that some

After seeing this degrading cruelty practised upon a gentleman of the Temple, named Bainham, he went to the Tower to glut his eyes with the writhing of his prisoner upon the rack.—Bayley's Tower.

His words breathe out cruelty : “ There shold haue ben more burned by a great many than there haue ben wythin this seuen yere laste passed. The lakke whereof I fere me will make more burned within this seuen yere next commynge, then ellys sholde haue neded to haue ben burned in seuen score.” This was for differing in religious sentiments.—Confutation, p. 266.

MORE, THE AUTHOR.

Extracts from Utopia, or the Happy Republic :—

“ Slavery is the punishment even of the greatest crimes.—Utopus seemed to doubt whether those different forms of religion might not all come from God, who might inspire men differently, he being possibly pleased with a variety in it. And so he thought it was a very indecent and foolish thing for any man to frighten and threaten other men to believe any thing because it seemed true to him : he reckoned that the force of truth would break forth and shine by the force of argument and a winning gentleness : they do not punish them, because they lay this down as a ground, that a man cannot make himself believe any thing he pleases ; nor do they drive any to dissemble their thoughts by threatenings, so that men are not tempted to lie or disguise their opinions among them ; which being a sort of fraud, is abhorred by the Utopians.”

of us, as high as we seme to sitt vpon the mountains treadinge hereticks vnder our fete like antes, live not the day to be at league and composition with them.”*

More’s ablest work against Tyndale, was his first, and is called A Dialogue. A nobleman sends his friend to Sir Thomas, for counsel how to check opinions which were gaining in the country against the Romish church ; “ of pylgrymages —ymages—prayer to saints—myracles—tradicions—infallibility—cruelty to hereticks—burning the New Testament—and prohibiting books, called Lutheran.” All these topics were, without doubt, shrewdly discussed throughout the kingdom. The chief aim of the dialogue manifestly is, to serve as an apology for that high-handed act, the burning of Tyndale’s volume : “ The people say that all this gere is done but onely to stoppe menes mouthes, and to put euery man to sylence that wold any thynge speke of the fautes of the clargye. And they thynke that for none other cause was also burned at Poules crosse the new Testament late translated in englysshe by mayster Wyllyam Huchyn, otherwyse called Mayster Tyndall, who was (as men say) well knownen or he wente ouer the see, for a man of ryght good lyuying, studious and well lerned in Scrypture, and in dyuers places in England was very well lyked, and dyd gret good with prechynge. And men mutter amonge themselfe that the boke was not onely faultes, but also very well translated, and was deuyssad to be burned, bycause men sholde not be able to prove that suche fautes (as were at Poules crosse declared to haue bene founde in it) were neuer founde in dede, but vntruely surmysed.† * * * * * And for to kepe out of the people’s handes all knowledges of Crystys gospell, and of goddys lawe, excepte soo moche onely as the clergye theymselfe lyste nowe and than to tell vs. And that lytell as it is and seldom shewed, yet as it is fered not well and truely tolde, but watered with false gloses, and altered from the trouth of the very wordes of scrypture only for y^e mayntenaunce of theyr authoryte. ¶ And the fere lest this thynge sholde euydently appere to the people, yf they were suffered to rede the scrypture them selfe in theyr own tonge was (as it is thought) the very cause not onely for whiche the newe testament translated by Tyndale was burned, but also that the clargye of this realme hath before this tyme, by a constytucyon prouencyall prohybyted any boke of scrypture to be translated into the Englyshe tonge, feryng men with fyre as heretyques who so sholde presume to kepe them, as though it were heresye for a crysten man to rede crystys gospell."

This picture of public opinion, from the hand of the "defender of the faith" we naturally conclude, is not overdrawn. Its admissions are deeply interesting, and show the excited state of the public mind. In the third book of his dialogues, More comes to that part of his plea for burning the version which he rests upon its multitudinous errors. "To tell all wold be to reherse the hole boke" and "to search for one faute would be like studying where to fynde water in the see. His imagination seems to be quite vivacious on this head. "As it were as sone done to a weue a new web of cloth as to sow up every hole in a net, so were it almost as lytell labour and lesse to translate y^e hole books all newe than attempt to correct it." At length his budget of blunders is opened, and behold three! "prestes of Crystes chyrche he calleth senyours—Chyrche he calleth congregation—and charyte he calleth alway love." Such strictures hardly lead us to set down scriptural criticism as having any place in the wide circle of his endowments; but there are weaker points yet in his attack, which evince a captious littleness wholly at variance with his genius. Tyndale's rule of obedience to the king was: "A crysten man is bounden to obey even tyranny, yf it be not agaynst his fayth, nor the law of god, tyll god delyuer hym therof." Of More's reply, what will the reader think? He admits that the Apostle expresses exactly the same idea,—“‘we muste rather please god than man,’ which is well sayd of the apostle, but to be said of Tyndale, a heretic, it is a playne exhortacyon to rebellion.”

The word “senior” was taken from the Latin Vulgate. Mr. Offor says that Tyndale admitted it to be not explicit enough and that he should prefer the word ELDER.* But the most obnoxious term was “congregation,” substituted for church. For this however he had royal precedents; Henry himself, in a proclamation and in the six articles penned by his own hand, having combined the two words thus—“the congregation of the church of England.” The term congregation was defensible enough in the case of both, since “the church” in common acceptation, answered neither to the place of worship nor to the company of worshippers, but was simply the distinctive epithet of the clergy. This latter word however, understood as meaning all professing christians, displaced the former throughout, in the Genevan and Bishops’ Bible, of the Elizabethan age—as well as in the Received translation which followed.

To the three capital errors of Tyndale before-named, More does indeed elsewhere adduce some others; such as “knowledgyng” substituted for “confession,” and “repentance” for “penance:” he lays it down as an evident principle of his, that “he wolde make y^e people byleue that we sholde beleue nothyng but playne scrypture in whych poynte he techeth a playne pestylent heresye.” It is admitted, however, “that a nother man translatynge the testament, and beyng good and faythfull, myghte haue vsed happily those chaunges wythout euyll meanyng or any suspicion therof;”† and his extravagant tirade reaches its climax with declaring, that “yt is enough for good cristen men that know those thynges for heresyes, to abhorre and burne vppe his bokes and the lykers of them with them!"

* But he quotes no words of Tyndale to this effect, and we may reasonably doubt his statement. Why indeed, if he “preferred,” did he not adopt it? seeing that (according to him) the vulgar taste, deference to which in so many instances doubtless, leaves a translator at a stand, here accorded with his own.

Sir Thomas, to deter the people from the reading of Tyndale, not only uses such persuasive arguments as this last, but entertains us with a specimen of his gift for humour, by summoning to the scene the ghost of an eminent father. But the poor shade had been so roughly treated on a former attack, that he very prudently refused to venture again: "When I desired Origene to take the Payne to come and bere wytnesse wyth me in thys mater, he semed at the first very well content. But when I told hym that he sholde mete with Tyndale: he blessed hymselfe and shranke bakke, and sayde he had leuer go some other waye many a mile then onys medle with hym. For I shall tell you syr, quod he, before thys tyme a ryght honorable man very connyng and yet more vertuouse, the good bysshopp of Rochester, in a great audyence brought me in for a wytnes against Luther and Tyndale, euen in this same mater, about the tyme of the burnynge of Tyndalys euyll translated testament. But Tyndale, as soon as he herd of my name, without any respecte of honestye, fell in a rage wyth me, and all to rated me, and called me starke heretyke, and that the starkest that euer was. Thys tale Orygene told me, and swore by saynt Symkyn that he was neuer so sayed vnto of such a lewde felowe synnys he was fyrste borne of hys mother, and therfore he wolde neuer medle wyth Tyndale more. Now, indeede, to saye the treuth yt were not well done of Tyndale to leue resonynge and fall a scoldyng, chydynge, and brawlynge, as it were a bawdy begger of Byllyter-lane. Fy for shame, he sholde fauored and forborne hym somwhat, and yt had bene but for his age. For Origene is nowe xij. hundred yere olde or there aboute, and this was not mych aboue viij yeres synnys."* We may suppose with what gravity and easy trust such a story would be received by the wondering and simple populace, when told on the authority of the great Lord Chancellor, backed by that of the priests.

This reflection on the vituperative temper of Tyndale, his adversary cunningly places in the mouth of Origen, from which it would come with a better grace than from his own. An intelligent Romanist, in that rare volume “Salem and Bizez,” [1533] complains very seriously that More calleth those with whom he differed “sometyme desperate wretches, sometyme sterke heretykes, and other whyles he calleth them the blessed brotherhode, or the newe broched bretherne, or the euangelical bretherne, and the principal doers he calleth pothed postels, naughtee bretherne, or heretike brethern—these be strange names deuised after a merueilous railing fashion, wherein I thinke verely he dothe not as he wolde be done to.”

There was little to choose, on this score, between most of the disputants of that day :—it was rare for one of them to become conscious of offending against good manners or good temper, and rarer, if he did, to find him much concerned about his vindication. In this particular controversy, Tyndale, it is likely, had little, if any advantage, over his lofty opponent ; but it is hardly worth while to exhibit to the same extent the style of his invective. To take an example at random,—he says, speaking of unmeaning ceremonies, “a man will as soon gape while thou puttest sand as holy salt in his mouth, yf thou shew hym no reason therof ; he had as leyffe be smered with vnhallowed butter as anoynted with charmed* oyle, yf his soule be not taught to vnderstande somewhat therby.” This was a poser to Sir Thomas, whose anger dictated his reply : “ Ah blasphemouse beste, to whose rorynge and lowynge no good crysten man can with out heuynes of heart gyue ere. Now foloweth yt also that yf the sacrament were as good vnmynistred as mynistred to who so euer is not taught the proper sygnifycacyons of the outward token in the sacrament, as Tyndale here vnder a blasphemous iestynge fasshyon telleth vs : then foloweth yt, I saye, that there was neuer chylde crystened synnys crystendome fyrst begane, but that yt hadde bene as good to haue lefte it vncrystened, and neuer to haue let water touche yt, bycause yt coulde not be taught what the water sygnified.”* A grave subject indeed, to those who considered that the parental neglect of the rite would entail endless misery upon the child.

To neutralize the effect of his adversary’s labours, More sometimes resorts to means of which a Protestant can hardly complain ; means, at least, which there is reason to count the extreme point of fairness, with controversialists as a body, even in later times. He “ wolde aduyse any man neither to rede these heretykes bokes nor mine, but occupy theyr myndes better, and standynge fermely by the catholyke faith of this .xv. C. yere, neuer onys muse vpon these newe fangled heresies ; but if at the parell of daynger to burne both here and in hell, he cannot hold his yechynge fyngers frome theyre poysened bokes, then wold I counsayle hym in any wyse to rede therwith such thynges as are wrytten agaynst them.” But this is only an occasional touch of impartiality or mildness, and he appears most in his element as in former citations ; or, when maintaining that “ Tyndale’s heresies farre exceed and passe : and incomparably offende the maiestie of our Lorde God, than all the settynge vppe of Bell, and Baal, and Belzabub, and all the deuyls in hell,” and that the king, of whose conscience he perhaps felt himself to be keeper, “ would lose his own soul, if he suffered Tyndale’s Testament in his people’s hands.

The pitiable infatuation of Sir Thomas as to the real, critical merits of the work upon which we have been dwelling, recalls involuntarily to mind the far different estimate expressed of it by a Romanist, nearly of our own time ; one, with the freedom of whose speculations we have here no concern, but from whose decisions, in his chosen walk of learning, it would not be easy to find a fit court of appeal. “ With respect to

* Confutation, folio 36.

Tyndale's translation, it is astonishing how little obsolete the language of it is, even at this day ; and, in point of perspicuity and noble simplicity, propriety of idiom and purity of style, no English version has yet surpassed it. The criticisms of those who wrote against it (we are sorry to find Sir Thomas More among them) are generally too severe, often captious, and sometimes evidently unjust.”* He says, in another connection, that but for the corrupt state, at that time, of the Hebrew text, from which his translation, (so far as it went,) of the Old Testament was made, he should have been disposed to adopt it as the basis of his own.

His resolute and well-sorted ally, John Fryth, took up the gauntlet in his behalf, a short time before his martyrdom ; of whose style and spirit the reader may not dislike to see a specimen. “ And Tyndale I truste lyueth : well contente with such pore apostles lyfe, as God gae hys sonne Christ, and hys faythal mynsters in thys worlde, whych is not sure of so many mytes as you [Sir Thomas More] be yearely of many poundes, although I am sure that for hys learnynge and iudgement in scripture, he were more worthye to be promoted then all the byshoppes in Englande. I receyued a letter from hym, which was wrytten sens Christmas, wherin among other matters he wryteth thus : I call God to recorde agaynst the daye we shall appeare before our Lorde Jesus Christ to geue reckonyng of oure doinges, that I neuer altered one syllable of Godes worde agaynst my conscyence, nor wolde do thys daye, yf all that is in earthe, whether it be honoure, pleasure, or ryches myght be geuen me.” Fryth adds, “ Judge, good Christen reader, whether these words be not spoken of a faythfull, clere, and innocent herte. And as for hys behauyoure is such, that I am sure no man can reprove hym of any synne, howbeit no man is innocent before God whych beholdeþ the herte.”

Of his motives he speaks himself in the prologue to the 4to. Testament with glosses, 1526. “ I haue here translated (brethren and sisters, moost dere and tenderly beloued in Christ) the Newe Testament for youre spirituall edyfyinge, consolacion, and solas : the causes that moved me to translate, y thought better that other shulde ymagion, then that y shulde rehearce them. Moreover y supposed yt superfluous, for who ys so blynde to axe why lyght shulde be shewed to them that walke in dercknes, where they cannot but stomble, and where to stomble ys the daunger of eternall damnacion, other so despyghtfull that he would envye eny man (y speake nott his brother) so necessary a thinge, or so bedlem madde to affyrme that good is the naturall cause of yuell, and derknes to procede oute of lyght, and that lyinge shulde be grounded in trougth and verytie and nott rather clene contrary, that lyght destroyeth dercknes, and veritie reproveth all manner lyinge."

The most valuable of his own compositions, The Obedience of a Christian Man, came out in 1528. He maintains in the preface, at some length, the necessity of a free circulation of the Scriptures in the vernacular language of every country ; and after his christian salutations, proceeds : " Let it not make thee dispayre, neither yet discourage thee (oh reader) that it is forbidden thee in peyne of lyfe and goodes, or that it is made breakynge of the kynges peace, or treason vnto his highnes, to reade y^e worde of thy soules health. But much rather be bolde in the lorde and comfort thy soule. For as much as thou art sure and haste an euydent token thorow suche persecutyon, that it is the true worde of God, which worde is euer hated of the worlde." He argues, from the case of the Jews, who received the scriptures, from time to time, in their own tongue ; from Jerome's implied concurrence in his position, when with much pains he prepared the Latin version ; and from the gross darkness which has covered the people since the scriptures have been withheld. " The curates, alas, themselves, for the moost part, wotte no more what the Newe or Olde Testament meaneth, than do the Turkes."—" Moreouer seynge that one of you euer preacheth contrary to a nother. And whan two of you mete, the one disputeth and brauleth with the other, as it were two scoldes. And for as moche as one holdeth this doctor, and another that, one followeth Duns,* and another S. Thomas," &c., enumerating fifteen different sects in the then Roman Catholic church in England, he adds, " In so great dyuersyte of spyrites howe shal I knowe who lyeth and who sayeth trueth : wherby shall I trye them and iudge them ? Verely by Goddes worde, which onely is true. But how shall I that do, when thou wylte not let me se the scrypture ? " He winds up this interesting preface with a serious charge, of which we might like to know in what way his adversaries parried or eluded it. " Fynally that the threatening and forbyddynge the laye people to rede the scrypture is not for loue of your soules (which they care for as the foxe doeth for the gese) is euydent and clerer than the sonne, in as moche as they permytte and suffre you to reade Robin Hode, and Beuys of Hampton, Hercules, Hector and Troylus, with a thousande hystoryes and fables of loue and wantones,† and of rybaudrye, as fylthy as herte can thynke, to corrupte the myndes of youth with all, clene contrary to the doctryne of Chryst and of his apostles."

The zeal of Tyndale's enemies to keep this book from the king, as often happens, overshot itself ; it fell into his hands. Anne Boleyn had lent her copy to one of the ladies in waiting, who was attached to a handsome page, named Zouch ; he playfully seized the book, and ran away with it to the chapel, as a secure place for private reading ; but Dr. Sampson caught him before he could conceal the proscribed treasure, and with severe threats carried it away to Cardinal Wolsey. The queen asking for her book, the lady fell on her knees, and told what had happened ; when the amiable princess kindly raised her, saying, it shall be the dearest book the cardinal has got. She went to the king, and told him the conduct of the doctor and cardinal. Henry immediately called for the stolen volume, when she with irresistible tenderness besought the king to examine its contents, with which he affected to be deeply taken, from his remark, "This book is for me and all kings to read."

During this time Tyndale was unceasingly active in publishing a number of tracts and books,* which, though small in size, were mighty in pulling down the strongholds of superstition in England. Having finished, in 1529, his translation of the first books of the Old Testament, he commenced their publication in separate tracts, with ornamental wood-cuts, and with notes, which gave great offence to the clergy. When the manuscript of Deuteronomy was ready for the press, thus completing the Pentateuch, a severe and trying dispensation of Providence awaited him. Purposing to print it at Hamburgh, on his way thither he was shipwrecked on the coast of Holland, and lost his books, money, and manuscript; happy in so escaping, for it was a special mercy that he was not thrown on the English coast, where, if spared by the sea, it had only been to feed the fires of Smithfield. He continued his journey, and Coverdale having joined him, they repeated their labour on Deuteronomy, and with a pious lady's assistance, Mrs. Van Emmerson, it was printed; thus completing the first portion of the Old Testament in 1530. At Hamburgh, the same providence which preserved him in shipwreck, armed his body against the pestilence. "They went through the work in safety, while the sweating-sickness swept away thousands in the city with a general mortality; as if the useful sweating of their brains were a preservative against the hurtful sweating of their bodies. And indeed close application to a lawfull calling, is the best antidote against a public infection."* This is the only portion of the Old or New Testament, in the translation of which Tyndale and Coverdale assisted each other.

In the preface to Genesis, he observes, that when he published the New Testament, he desired them that were learned to amend, if ought were found amiss, but that, instead of amending it, the papists have raised an outcry against the translation ; saying there were many thousand heresies in it, so that it could not be mended : if even an i lacked a tittle over his head, it was noted to the ignorant people for an heresy. "A thousand books had they lever to be put forth against their abominable doings and doctrine, than that the scripture should come to light." "Which thing only moved me to translate the New Testament. Because I had perceived by experience how that it was impossible to establish the lay people in any truth, except the scripture was plainly laid before their eyes in their mother tongue." He humbly submits his Pentateuch to the judgment of Hebrew scholars, and expresses his willingness to have it burnt, if they will first put forth another that shall be found more correct. His writings had by this time been extensively circulated; and began to produce their good fruit sixty or an hundred fold.

Many of these tracts are now lost, and probably may never be again recovered. The great object which he endeavours to illustrate through all his works is the important difference between the Old and the New Testaments or Covenants. No man of that age, nor perhaps down to the present, had clearer or juster sentiments upon this very important subject ; the former dispensation, pointing by signs and ceremonies to the latter, in which a spiritual but sublime simplicity of worship takes the place of outward pomp and splendour.

CHAPTER IV.

“ Rome tam’d the world, the Pope tam’d Rome so great ;
 Rome rul’d by power, the Pope by deep deceit.
 But, how more large, than theirs, was Tyndale’s fame,
 Who, with his pen, both Pope and Rome doth tame ?”

FR. QUARLES.

TYNDALE’S WORKS GIVE GREAT OFFENCE—SECRETELY CIRCULATED—POPE’S BULL AGAINST THEM—EFFORTS OF HENRY TO SUPPRESS AND DESTROY THEM.

THE corner-stone of popery is the pretended authority of the church, through an immediate and continued descent from the Apostles, together with the claim of being the depository of traditions, alleged to be of equal authority with the written word as a rule of faith. The odium which with the clergy, rested upon Tyndale, chiefly grew out of the efforts with which he had assailed this strong hold. In the Practice of Prelates he proves the fallacy of this plea ; and that it was not until after Christianity had been planted for centuries, that the papacy had birth ; Centuries more passed before it acquired the weight to influence the counsels of Europe, in the shape of crusades and wars, and to prostrate the intellect before the dogmas of the holy church. If inquiry were ventured upon, it was silenced with this reason of faith,—so the church believes ; and this mode of argument is seriously commended for its efficacy in driving away the fiend. “ This is the faith of that cooliar : which being at point of deathe, and tempted of the deuill what his faith was, answered, I beleue and die in the faith of Christes church. Being againe demaunded what the faith of Christ his church was, that faith, saied he, that I beleue in. Thus the deuil getting no other awnswer of the simple man, was ouercomed and put to flight.”* The same learned doctor assigns as his reason for not allowing a translation of scripture : “ For precious stones ought not to be cast before hogges,† and such of all likelihod are the laye ignorant people.”

To excite honest inquiry, guided by the Bible, into a system like this, was the great aim of his writings. He at times brought to his aid pleasant raillery ; as when thus ridiculing abstinence : “ A Charter House monk would rather dye than eat flesh, but he loves the strongest ale or beer heated with spices, and pours it in without measure.” In the observance of holy dayes “ will he kepe so straight, that if he meeete a flee in his bed, he dare not kill her,” but he neither knows nor cares why the day is kept. In the multitude of ceremonies he is always in fear ; for if without a stole about his neck he were to say mass, the wafer would not be consecrated ; if he gave absolution, it were not worth a mite : so their praying to posts, domme pateryng and howlyng ; domme straunge holy gestures ; these all marke a fleshlie spiritualitie, which for eight hundred years has been established with lies.”‡

Sir Thomas More naturally enough wonders at such an inundation of volumes, of which the printing-costs were not the only risks. “ Whych bokes all be yt that they neyther can be there printed without great coste, nor here solde wythout great aduenture and parell ; yet ceace they not with mony sent from hense, to prente them there and send them hyther by y^e whole flettes full at once, and in some places lokynge for noo lucre, caste them abrode by nyght.” Constantine, when in prison, contrived by giving up some of the books to relax the vigilance of his persecutors, and made his escape. “ He deuyssed how those deuylysshe bokes whyche hymself and hys felowes hadde brought and shyppe, myghte come to the byshoppes handes to be burned. And therfore he shewed me the shypmannes name that had them, and the merkes of the ferdellys, by whych I haue sinnys hys escape receyved them.”* Information was laid against R. Webbe of Bristol, “that some of these pestylent bookes were throwen in the strete and leste at mennys dores by nyght, that where they durste not offer theyr poyon to sell, they wolde of theyr cheryte poyon men for nougat.”†

John Fox, the martyrologist, observes, that “the booke of W. Tindal, being compiled, published, and sent to England, it cannot be spoken what a doore of light they opened to the eyes of the whole English nation, which before were many yeares shut vp in darkenesse.” The archives of the London diocese during these troublous times, which by the Bishop’s liberality, have been lately exposed, seem to show, that, very much after the scriptural proverb, the fame of Tyndale was at Rome in advance of “his own country,” or at least of its puissant monarch. The thunders of the Vatican were launched against him so early as 1520. In the records of Bishop Tonstall is preserved a bull dated July 17, (in the eighth year of Leo’s pontificate), on seven closely-written folios, against Luther and his sect. At the end of this formidable instrument, which denounces torment here and eternal fire hereafter against those dread heretics, is a list of their names in the following order:—Luther, Lambertus, Pomeranus, Zuynglius, Ecolampadius, Bucerus, Melanthonus, Carolastadius, Brentius, Jonas, Westemerus, Hendendorphius, Johnes Agricola, Vrbanus Regius, Brestemanning, Andreas Knopken, Simon Hessus, Johnes Wytkyrk, Otton Brymsellius, Willmus Tyndall, Willmus Roy apostata, Ricus Bryghtwell. The three last names are linked together with a note on the right hand, Angli; and on the left, Ordines frm minor de obsuacia de Grenewyche. All these are honoured names: of the Englishman, Tyndale justly takes the lead. More calls him

"this blessed apostle of these apostates."* These records also contain a proclamation issued in the 21st of Henry (1529,) evincing his royal purpose to purge his kingdom. It sets forth, "that books in English and Latin have been circulated throughout the kingdom replete with most venomous heresies, blasphemies and slanders intollerable to the clean ears of any good christen man;" and commands all his lords, spiritual and temporal, judges, sheriffs, etc. etc. to prevent any unlicensed person from preaching or teaching, and to cause all such books to be brought in, on pain of immediate imprisonment. At the end is a list of about ninety Latin and eighteen English books, first the Newe Testament, followed by eleven other of Tyndale's books.

In the library at Lambeth Palace is an original state document,† a curious testimony to show how greatly the imperious Henry with his nobles and clergy had been disquieted by the New Testament in English, and a few little books of a pious preacher in exile. Fox, who was then on the scene, declares that they produced such singular profit to the godly, and envy to the ungodly, that the commotion to destroy them was "like as, at the birth of Christ, Herod and all Jerusalem was troubled with him." Henry had abolished the Pope's jurisdiction; but popery was worth cherishing as the inseparable ally of arbitrary power. He justly feared that emancipation, in one form being achieved, would remind them of what remained to be done in another. Hence the energy with which he engaged in measures, touching no interests more nearly than those which were personal to himself.

The document which suggested this preliminary, occupies eight skins of parchment, closely written on both sides in a very neat and small character, dated May 28, 1530. It was published in presence of the king, his council, and a convocation of clergy, at the palace of Westminster, adjoining to the chambers of the parliament, and witnessed with the attestations and seals of the three parliamentary notaries : such are the imposing solemnities directed against the writings of William Tyndale !

Commencing with a solemn appeal to God, and “ to all trew and faithful cristен people :” it sets forth, that the King, “ hearing that many bookeſ in the English tonge containing many detestable errors and dampnable opynyons, pryncted in parties beyonde the ſee, to be brought into diuerſe towneſ and ſondrie parties of this hiſ realme of Englaude, and ſawen abrode in the ſame, to the great decaye of our faiſte and perylous corrufcione of hiſ people, vñles ſpedye remedye were breuelie prouided. That hiſ ſubiectes myght kepe pure and cleue of all contagion of wronge opynion in Criftes religion, and that he was full lothe to ſuffre ſuiche euill ſede ſowen amongeſt hiſ people, ſoo to take roote, that it myght ouer-groe the corne of the Catholicke fayth.” It goes on to ſtate, that hiſ maſteſty, having collected thoſe books, ſent them to hiſ council, prelateſ, and divers learned men of both universities and others, with iſtructions to read them, and prepare to give their faithful opinions as to the doctriueſ contained in them, which they were to be ready to ſustain by extracts from the ſaid books ;—that thiſ council met at the king’s paſce at Westminſter, conſiſting of the lord legate, archbiſhops, biſhops, and learned men ; and that they came to an unanimous concluſion, that all the ſaid books contain “ many erroreſ and heretieſ both detestable and damnable ” —“ which bokeſ doo ſwarme full of heretieſ and detestable opynyons.” Each heretie is then engroſſed at length on the deed. Our limits will permit no more than to give the ſum total of each work, quoting the firſt by way of ſpecimen.

THE WICKED MAMMON contains thiſty heretieſ—1ſt Faith only doth justify us. THE OBEDIENCE OF A CHRISTIAN MAN, twenty-five heretieſ—Whatſoever is done before the Spirit of God giveth light is condemnable—Purgatory ys of the popys inuentyon, and therefore he may doo ther what ſo euer he wyll—No man may be hired to pray. THE REVELATION OF ANTICHRIST, forty-nine heresies—To bynde a man perpetually to any vow of religion is without doubt an error—Not only the Pope ys wicked, but the popedom-self, and the offyce ys yniquyte, and ys suche a power that yt suppresseyth the faythe and gospole, and cannot be admynystered by a good prynce, but by the aduersarye of Chryste*—All thinges necessarye are declared in the New Testament—The Newe Testament of Criste will not suffre any lawe of compulsion, but oonly of counsell and exhortation.† THE SUM OF SCRIP- TURE, ninety-two heresies—the water of the fonte hath noo more vertue in it than hath the water of a ryuer—We be all equally bounde to knowe the Gospels and the Epistells of Sainte Powle—Men should see that their childern come to church to here sermon—The Gospell is written for all persons, estates, dukes, princes, pope, emperour.” THE BOOK OF BEG- GARS—That there is noo purgatory, but it is a thinge invented by the covetousness of the spirituallee oonly, to translate all kingdoms from other princes unto them—And that there is not oon worde spoken of it in all Holye Scripture. THE EXPOSITION into the seventh chapitre of the First Epistill to the Corynthians, contains these heresies—Vows of chastity may be broken—Fasting not an exclusion of meat and drink—that Paul had a wife—that Sainte Pawle saith,‡ that he ought to be chosen for to be a bishop, that is the husbande of oon wyfe.”

The deed goes on to say, that his Highness has determined to expel all the books containing such pestilent heresies, and having obtained the unanimous testimony of his prelates and learned men to their ‘fals tradicions and corrupt doctrine,’ and soul-destroying influence, “ warns and monyshes” all good subjects “ by the woordes of Cryste, Take hede of false prophets.” They are then notified to deliver to the superiourers either of the aforesaid books—again named seriatim—and it amusingly adds, “ that if by reading of them heretofore any thinge remanyth in your breestes of that teching, either forget it, or by enformacion of the truthe, expelle and purge hitt, etc.” He “ moves and exhorts” them “ in God to do so;” but if “ being obstinate and refusing this, the prelates of the churche having the care and charge of your soules, ought to compell you and your prince to punysh and correct you not doing.” And as the opinion has been spread abroad, that the king was bound to give the Scriptures to his people in their own language, he had taken the advice of these prelates and nobles, who declare that he is not bound to do so; but that he will have the New Testament translated, and if the people are meke and submissive, and he thinks that it will conduce to their good, he will give it to them.

* In the original document, this heresy is obliterated ; it is copied by the aid of the transcript in the records. That which was a capital heresy in 1530, riz. to speak against the pope,—the act of parliament in 1534, declares to be sound doctrine.

† To this “detestable heresye” it may be as well to direct attention, though comment upon would be a waste of words.

‡ The learned council leave it somewhat in the dark whether their decree be levelled at the apostle or the reformer.

This decree was tantamount to a general search-warrant, sweeping the whole kingdom for forbidden books, from the palace to the hovel. It is surprising when we look at the bitter penalty,—as in Harding’s case, a tormenting death too often aggravated by refined cruelty—that any of these books have been handed down to us. But most of them in fact exist, and mocking the impotent power which sought their destruction, form an enduring monument to the talent and piety of their author.

With what emotions do we find among the names appended to this deed, that of Hugh Latimer! Latimer, who then consenting to the destruction of Tyndale, as Saul did to the sacrifice of Stephen, like him, lived to mingle his ashes with those of his victim in one common and holy cause. Sir Thomas More was a principal actor in this business; and thus describes the solemnities with which this deed received the royal assent:—“ In hys owne moste roiall person, in the sterre chamber, moste eloquently by hys owne mouth, in greate presence of hys lordes spyrytuall and temporall, gave monycyon and warnynge to all the justyces of peace, of euery quarter of hys realme then assembled before hys hyghnes, etc. etc. to the entent that euery subject of hys, by the meane of such manyfolde effectual warnynge, wyth hys gracyous remyssyon of theyr former offence in his commaundment before broken, sholde from thense forthe auoyde and estyew the parell and daunger of punishment, and not dreue hys hyghnesse of necessyte to the thyng from whyche the myldenesse of hys benygnety nature abhorreth.”

The king issued his proclamation in June 1530, for giving effect to the above decree. All books were to be surrendered in fifteen days. The magistrates of all degrees are ordered to seize whoever refuses to deliver, or is suspected to keep them, and to bring such before the king and his council, that they may be punished for their contempt, to the terrible example of other like transgressors. The proclamation declares, that it is inexpedient for the people to have THE SCRIPTURES IN ENGLISH, and decrees that they ARE BOOKS OF HERESIE, and shall be clerely exterminated and exiled out of this realme of England for ever. The prohibition reaches to the same books in “Douch” (German) and French. Tyndale seems not without reason; to have called his persecutors “fleshly-minded hypocrites, as making the Scripture theire own possession and merchandize, and so shutting up the kingdom of heaven, which is God’s word, neither entring themselves, nor suffer them that would.”†

Lest the laws, terrific as they were, should fail to subdue in some the spirit of inquiry, More sometimes indulged his readers with a glimpse into the nether world.

* Preface to the Confutation of Tyndale.

† Of his ‘benign nature,’ Sir Thomas was, within five years, to have plenary experience.

‡ Prologue to Jonas.

All the means of intimidation were tried ; from the dread of present burning, to that of burning hereafter and forever. “ Tewkesbury would not have been martyred, yf Tyndales vngacyouse bokes had neuer come in hys hande, for whych the pore wreche lyeth now in hell, and cryeth out on him ; and Tyndall, yf he do not amende in tyme, he is lyke to fynde hym when they come togyther, an hote fyrebronde burnynge at hys bakke, that all the water in the worlde wyll neuer be able to quench. Then haue we Jonas made out by Tyndale, a booke that whoso delyte therein, shall stande in parell that Jonas was neuer so swallowed vppe wyth the whale, as by the delyte of that booke a mannes soule maye be so swallowed vppe by the deuyll, that he shall neuer haue the grace to gete out agayne.”*

The superstitious feares of the ignorant are dextrously turned to account ; and as at this period the country was undergoing a grevious visitation both from famine and mortality, the enlightened chancellor finds no difficulty in ascribing them to the heretical impiety scattered through the land. Elsewhere, ridicule and raillery are tried, and the crumbling hierarchy is buoyed up in this style : “ Neuer was a more folyshe frantyque boke than the Wycked Mammon.” “ Then haue ye an exposcyon also vpon the VII chapyter of Corinthyes, by whyche prestes, freres, monkes, and nonnes be taught that euangelical lyberty, that they may runne out a caterwawynge, and so sow and wedde.”†

More refers above perhaps to the prologue to ||Jonah, in which Tyndale with much keenness, contrasts the Jewish priests of our Lord’s days with the teachers of his own. It contains a clear exhibition of his religious sentiments. “ If thou find ought amisse, when thou seist thy selfe in the glasse of God's Worde, thynke it compendious wisdome, to amende the same betymes, monished and warned by the ensample of other men, rather than to tary vntil thou be beaten also." He calls the whale's belly a newe schole in which Jonas lost much of his dross—and exhibits him as a warning. " And wyth Jonas, let them that wayte on vanities, and seke God here and there, and in euery temple, sauie in theyr hertes ;—go and seke the testament of God in thyne hart"—" and when the rage of thy conscience is ceased, offer thanksgeuing and paye the vowe of thy baptisme, that God only saueth of his only mercy—ascribe the cause of thy tribulacion vnto thyne owne synne, and the cause of thy delyuerance vnto the mercye of God."

Tyndale had now settled at Antwerp, as chaplain to the company of English merchants. He won esteem from all wherever he went, by his unaffected piety and amiableness; and although sustaining a public station, his retreat was for some time hidden from those who had marked him as their prey. He thus for a few years longer eluded their devices. Environed, as he was, with dangers, he composed at this time a short treatise on the absurdities and idolatry of the mass; but fearing to offend some weak disciples, it was laid aside, and never printed until after his martyrdom.

Of all his tracts and treatises, Fox quaintly says, they are "no lesse delectable than also most fruitfull to be read."

INEFFECTUAL ATTEMPTS TO ALLURE TYNDALE TO ENGLAND—HIS SEVERE PRIVATIONS—HENRY’S ANGRY LETTER TO HIS ENVOY—MARTYRDOM OF THE AMIABLE FRITH.

THE emissaries of Henry, of his Cardinal and his Chancellor, were now making the greatest exertions to entangle Tyndale in their toils and convey him to England. The principal agent for this purpose was the British envoy in the Low Countries, Stephen Vaughan. The first communication from him to be met with, is a letter to his royal master, dated Jan. 26, 1530, from the neighbourhood of Antwerp. It appears from this, that Tyndale had not yet taken up his residence in the Low Countries, so that letters were addressed—to ensure success between them—to three different cities in Germany. The envoy, after speaking of political affairs, thus introduces the subject of our Memoir.* “ I have written three sundry letters unto Willyam Tyndall, and the same sent, for the more suretie, to iii several places, to Frankforde, Hamburgh and Marleborough.” What follows, in effect is, that he had very good hope, (after what was currently said in England of his willingness, upon the gracious promise of a safe-conduct from his Majesty, to repair to England) of persuading him to this step, with these and such other persuasions as he devised in his letters, and especially, that whatever guaranty he should desire of the king's good faith in the matter, Vaughan and his friends would do their best to obtain the promise of from his Majesty. But Tyndale's suspicions, it seems, were all aroused by the stir which these negotiations made in England, to the utter defeat and chagrin of the envoy, just when he was making sure of him; who thinks that his distrust was wholly without just ground or occasion, were he but once in his Majesty's presence, and "his gracious benygntie and piteous regard" towards his humble and penitent subjects, so apt thereby [!] to be moved, being once taken into account. He speaks of letters written by Tyndale in reply to his, and to a fellow-emissary also on the same errand, which he had despatched to his Majesty. But these papers, though it would be so interesting to discover them, are a lost treasure. A letter to Lord Cromwell accompanies this communication, in which he says, "It is vnlikely to get Tyndall into England when he dayly hereth so many thinges from thense which feareth hym. After his booke answering my lord chancillor's boke be put fourthe, I think he wyll wryte no more. THE MAN IS OF A GRETTER KNOWLEGE THEN THE KYNGE HIGHNES DOTH TAKE HIM FOR, whiche well appereth by his workes. Wolde god he were in Englande."

Among the state papers is the fragment of a well-written and touching letter from one of these emissaries, who, in a very singular, and even romantic manner, obtained an interview with Tyndale. The courtier finding himself unawares in the presence of his long-sought victim, was so awed by his dignified purity and truth, that, in answering him, he tells his royal master he did it as his poor wit would serve him. The letter bears every mark of undoubted sincerity, and affectingly pourtrays the sufferings of this great benefactor of his nation, then living in painful and perilous concealment.

The king's agent notifies his majesty that he had obtained a copy of one part of Tyndale's reply to the Lord chancellor, of which he had given “ knoledge to my Lord Cromwell,” with a view to advertise his Highness thereof; but this was “ so rudely writyn and difficult to be red, me thowght it uncomly and not mete to be sent in so vile aray to the hands” of his Majesty. He therefore set about to transcribe it again: and the second part, which he had also obtained, he promises to send with all convenient celerity. He tells the king, that “ the matter contained herein,” as he thinks, “ in regard of his former wrytyng, will better like him, then some other of his workes which he hath with lesse advisement, more Rashenses and ruder spirite put forth before this tyme.” The interview is best given in his own words.

“ The day before the date* hereof, I spake with Tyndall withoutt the town of Andwerp and by this means. He sent a certeyne person to seke me, whom he had advysed to say, that a certeyne frend of myne, vnknownen to the messenger, was very desirows to speke with me: praying me to take paynes to go unto him to suche place as he should bryng me. Then I to the messenger (said) what is your fryend and where is he? His name I know not, said he, but if it be your pleasure to go where he is, I wilbe glad thider to bryng you: thus doftfull what this matter ment, I concluded to go with hym, and folowed hym till he browght me withoutt the gate of Andwerp into a feld lying nyghe unto the streme, where was abi-dyng me this said Tyndall. At our metyng, do you not knowe me? said this Tyndall. I do not well remember you, said I to hym ; my name, said he, is Tyndall. But Tyndall, said I, fortunate be our metyng. Then Tyndall : Sir, I have bene excedyng desirous to speke with you. And I with you ; what is your mynd. Sir, said he, I am enformed that the kynge’s grace taketh great displeasure with me for putting furthe of certeyne bokes which I lately maid in these partes, but specially for the boke namyd the Practise of Prelates, whereof I have no littell marvaill consideryng that in it I did but warne

Was there in me any such mynde when I warnyd hys grace to beware of his cardinall whose iniquyte he schortly after approvyd accordyng to my wrytyng? Doth this deserve hatered? Ageyne, may his grace, beyng a crysten prynce, be so vnkynd to God, whiche hathe commaundyd his word to be spredde thorowgh owght the world: to geve more faythe to the wykkyd perswasions of men, whiche presumyng above Goddes wyssdom and contrary to that whiche Cryst expressly comandeth in his testament, dare saye, thatt yt is not lefull for the pepoll to have the same in a tonge that they understand, because the puritie thereof schold opyn mens ies to se ther wyckydnes!! "gentyll persuasions" to induce him to come into England, meaning soft words and tempting promises like those of Vaughan, but Tyndale roundly rejected such offers, "albeyt" his "grace wolde promes him neversomuch the surtye;"
well suspecting that no pledges would be proof against the importunity of the clergy, "whiche wolde affyrme that promyses made with erytykes ought not to be kept." After this he told me how he had fynyshed a worke agenst my Lord Chancellars booke, and wold not put it in printe till suche your dysplesure towardes hym for hasty putting forthe of his me, whiche as he spake, I have wryttyn to your grace, word to remembraunce. My trust, therefore, is that your grace will not but take my laburs in the best part. I thowght necessary to be wrytten unto your grace. After these wordys, he then beyng some thyng fearfull of me, lest I wold have parsuyd hym, and drawyng also towardes nyght, he toke his leve of me, and departed from the towne, and I toward the towne, saying I schold schortly peraventure se hym agayne, or if not, here from hym. Howbeyt, I suppose, he afterward rely agayne with hym, and in perswing hym, I myght perchaunse have faylld of my purpose, and put my selfe in judgment I thynke of the man, I asserteyne your grace I have not communed with a man."*

* Here the paper unhappily ends, at the interesting point, doubtless, where the eulogium of the hero of it was commencing.

Tyndale's Practice of Prelates, alluded to by him in the above conversation, was printed at Marpurg, by H. Lust, in 1530. It is an admirably condensed history of the rise and spread of popery, and of the intriguing practices of the Romish hierarchy. He ascribes Henry's desire of a divorce from his faithful queen Catherine, to advice instilled into his mind by his confessor, the Bishop of Lincoln, at the instigation of Wolsey. The ulterior design was to unite Henry to the French princess; and, by the united influence of both crowns, to secure an open road, by which the cardinal might ascend to the papal see and triple crown; in that case, Lincoln would have been advanced to York. Tyndale strenuously resists the divorce, by unanswerable arguments drawn from the laws of nature and of God. "What God has joined together, no man, not even the Pope, can lawfully put asunder."

With his "poor apostle's life," Tyndale was content, many and grievous as were its privations; less moved by all the lures that wealth or honor could hold out to him, than by the consciousness of untainted principle, with exile and suffering as their recompense. His apology for presuming to offer his advice to Royalty, is curious enough. "Some man might happlye say, that though a greate man wold be content to haue his deades compared vnto the lawes of God, he wold disdayne yet to have so vyle a wretch as I am, to dispute of them. I answere this is not my faute, but Goddes which will for the most parte euer chosest of the vilest to confounde the gloriouse, which not onlye clothed his sonne with oure vyle nature, but made him also of the lowest sorte of men, euen fyue hundred steppes beneth the degré of a cardinale. And the gloryous scribes and the pharises for all their holinesse rebuked not Herod; but vile Jhon the Baptist."

A letter from Sir St. Vaughan to the King, [dated May 20, 1531] has preserved some sentiments of Tyndale marked by great magnanimity, and expressed in terms not to be read without emotion. His anxious concern that his countrymen should enjoy the bread of life, without reserve, with the idea seemingly that it could be purchased by his own sacrifice, reminds us of the self-devoting spirit of the great apostle for his nation [Rom. ix. 3] ; but in Paul's case, the ultimate and higher good alone was adequate to extort this confession ; not the means of salvation, but salvation itself. The letter commences with some political topics : then comes the mention of Frith, in whom his Majesty had taken the same sort of benevolent interest that he had in Tyndale ; and at whose conversion he was in like manner aiming, by any means, gentle or rough. The envoy promises to apply himself zealously thereto ; “ but has been informed that he [Frith] very lately maryed in Hollande, and ther dwellethe, but in what place I cannot tell ; thys mariage maye by chaunce hynder my perswasions. I suppose hym to haue byn thereunto* dryuen throughe pouertie, whiche is to be pitied, his qualities considered.”

Returning to his other unteachable pupil, he says : “ I have agayne byn in hande to perswade Tyndall, and to draw hym the rather to favour my perswasions, and not to thinke the same fayned, I shewed hym a clawse conteyned in maister Crumwell's lettre, conteynynge these words followinge. ‘ And notwithstanding other the premisses in this my lettre conteyned, if it were possible, by good and holsom exhortacions to reconcile and conuerte the sayde Tyndall from the trayne and affection whiche he now is in, and to excerpte, and take away the opynyons and fantasies sorely rooted in hym, I doubt not but the kynge highness wolde be muche ioyous of his conuersion and amendment. And so beinge conuerted, if then he wolde returne into his realme, vndoubtedly the

* Thereunto—viz. to his heresies most probably : but so equivocal is the construction, as that it will equally well apply to his marriage, if not, by grammatical rule, better. As to the first sense, it would be a little strange if he were driven by poverty to his principles, which were themselves much more certain to drive him to poverty. The line of the once popular poet, if true in its first clause, would not be more true of poetry, than of principles such as those of these brother-re-formers, in the last :—

Thou found'st me poor at first, and keep'st me so.

kinges royll magistrie is so inclined to mercie, pitie, and compassion,* that he refuseth none which he seythe to submyt themself to the obeyence and good order of the worlde.' In these wordes I thought to be suche swetness and vertue as were able to perse the hardest harte of the worlde. And as I thought, so it cam to passe. For after sight thereof, I persyued the man to be exceedinge altered, and to take the same very nere vnto his hearte, in suche wise that water stode in his yees. And answered what gracious wordes are these. 'I assure youe,' sayed he, 'If it wolde stande withe the kinge most gracious plaisir to graunte only a bare text of the scripture to be put forthe emonge his people, like as is put forthe emonge the subiectes of the emperor in these parties, and of other cristen princes, be it of the translation of what person soever shall please his magestie, I shall ymedyatlye make faithfull promyse neuer to write more, ne abide two dayes in these parties after the same: but ymedyatly to repayre into his realme, and there most humbly submytt myselfe at the fete of his roiall magestie, OFFRYNGE MY BODYE TO SUFFER WHAT PAYNE OR TORTURES, YE WHAT DETHE HIS GRACE WILL, SO THAT THIS BE OBTEYNED. And till that tyme, I will abide thaspect of all chaunses what so euer shall come, and indure my lyfe in as many paynes, as it is able to bere and suffer. And as concernyng my reconsiliacion his grace may be assured that what soeuer I haue sayed or written, in all my life ageynst thonour of Goddes worde, and so proued; the same shall I before his magestie and all the worlde, vtterly renownce and forsake. And with most humble and meke mynde imbrace the truthe, abhorainge all errorr souer at the most gracious and benygne request of his royll magestie, of whose wisdome, prudence and lernyng I hear so greate prayse and commendation, then of any other creature lyuyng. But if those thinges whiche I haue written be true, and stande with Goddes worde, why shulde his magestie hauyng so excellent a guyft of knowlege in the scriptures, moue me to do any thinge agenst my conscience'—with many other wordes whiche were to longe to write." Vaughan expresses in conclusion "some good hope in the man" which he would not doubt to see realized, with the help of some encouraging word from his majesty's own lips, that would ensure better credit to his own "perswasions." He advised Tyndale also not to put forth his boke till his majesty's most gracious pleasure were known; but this the other told him, came too late, as the copy was out of his hands, and forthwith to be printed, though his best endeavours to delay it were promised.

The tears in the eyes of Tyndale bear witness to the tenderness of his nature; but they do no less to his firmness, it being evident from what followed, that he dared not to conform to the earnest wishes of royalty, yet was distressed to resist them. Though volunteering to make all other sacrifices, he shrunk from making insincere professions; and which he soundly argues, the king had no right to demand from him in points of religion. But Henry's slender patience was well-nigh spent; and finding it impossible to allure his victim to England, he is not anxious longer to wear the mask. With seeming indignation, he declares that he will not have the soil of his realm polluted by such a desperate heretic. He had indeed a new source of alarm and anxiety; for the influences that surrounded Tyndale, appeared to be very infectious in their kind. He began to fear that the task assigned to his envoy was not less dangerous than difficult; and employed all his arts of persuasion and threatening, lest the intended convert should chance to become the converter. Sir Stephen, there was reason to think, as has sometimes happened in the case of those who have taken upon them the same office, might be caught in his own net.

The reply to Vaughan's letters was drawn by the secretary of state, and laid before the King: his alterations, which were numerous, are accurately copied from the original state paper.* The words which the royal penman struck out, are printed between [] in Italics : the additions or modifications, made by his own hand, will be found below. They show that Henry possessed a mind of deep penetration, and of very considerable endowments. He made no changes except in what alludes to Tyndale.

“ Stephen Vaughan I commende me vnto you. And haue receyud your letters, dated at Andwarpe the .xvij. day of Aprill, with also that parte of Tyndale’s boke [sewed and] inclosed in lether, which yt with your letters directed to the Kinges Highnes. After the receipt whereof, I dyd repayre vnto the courte, and there presented the same vnto his royll maiestie. Who [after the receipt thereof] made me answer for that tyme that his highnes at oportune leysour wolde vyste ouersee and rede the contents as well of your letters as also the saide boke. And at my next repayre thither, it pleased his highnes to call for me, declaring vnto me as well the contentes of your letters as also moche matter conteyned in the said boke of Tyndalles. And albeit that I might well perceyue that his maiestie was right well pleased, and right acceptablee considered your diligence, and paynes taken in the wryting and sending of the saide boke, as also in the perswading and exhorting of Tyndall to repayre into this realme ¹ [in the accomplishment of his high pleasure and commaundement. Yet I might conjecture by the farther declaracyon of his high pleasure. CHAPTER VI.

“ By his rare pains, firm faith, and Christ’s free grace,
 Which formerly thick fogs of error base,
 And dusky clouds of works’ desert hid quite,
 Were well restored to their ancient light.
 He, by God’s word and spirit’s inspiration,
 The gospel light re-spread throughout our nation.
 His ashes, kept by heaven, securely rest,
 And sweetly sleep in hope to rise most blessed.”

HIS HABITS AND LABOURS AT ANTWERP—REPUBLISHES THE NEW TESTAMENT—IS BETRAYED, IMPRISONED, AND MARTYRED—HIS DYING PRAYER ANSWERED—SPREAD OF HIS OPINIONS—THE BIBLE TRIUMPHS—ACT TO ABOLISH TYNDALE’S WORKS—LIST OF HIS WRITINGS

DURING the few years of his sojourn at Antwerp, Tyndale “ went about doing good.” He was the almoner of his more wealthy countrymen. Saturday and Sunday were his days of relaxation from severe study : on the former, he visited the sick and dying foreigners, and on Sunday, both before and after divine service, he visited and relieved his fellow-exiles. Persecution for conscience sake, swept like a pestilence, over his native land ; and carried along with it, the worthiest of her sons. Many fled to Antwerp as their asylum in the greatest distress ; and found from Tyndale’s generous sympathy, both refreshment to the spirit and assistance in purse. Mr. Offor’s enthusiasm depicts him at this time, as in his charities appearing like an angel of mercy : in preaching, like an apostle.

The studies which occupied the most of his time, were in the defence of himself and the reformation from the slanders of Sir Thoma More, and in the completion of the translation of the Sacred Scriptures. It is impossible to decide, without the discovery of new evidence, whether he translated the whole of the Old Testament : Mr. Offor, from its general similarity concludes that he did, and that Coverdale profited by his manuscripts. It is plain, that, from Esdras to Malachi, it is one translation, published by Coverdale in 1535, and by Matthew in 1537, with such alterations as pleased the respective editors : from Genesis to Esdras, and the whole New Testament, are distinct translations. Tyndale's name on account of the rancorous hostility of Henry towards him, in the matter of the divorce, was suppressed in both.

From 1526, when he added prologues and glosses to the New Testament, he does not appear to have made any alteration in the text until 1534, when he republished it with considerable improvements at Antwerp, in small 8vo.* Some copies were printed on yellow paper. In this edition, Tyndale took advantage of criticisms whether friendly or hostile, towards giving his version its last finish. A fair specimen of the new readings follow the "Historic Notices," etc. The prologue commences with, "Here thou hast (moost deare reader) the New Testament or covenant made wyth vs of God in Christes bloude. Which I have looked over agyne (now at the last) with all dylgence, and compared it vnto the Greke," etc. This prologue was reprinted, verbatim, with every subsequent edition. It closes with a defence of his course as to the use of the words repentance and elders. A second preface was added, very severely reflecting upon G. Joye. It seems that Joye, having been employed by a Dutch printer to correct the press of the fourth pirated edition, had altered some words, and particularly Repentance, for which he put “the life after this.” This was published and circulated when the reformers were daily expecting Tyndale’s corrected edition, which was not finished until three months later. Upon being asked for what reason these fanciful alterations had been made, he discovered at once the surreptitious book that had been imposed upon the public by Joye. Of this discreditable imposition he now very properly warns the public. During Tyndale’s imprisonment, in February, 1535, Joye published what he called an apology, but which was a very intemperate attack upon his friend and brother exile, then in prison and distress. He alleges that he received only fourteen shillings Flemish, about eight shillings British, for his labours, and that he “heard say, that Tyndale had ten pounds for his copyright.” His plea is, the intention simply to render the New Testament more useful, but he does not apologise for making alterations and publishing them under another’s name. The prologues in Tyndale’s revised edition, and the 4to. of 1526, are very similar to those of the German, by Luther. This of 1534 may be distinguished from all the subsequent impressions by a discrepancy in the marginal notes in John’s first epistle.* The most grotesque rendering in the whole volume, and continued in all the editions, was the mounting ‘Death’ in the Revelation on a green horse.

* "The New Testament, dylgently corrected and compared with the Greke, by Willyam Tindale, and fynesshed in the yere of oure Lorde God, A. M. D. and xxxiiij. in the moneth of Nouember." It has wood cuts and ornamented letters. The title and prologues comprise sixteen leaves, followed by a second title and list of books. The text occupies ccclxxxiv leaves, the two last being numbered wrong. The Pistles of the Olde Testament end on folio cccc. The table follows on ten leaves, the last two pages contain "thinges to fill vp the leffe withal."

This year also [1534] was made memorable by Tyndale’s betrayal and imprisonment. Sir Thomas More, in examining suspected heretics, was very inquisitive with such as had come from Flanders or Germany, as to their knowledge of Tyndale; and was thus made minutely familiar with his person, dress, habits, friends, and places of resort. His lodgings were in the English house or factory, which was kept by a merchant, Thomas Pointz. Henry VIII. and his council suborned and employed one Henry Phillips, the son of a custom-house officer at Poole, of gentlemanly appearance, who, with a valet, came to Antwerp: here he made acquaintance with some of the merchants, and meeting Tyndale, the latter gave him so far a fatal confidence, as to invite him, nothing doubting, to his apartments. Pointz, being somewhat suspicious, asked Tyndale how they became acquainted; to which he replied, that he was an honest man and handsomely learned; and perceiving that he had made so favourable an impression on his inmate, the inquiry was pressed no further. Phillips, after having for some time dined at his table and shared his hospitality, went to Brussels, and with great pains and expense obtained a warrant to apprehend Tyndale for heresy. To execute it, he brought back with him the procurer-general and his officials, such being the popularity of Tyndale, that he would not venture to trust the officers of Antwerp. He detained these persons in the city until Pointz, on some call of business had left it, and then repairing to his dwelling, Tyndale invited him to go and dine with him at the house of one of his friends, assuring him of a hearty welcome. The miscreant next, under a pretence of having lost his purse, borrowed of his too credulous victim all his money. In passing through the narrow entry of the hotel, Phillips, with apparent courtesy, insisted on Tyndale going first; who being much shorter than himself, he, by pointing down upon him, when they came to the door, gave the signal to the officers who had been there secreted. He was immediately seized, together with all his books and papers, and in this pennyless condition conveyed to prison at Vilvoord, a village at the ford between Brussels and Malines, on the road to Antwerp. This agent (Phillips) of the Romish party in England, seems to have well schooled himself to the basest uses for which the most corrupt church or party could want his services; the commonest instincts or sentiments of humanity, to judge from the several particulars of the story, being about seared within him. His name, linked thus with Tyndale's, and rescued from oblivion, carries along with it to after times an infamous notoriety.

Whatever efforts the most affectionate regard and veneration could prompt, were made by Pointz and the British merchants at Antwerp, to effect the recovery of their beloved pastor; but all in vain. Letters were immediately dispatched to Lord Cromwell and others in England; and encouraging answers being received, Pointz, at the request of the body of merchants, carried the communications to the Lord of Barowe, following him post to Maestricht, that he might deliver them in person. With great difficulty he obtained his answer, and he then hastened to Brussels. The imperial council gave him a letter to Lord Cromwell, and Pointz undertook himself to be its bearer to London at the extreme point of speed. Here he was detained for a month, but, by perseverance and interest, obtaining favourable letters, he went with them direct to Brussels. His honourable zeal nearly cost him his life; for Phillips, finding that it was very likely to attain its end, managed, by the aid of the Roman Catholic priests at Louvain, to have him arrested on suspicion of heresy, and committed to prison. Within one week he was examined upon more than a hundred articles. Intercourse with his friends was cut off, unless he would write his letters in the Dutch language, and then give them in charge to his enemies. Aware of his imminent peril, he broke out of prison by night, and made his escape. Even in these circumstances of personal hazard to himself, his efforts to save the life of Tyndale did not languish. On the 25th of August, 1535, he wrote to his brother in London a letter alike honourable to his pastor and his own faithful friendship.* "It was said that the King had written in favour of William Tyndall, now in prison, and like to suffer death, and it is feared that these letters have been intercepted. This man lodged with me three quarters of a yere.—I know that the King has never a treuer hearted subject this day living. He knows that he is bound by the law of God to obey his prince ; and I know well that he would not do the contrary to be made lorde of the worlde. The death of this man will be a great hindraunce to the Gospel ; and to the enemies of it, one of the highest pleasures. I fear that he will shortly be condemned, for two English men at Louvain apply it sore, taking great pains to translate out of English into Latin, those thinges that may make against him, so that the clergy here may understand it and condemn him, as they have done all others, for keeping a penyony contrary to their business, the which they call the order of holy church. Brother, the knowledge that I have of this man causes me to write as my conscience binds me. For the king's grace should esteem him at this day as a greater treasure than any one man living." Pointz was a wealthy and highly respectable man, who returned to England, a few years after these melancholy transactions, and got an act of parliament to naturalize his children. His letter to Lord Cromwell, is preserved among the state papers in the British Museum. The tribute which he has given to Tyndale, and the efforts made, at such imminent risk to himself, on his behalf, show how much he had become endeared to the circle in which he moved, and to the British merchants in particular.

Tyndale's imprisonment lasted nearly two years. The interval was diligently bestowed upon his great business of extending the influence of true and pure religion. He had the address, or the happiness,—another still more unsuspicious testimony perhaps, to his personal qualities—to obtain whatever indulgences a prisoner could look for : at any rate, enough for him though with his hands thus bound, to enter the lists with the professors at the neighboring university at Louvain. Here too he redeemed his pledge given to the priest in Gloucestershire so many years before, and which the reader has not forgotten, that the ploughboys should have the New Testament to read. In 1535, was printed a very curious edition of Tyndale's version. In this he imitated the plan of Luther, who published the New Testament in three different dialects of Germany. Following this plan, he printed the revised version of the preceding year in a provincial orthography, probably that of his native county ; peculiarly adapted to agricultural labourers.* To this book was added the heads of chapters, as there is reason to conclude, for the first time.

His invaluable life was now drawing to a close ; which had been so far shaded by the circumstances in which his lot was cast, that to its natural termination, he might well have been reconciled, though premature. The formalities of a trial were gone through, and he was condemned by virtue of a decree made at Augsburg against what was called heresy. In September, 1536, he suffered the dreadful sentence, of which the horror is in some measure softened by knowing that it was prefaced by the act of strangling. In that appalling moment, he exhibited the firmness and resignation only to be found in the certain confidence of having his portion with those “shining ones” in Bunyan’s phrase, who had “come out of great tribulation,” and who had for Jesus’ sake,

writhed on the rack, or blackened at the stake.

With the dread preparations of death and burning around him and in view, his last thoughts were turned upon the welfare of the country which had driven him forth a fugitive, and his dying voice, was that of intercession for his royal persecutor. LORD, OPEN THE KING OF ENGLAND’S EYES, were his well-known words at the stake.†

* Mr. Offor, from a copy in his library, and late the property of Dr. Adam Clarke, exhibits a few specimens :—holly cite, for holy city; saebye, aengels, wayghthyer, foete, beholde, broether, faether, moether, tacken, agayenst, theacheth, graece, cloocke for cloke, maester, saefe, shaekē, etc. etc.

† Mr. Offor, from circumstances of personal history, is able to impart a picturesque interest to the place and the event. “Many times” has he “stood upon the spot” which was the scene of martyrdom, “a raised ground near the prison at Vilvoord,” with an humbling recollection of these awful cruelties. Here “he was taken

"Rome thundered death, but Tyndale's dauntless eye Looked in death's face and smiled, death standing by,
 In spite of Rome, for England's faith he stood,
 And in the flames he sealed it with his blood."

Although through the untiring zeal of Mr. Offor, the archives at Brussels were more than once searched, and that too with the aid of a friend, high in the establishment, no more light could be thrown on the history of his hero. His utmost pains were recompensed no further than with the discovery of the cost to government of burning some poor Caledonian for heresy.*

prisoner during the revolution at Brussels in 1830 by a detachment of Dutch troops, and for about two hours was confined in the castle, "which had been the prison of "the immortal Tyndale." Inquiries he had formerly made of an aged jailor, were renewed to him who now held the place; and for awhile curiosity put out of mind the sickening horrors of war, the sound of artillery, the misery of the flying, the wounded and the dying. But of the martyr no vestige remained.

* The sum in rushes, post, chains, etc. amounted to nearly one pound, thirteen shillings!

The tradition is, (for the credibility of which there is none to vouch,) that the demeanour of Tyndale in prison won the heart of his keeper, and made him with his daughter and some of his household, converts to the true faith of Christ. The attorney-general of the Emperor, who had procured the sentence against him was, on some such authority, said to have given the solemn declaration in his favour, as being “a learned, a good and a godly man.”

But it rests on very tangible evidence, that his voice was hardly hushed in death, before his last prayer was answered. The King’s vision became so clear as to issue an injunction, ordering that the Bible should be placed in every church for the free use of the people. In this year (1536) were published seven or eight editions of the New Testament in English. One of them, in royal 8vo. probably executed in Paris, is a peculiarly beautiful specimen of black-letter typography. And as further evidence of the general desire for spiritual light, thirteen editions of the whole Bible, were printed before the close of the year 1541, each from fifteen to twenty-five hundred copies, as Mr. Offor affirms, in extent.

But Henry, who was led by caprice at every period of life, had in these his last years, become the mere sport of his changing humours. Complaints were made by the priests that the mass was forsaken for the church, for the sake of the chained volumes at its doors; and much ado was made about the disorders that grew out of many undertaking to read aloud. As the Popish interest gained ground, Tyndale’s testament was interdicted, and with it all his writings, under heavy penalties: for the first offence, ten pounds sterling fine, equal to about fifty pounds at the present value of money, and three months’ imprisonment for every book; for the second, loss of all the offender’s goods, and perpetual imprisonment. The reading of Coverdale and Cranmer’s translations were limited to the higher circles of society—to judges, noblemen, captains and justices, who are allowed to read the Bibles to their families. “Merchants might read it in private to themselves,” but from its use and benefits all “women and artificers, prentyses, iornymen, seruing men of the degrees of yoman or under, husbandmen and labourers* “wythin this realme” were shut out. And what is specially noticeable, there is no clause to allow the clergy to read the Bible in English.

At length on the 29th of Jan. 1547, Henry the Eighth died, and was succeeded by Edward the Sixth, his son; that prince of rare hopes, so soon to be blasted in death. But though then, not only in his minority but his extreme childhood, he was, what through his brief career he remained, the stedfast patron of the Reformed cause, and under his auspices, “the word of truth grew and multiplied.”

* The poor in those trying times when the bread of life was eaten in secret, if at all, deeply felt the privation; of which a touching and very incidental memorandum is handed down. A labourer wrote in a book, “On the invention of things, at Oxforde the yere 1546 browt down to Seynbury by John Darbye, price 14d. When I kepe Mr. Letymers shype I bout thys boke, when the Testament was aberagatyn, that shepherdys might not red hit: I pray God amende that blyndnes. * Mr. Offor, with strange and wild extravagance, affirms not less than four-score editions of this Testament to have been printed; and elsewhere speaks of having in his own library twenty-three distinct editions! This is not the place, and as little is there room, to expose in detail the absurdity of such statements; his authorities for which, if he had any, no where appear. As to "his own library" treasures, it is not so very easy to ascertain what are "distinct editions" of antique English Bibles, (of all books), nine-tenths of them having lost their title-pages. What alone seems to be sure is, that he had so many distinct copies. As to the other particular, it must suffice to reply, that Lewis (History of English Biblical Translations) and Bishop Wilson (Ed. of the Bible 1785, 3 vols. 4to.) — if there are better authorities, the present Editor never heard of them — in their complete Tabular Lists of the successive editions of the English Scriptures from 1526, to nearly the close of the last century, very nearly agree in the number assigned to Tyndale. That is, but little more than TWENTY (the pirated Dutch impressions and all); and it was issued, it would seem, for the last time, by Jugge in 1566, 4to. Why did not Mr. Offor, who has shown in some things such a love of minutiæ, favor his readers with a like Table of these Tyndale impressions? Let the Editor mention but a single fact. When, in the fall of 1835, he projected the present Re-print, he was, after announcing it, utterly at a loss where, in the length and breadth of the land, to find a genuine, or more than one even, professed copy of Tyndale: — a very curious, fact truly, as to a work of nearly an hundred impressions! But the Geneva Bible, first issued but little more than one generation after, and which was thought to have singular popularity in reaching THIRTY editions, is yet so common among us, that to the writer are known (who can doubt there are still more?) some twelve or fifteen copies within even the limits of the State.

HISTORIC NOTICES

OF THE ANTE-JAMES VERNACULAR VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES, SUBSEQUENT TO THAT OF TYNDALE.

THE honour of giving to the public the first complete English Bible, was reserved for MILES COVERDALE ; and who thus divides in some sort with his predecessor Tyndale, that interest and reverence with posterity, which we naturally yield to the other, as the great pioneer of a forlorn hope. King Henry had previously to this time broken with the Pope, while by calling Cranmer to the Primacy and Cromwell to the newly-constituted office of Vicar-General, the brightest prospects opened before the cause of the Reformation in England. Coverdale was a native of Yorkshire, and afterwards of the order of Austin Friars in Cambridge ; until falling under the suspicion of favoring the opinions of Luther, he fled for safety beyond seas, where he diligently applied himself to the study and translation of the Scriptures. His Bible was printed abroad and probably, as some antiquaries have inferred from the typography, at Zurich, by Christopher Froschower. It appeared in 1535, the last page containing the author's memorandum, as having been finished, the fourth day of October. The third centennial of this memorable day, returning the autumn before the last, upon Sunday, prompted the suggestion made to ministers and churches in many of our religious prints at the time, of the expediency of celebrating it with some peculiar notice. Coverdale dedicated his work “unto the most victorious Prynce and our most gracyous Soveraynge Lord, King Henry the eygith, kynge of Englande, &c. &c.” Among this train of titles which it is not worth while to detail, was that of "Defender of the faith," of which the author tells his Majesty "that the blynd Bishop of Rome, when he bestowed it upon him, no more knew what he did, than the Jewish Bishop Cayphus when he prophesied that it was better to put Christ to death, &c." This Bible consists of a revision of Tyndale's New Testament and of that part of the Old translated by him before his death, namely, the Historic Books and the book of Jonah: the remaining books and the Apocrypha being newly translated by Coverdale himself. In his Epistle to the Reader, he says—in reference, it would seem to some of his own favourite renderings—after speaking of the diversity of translations, "none should be offended though one call a scribe, that another calleth a lawyer; or elders, that another calleth father or mother; repentance, that another calleth penance or amendment. For if we were not deceived by men's traditions, we should find no more diversity between these terms than between fourpence and a groat." Coverdale omitted all Tyndale's prologues and notes, which were particularly offensive to Henry and the Bishops, and prefixed to each book the contents of the several chapters;—not to the chapters successively, as was afterwards done. The noted test of the heavenly witnesses (John v. 7) appears within crotchetts: it may here be anticipated to say, in this connexion, that the same remark applies to the Bibles of Cranmer and Taverner. In that of Thomas Matthew, it is printed in a smaller type.

From the Dedication and other circumstances, this Bible would seem to have been issued with the countenance, if not under the authority of the Court. When the king, in some proclamation three or four years earlier, had required his subjects to "detest and abhor" "the New Testament of the translation that was then printed" (meaning Tyndale's, of course) he was pleased to say, that "he would cause the New Testament to be by learned men faithfully and purely translated into the English tongue." Coverdale's work is not certainly known to have originated in any such high favour. But its circulation, when once abroad, was so far from discouraged, that royal injunctions were issued in 1536, requiring that every person [parson] or proprietary of any parish church within this Realme shall on this side the feast of St. Peter ad vincula [Aug. 1] next coming, provide a boke of the whole Bible both in Latin and also in English, and lay the same in the Quire for everye man that will, to take and read thereon: And shall discourage no man from the reading any part, &c. but rather comfort, exhort and admonish every man to reade the same as the very worde of God and the spiritual food of man's soul, whereby they may better knowe their duties to God, to their sovereigne Lorde the King, and their neighbour." They are advised also, instead of "stifly or eagerly" striving one with another about "the true sense of the same," "to refer the declaration of such passages to them that be better learned."

The Original edition of this Bible was in folio. It was issued in that form in 1550, and also in 4to.; and appeared once more [4to.] for the last time in 1560. Four impressions of the New Testament separately were published within the same period. Coverdale's name is pleasingly associated with much of the biblical literature of the time. His concern in what was called Matthew's Bible, will soon appear, and at the lapse of twenty years the reader meets him again in the Genevan company of translators. Having maintained in his Preface, the utility of "sundry translations," he consistently gives his aid to the kindred endeavours of those who came after, and leaves his own to its fate. Coverdale rose to the dignity of bishop of Exeter, and died at the advanced age of 81, in 1565.

THOMAS MATTHEW's Bible appeared in 1537, "set forth" as its title-page makes known, "by the king's most gracyous license," procured for it at the instance of Cranmer and Cromwell, who were its patrons from the first. Injunctions, through them, were procured as in the case of Coverdale, to ensure its public diffusion and usefulness. Grafton and Whitchurch, its printers, issued fifteen hundred copies at an outlay on their part, of five hundred pounds—a great sum for that day. Lewis inclines to believe, it was first printed at Marpurg in Hesse, or Marbeck in the Duchy of Wirtemburg. Strype however “guessed” that it was printed at Hamburg, Mr. Offor names Lubeck, and Mr. Warley, that more probably it was in Paris. If the reader should naturally enough ask, Why not in London rather, since the royal countenance followed it, the editor cannot resolve the inquiry. Thomas Matthew or T. M.—for the more common reference perhaps is by initials,—is but the “shadow of a name;” the actual supervisor, as tradition says, being the celebrated martyr, John Rogers. Hence the work is indifferently known by the fictitious or real name. The former appears to have been resorted to, from the prejudices still resting, in some quarters, against the true translators. Who these were however, is a much debated point. Lewis, who speaks of it as “made by several hands,” throws out the conjecture that Matthew as “being the name of neither, may have been thought of as one, under which the editor chose to appear.” Bale (Bp. of Ossory) says, that Rogers translated the whole Scriptures, and that he used the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, German and English Bibles. Johnson styles the work under notice, a mere version of the former, undertaken by Coverdale and Rogers jointly: in his view it should so be esteemed, as much as the first Bible, the blended labour of Tyndale and Coverdale. Among the preliminary matter, as Lewis states, is An exhortation to the Study of the Holy Scriptures gathered out of the Bible, with the initials J. R. affixed at the end.

The conflict of opinions as to the composition of this Bible, the internal evidence does not much help to settle. That its New Testament portion differs from the original Tyndale, will be evident in the course of the succeeding pages; yet the reader who carefully compares the text and the margin, cannot fail to observe how much slighter is this discrepancy than in that of any other of the versions introduced below. This near coincidence not only with Tyndale, but with the work of Taverner, makes it more difficult, in examining an ancient copy, to be assured of its identity, than of any other of the early Bibles. Nine editions, two of which were in 4to. and 12mo.—some of them with slight variations—seem to have been printed; that of 1551, closing the list.

In April 1539, came out, in large folio, what is called by the name of CRANMER'S or the Great Bible, printed like the former, by Grafton and Whitchurch. Lewis styles it,—but the editor understands not why,—a revisal of Matthew's Bible. The “alterations and corrections” which he admits “were made” in it, give it, at any rate, as much the air of an independent version as either embraced in the present work. But the epithet, in strictness of speech, belongs to none of them, his only excepted, who as leading the way, had no predecessor to lean upon, but whom all his successors seem to have been willing to make, more or less closely, the basis of their own labours. This is certainly true at least, until we come to the versions of Elizabeth's reign, which may be thought to have a wider departure from Tyndale, especially the Genevan. Cranmer's Bible, however it may be designated, has certainly some characteristic marks. Such for instance, are those occasional inclusions, as the reader will see, of brief fragments into the text, commonly indeed in crotchets; which sometimes seem to be but expansions of its meaning, and sometimes, additional matter, derived, it appears not whence. The prologues and notes of Tyndale, which had been dropped by Coverdale, and then restored to Thomas Matthew's Bible, were now once more rejected, from being found to give great offence to those who still retained their Catholic prepossessions. The much-buffeted text, “There are three that bear record,” etc. (1 John v. 7) as was said before, was printed in crotchets, as of questionable authority. Lewis observes that “Tyndale had set the example in his first edition of 1526, and in the later impressions of 1535, 1536, 1537, on the authority of Luther and the great

Erasmus, who in his Latin translation of the New Testament, published at Basil, A. D. 1518, omitted the passage though he restored it in his third edition four years after, ne cui foret ansa calumniandi.

How much the name of Cranmer, as coupled with this work, implies, it would be pleasant to know. But none of the authorities give the least clue for concluding whether he had any immediate concern in its preparation, or whether, as is more likely, it was, like Parker's Bible which followed, honored with his name as being done under his Primacy. But even in this latter case, one must wonder, that they have not thought it worth while to name, to whom was committed the labouring oar. The Psalter used to this day in the Book of Common-Prayer, is a part and relic of the version now described. Cranmer was published, as it would seem from Lewis, for the eighth and last time in 1568, the date of the birth of the Bishops'; which, with other circumstances, leads one to regard the two, as respectively the authorised or court-Bibles of their time. In the marginal readings of the present work, it will be apparent how often they are found together and alone; and the deference, with which the later treads in the steps of the earlier work.

The same year [1539] gave birth to another edition, or as he styled it, Recognition of the English Bible by RYCHARDE TAVERNER, a gentleman of Norfolk, born in 1505, educated at Christ-Church, Oxford, and afterwards a member of the Inner-Temple, where his way was, "it is said, to quote the law in Greek when he read any thing thereof." In 1534, he went to court, being taken into the service of Cromwell, then principal secretary of state, and by his influence was promoted in civil life. While in this post he accomplished the work under review, "being very probably encouraged so to do by his master on account of his expertness and proficiency in the Greek tongue." Lewis calls this work "neither a bare revisal nor yet strictly a new version, but between both." This is said by way of comment on Bishop Bale, who styles it "a recognition [Query—if this means ‘revisal?’] or rather a new version.” But the editor so far differs from both, that in his judgement it is what Lewis is unwilling to allow it to be,—a bare revisal. The conformity is indeed rather closer than even between Matthew himself and the original Tyndale, and such as made him dubious, for a long while, to which of the two varying copies in his hands to refer as the true Matthew. This will account also for his infrequent citation of Taverner’s readings; not deeming it of any utility, except in the very rare instances where he departs from the other. He embodies most, but not all of the marginal notes of Matthew, to which he added others of his own. Upon his patron’s downfall, Taverner partaking in his disgrace, was committed prisoner to the Tower, but he had the address to re-instate himself in Henry’s favour. His Bible was not issued after twelve years from its first appearance, nor did the impressions exceed three or four within that period.

The accession of Elizabeth [1558] brought back the numerous refugees from the scourge of Mary; of whom the majority had settled at Frankfort on the Rhine, or at Geneva. The year before was issued from the latter place, the New Testament in what is commonly known as the GENEVAN version, in a small 12mo volume, with a very beautiful type. It has the distinction of first giving, in an English dress, the scriptures in separate verses, and numbered as at present; which improvement was followed by the Bishops’: Robert Stephens, it is well known, had resorted to this expedient, in an edition of the Greek Testament, published five or six years before, as a means of easy and direct reference to particular passages. In some of the early English Bibles, capital letters had been used at certain intervals in the margin, as if answering to the paragraphs. This work was the joint labour of Miles Coverdale, Christ. Goodman, Anth. Gilby, Thos. Sampson, Wm. Cole (of Corpus Christi College, Oxon.) and Wm. Whitingham, all zealous Calvinists, both in doctrine and discipline; who reaped the benefit of Calvin’s advice, yet living, and of Beza, towards its last finish. Coverdale, to whose name the reader has now become familiar, had in Edward's reign returned to England, and, both for his services to the Reformed faith and for his scriptural learning, been raised to the see of Exeter; but was soon compelled once more to find safety in exile. The Old Testament being yet unfinished, some of the company lingered behind to complete it, and the whole was issued at Geneva in 1560, 4to. by Rowland Hall.

This fraternity of translators were all imbued, more or less deeply, with Puritanism, (obviously derived from the place of their foreign sojourn) and with more liberal notions of government in church and state, than could well be endured by the dominant or high-church party. As this often tinctures the notes, the work was with them of course no favourite. But so generally was it preferred and used in private families, on account of these very notes, according to Lewis, that more than thirty editions in folio, 4to, and 8vo, were issued from 1560 to 1615, mostly by the royal printers. Editions of it also appeared at Geneva, Edinburgh, and Amsterdam. Long after the era of the present Received version (so called) and its nursing-fathers of the throne and hierarchy had urged it into general circulation among an unwilling people, these last lamented the want of the marginal comments, which had become endeared by use, and protested there was no such thing as discerning the word of God aright, without 'the Geneva spectacles.' King James's translators were indeed—as appears from the Tabular List of printed Bibles appended to Lewis—with all their extrinsic advantages, driven to the device of tacking to their own version the bulk of the notes of the Genevan, by way of giving it vantage-ground in the rivalry for public favour; a resort practised with more than one edition. The Genevan Bible was published, as Lewis gives us to suppose, as late as 1708. Of the works noticed in the present Sketch, the rarity of some of them, in this country at least, exceeds that of almost all other books in the language. That a single copy may chance, after long search, to be found, is all that can be said. But of Cranmer's, three or four copies in New England are known to the editor; as many perhaps of the Bishops'; while the Genevan is not a very uncommon book. He recollects, scattered here and there, some twelve or fourteen copies; and many others, it is likely, might be ferreted out. English booksellers, who occasionally get a chance of inserting it in their catalogues, are seemingly at a loss for a name; and are very apt to call it the BREECHES Bible, from a single passage, the rendering of which has to some been diverting, Gen. iii. 7.—“They sewed fig-leaves together, and made themselves breeches!”

After what has been seen of the political complexion of this Bible, the antipathy towards it expressed by James at the Hampton Court Conference [1603] needs no interpreter. The pedant king, with characteristic sapience, had said, that “he had never yet seen the Bible well translated; but of all translations, doubtless the Genevan was the first.” Not light, then, must have been his chagrin and resentment, (if he looked sufficiently into the matter) at seeing how little his opinion was deferred to, even by those who were humbling themselves before him as a patron, and that with an abjectness of homage, of which their Dedication meant to leave no one in doubt. His own translators (here alluded to), among other instructions, were told “to follow the ordinary Bible used in churches [The Bishops'] and to alter it as little as the Original would permit;” but when “they agreed better with the text,” to prefer the earlier versions. “The truth is, (says Geddes)—and why should it not be spoken,—that James's translators did little more than copy the Genevan version; the difference being, on the part of the former, chiefly in a more scrupulous adhesion to the letter of the Original, and in the superabundant insertion of italics to supply its apparent deficiency.” He “has no hesitation in deeming the Genevan the better of the two. Professor Symonds of Cambridge (Eng.) came* to the like conclusion, and with not less decision. It may be doubted where shall we seek for one, who has taken a wider survey or pursued a more minute comparison of most of the modern versions of Europe. In the works whose titles appear below, and now so rare that their preservation loudly calls for a reprint, it is easy to discern in how far higher account the learned Professor holds the versions of Luther, of Beausobre, of Diodati—to name no others—over that which is forever entailed on the English community of both continents; and this, without the faintest hope of any future revision. Boothroyd, an English Orthodox Dissenter of our time, in the Preface to his “Family Bible,” a work of merit [3 vols. 4to.] gives indeed the first place to the Genevan, compared with its predecessors as well as its successors. After sketching its history, he adds, “and produced, take it altogether, the best English version that has yet appeared. It is more literal than the like works of Tyndale and Coverdale; but not so absurdly literal as the Version in common use.” He goes on to say, that the passages are next to numberless in which, for propriety, noble simplicity, and perspicuity, the Received translation yields to that under review. The Editor—with the impression fresh on his mind from the long process of collating the variety of Bibles embraced in the following work—cannot but feel that no dictum so sweeping, ever contained less extravagance. He will venture to say further,—that of the very few among us, whose peculiar turn of mind and course of studies warrants them to speak to this point, and yet more, warrants them to be heard, he knows of no one who fails to coincide with the trans-atlantic testimonies already cited.

These references as to comparative merit are not, it may be observed in passing, to be carried to the sole account, the exclusive honour of the Genevan. They have been occasionally expressed as to some of the other Bibles; by one authority among us, of high the Four Gospels and Acts, 4to, 1789. A sequel, on the Epistles, came out in 1794; both bearing the stamp of accurate and faithful investigation.

name and place, yet not to be cited here, it was said of the T. Matthew Bible. That superiority has indeed, for Tyndale, been claimed by many voices ; and Geddes, among others of that opinion, extended the compliment, without any reserve ,to all the ante-James translators. Adverting to a then recent article [1790] in that feeblest of journals, the Monthly Review, but (as regards the Public Version), strong in panegyric, he says,—“ So far from admitting any such positions, I will venture to affirm, and that with fullest conviction, that James’s translators have less merit than any of their predecessors, and that the version of Tyndale, revised by Coverdale, is a far juster representation of the Original.”

The great popularity of the Genevan with the many, in the day that it flourished, did not fall short, as has been already seen, of its estimation with the critical few in after times. To the editor therefore it has long been, and is yet, an unsolved enigma, why the Puritan delegates at the Hampton Court Conference, should have made so much stir about a new version of the scriptures. At least the high-church party, for aught that appears to the contrary, may stand absolved from the credit or the blame (as one pleases to call it) of the new undertaking, which was there and then put in train. Perhaps indeed, the clamorousness spoken of, was confined to Dr. Reynolds, their most assured spokesman. Fuller,* whose account of the debate is minute, implicates no one else in the matter. Whether, like Hugh Broughton afterwards in relation to the present Version, he had any private pique to indulge, cannot well be known. Besides too, though the Genevan was, with few exceptions, the household Bible, yet the Bishops’, we may remember, was the authorized,—the Bible of the churches : it may be therefore, that the real concern was, to put this last aside. Towards that indeed (its character as well as its origin considered,) it is natural enough, that the Puritans should have had no very kindly feeling. But the other was the armory of their most-prized peculiarities. To think for a moment of the version which came forth under the sanction of James, as the offspring of their discontent, would be, as respects themselves and the exchange forced upon their hands, to remind us of the ancient fable, too homely and too familiar to be quoted here. Reynolds alleged, to sustain his call for a new translation, three [!] instances misconstrued, as he says, in the "Bibles extant." His censure seems to belong to Cranmer's, and the Bishops', and (in two of the examples adduced,) to Thomas Matthew's; but from these mistakes, if mistakes they are, the Genevan is free altogether.

Of the existing Vernacular versions, none seem to have yet given full satisfaction to those who had the guidance of the state. Bishop Sandys, writing to Parker the Primate, speaks slightly of Cranmer, and as having followed too servilely the authority of certain continental translators, who were not thought faithful enough to the Original. The success of the Genevan, one may suspect also, was not less galling to the prelates, than its principles were opposite to theirs. His Majesty described it as "very partial, untrue, seditious, and savouring too much of dangerous and traitorous conceits." There had also begun to be a great dearth of Bibles, and which even extended to churches. But as this was said of "the former translation," Cranmer's was clearly meant; which it is very likely had been, almost as thoroughly as its predecessors, supplanted by the Genevan. The lack was not perchance absolute, so much as of those which princes and prelates could read without discomfort. Parker, the archbishop, was thus led to undertake a new revision of the scriptures, under the authority and commission, says Fuller, of the Queen. With this view he divided the whole Bible into fifteen parts, which were allotted to as many trust-worthy men of learning; each to correct and revise the part assigned him, while to himself he reserved the supervision of the whole. Of their labours, the result was what is sometimes called Parker's, but more commonly the BISHOPS' Bible, the majority of those engaged in it (viz. eight) having reached the Episcopal rank. These were Alley of Exeter, Davis of St. David's, Sandys of Worcester, Horne of Winchester, Grindal of London, Parkhurst of Norwich, Cox of Ely, Guest of Rochester. It appeared in large folio, 1568, elegantly printed by Richard Jugge. "The revisers were directed," says Parker in his preface, "to follow the former translation" [Crammer's] more than any other ; as a like deference to the Bishops' itself was enjoined upon their successors in King James's time. The initial signature of the author is most commonly to be found at the end of their respective portions, in the true Episcopal style,—the christian name and the name of the bishopric conjoined (in Latin) ; and by this mark the Bible may, in a degree, be ascertained.

Strype says that the capital letter, commencing Genesis, was adorned with the arms of the see of Canterbury [the archiepiscopal see] : in the second edition [1572] stands the picture of the Lord-Treasurer [Burghley] before the Psalms, the book of which, as being his great delight, appears in his hand.

With all the high patronage it enjoyed, it does not seem to have got much possession of the kingdom, beyond its pulpits, most editions, as Lewis says, being in folio and quarto : he "had never heard of but one in 8vo. [small black letter, 1569] and a New Testament impression only, 1613." What was thought of the spirit and motives in which the version had its origin, may be inferred from the nickname under which it went for a time with many, of Elizabeth's Opposition Bible.

At the Hampton Court Conference, in 1603, the first year of James's reign, was the movement first given to the translation which bears his name. It was begun in 1607, and completed in 1611. To enter into its history is not called for by the scope of the present narrative ; and the Editor would have been as well pleased to have been spared the unthankful, but unavoidable office, of touching in the preceding Sketch, with however light a hand, on its character and merits.

Of the foregoing Bibles, the following editions have been used in collating for the present work:—Thomas Matthew's, fol. 1549; Taverner's, fol. 1551; Cranmer's, or the Great Bible, small 4to. 1541; the Genevan, 4to. 1579; the Bishops', fol. 1575. Coverdale's variations, the Editor has been constrained to derive at second-hand only, (and of course to great disadvantage) through the medium of Bishop Wilson's edition of the Bible, [3 vols. 4to. 1785] in the margin of which they are quoted; but often with singular indistinctness, and, (to judge from the references to other versions used in the same connection, which he had opportunity to consult directly,) not with a fidelity to be always or confidently relied upon. Of Coverdale's New Testament, or what purports to be such, there is a copy in small 8yo. supposed about 1536, (for, as commonly happens with these biblical antiques, the title-page is wanting) in the Boston Athenæum. But the Trustees of that institution did not see fit to further the interests of biblical and antiquarian learning, to the degree of granting its free loan and convenient use towards the improvement of the present work.

All the generacions from Abraham to David are fowretene generacions. And from David vnto the captivete of Babilon, are fowrtene generacions. And from the captivete of Babilon vnto Christ, are also fowrtene generacions.

THE byrthe off CHRISTE was on thys wyse, When hys mother mary was ²maryed vnto Joseph, before they cam to dwell togedder, she was founde with chylde by the holy goost.
Then her husbande Joseph being a ³perfect man, and ⁴loth to defame her, was mynded to put her awaye secretly. Whill he thus thought, behold the angell of the lord apered vnto him in slepe saynge : Joseph the sonne of David, feare not to take vnto the, Mary thy wyfe. For that which is conceaved in her is of the holy goost. She shall bryngē forthe a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Jesus. For he shall save his people from theire synnes.

All thys was done to fulfill that which was spoken of the lorde be the prophet saynge ; Beholde a mayde shalbe with chylde, and shall bryngē forthe a sonne, and they shall call his name Emanuel, which is as moche to saye be interpreta-cion, as God with vs.

The Second Chapter.

WHEN Jesus was borne in Bethleem a toune of Jury / in the tyme of king Herode. Beholde / there cam wyse men from the est to Jerusalem saynge : where is ¹ he that is borne kynge of the Jues ? we have sene his starre in the est / and are come to worship hym.

Herode the kynge / after he hadd herde thys / was troubled / and all Jerusalem with hym / and he sent for all the chefe prestes and scribes off the people / and demaunded off them where Christ shulde be borne. They sayde vnto hym : in Bethleem a toune of Jury. For thus it is written be the prophet: And thou Bethleem in the londe of Jury / shalt not be the leest as perteyninge to the princes of iuda. For out of the shal come ²a captaine / whych shall govern my people israhel.

Then Herod prevely called the wyse men / and dyligently enquyred of them / the tyme of the starre that appered. And sent them to bethleem saynge : ³when ye be come thyder searche dyligently for the childe. And when ye have founde hym bringe me worde / that y maye come and worshipe hym also. When they had herde the kynge / they departed / and lo the starre whych they sawe in the este went before them / vntyll it cam and stod over the place where the chylde was. When they sawe the starre / they ⁴were marveylously gladd / And entred into the house / and founde the childe with Mary hys mother / and kneled doune and worshipped hym / and opened there treasuries / and offred unto him gyttes / gold / franckynsence / and myr. And after they were warned ⁵in ther slepe / that they shulde not go agayne to Herod / they retourned into ther awne countre another way.

apered to Joseph in his slepe saynge Aryse and take the chylde and hys mother/ and flye in to Egipte/ and abyde there till y brynghe the worde. For Herod wyll seke the chylde to destroye hym. Then he arose/ and toke the chylde and his mother by night/ and departed in to Egipte/ and was there vnto the deeth of Herod/ to fulfill that which was spoken of the lorde/ be the prophet/ which sayeth: out of Egipte have y called my sonne.

Then Herod perceavyng that he was moocked off the wyse men/ was exceedinge wroth/ and sent forth ⁶and slue all ⁷the chyldren that were in bethleem/ and in all the costes there of/ as many as were two yere old and vnder/ accordynge to the tyme which he had diligently searched oute of the wyse men.

Then was fulfilled that which was spoken be the prophet Jeremi/ saynge: ⁸On the hilles was a voyce herde/ mournynge/ wepynge/ and greate lamentacion. Rachel wepynge ffor her chyldren/ and wolde nott be comforted because they were not.

But when he herde that Archelaus did raygne in Jury/ in the roume of hys father Herode/ he was afrayde to go therethen/ notwithstandinge after he was warned ¹⁰in his slepe/ he tourned a syde into the parties off galile/ and went and dwelt in a cite called Nazareth/ to ffulfill that which was spoken be the prophetes: he shalbe called of Nazareth.

The Thirde Chapter.

IN those dayes Jhon the baptiser cam and preached in the wildernes off iury saynge: Repent¹ the kyngdome of heven is at honde. This is he of whom it is spoken be the prophet Esay/ which sayeth: The voyce off a cryer in wylernes/ prepare the lordes way/ and make hys pathes strayght.

When he sawe many off the pharises and off the saduces come to hys baptism/ he sayde vnto them : O generacion of vipers/ who hath taught you to fle from the vengeance to come ? brynge forthe therefore the frutes ³ belongyng to repentaunce. And ⁴se that ye ons thinke not to saye in yourselves/ we have Abraham to oure father. For I say vnto you/ that God is able off these stones/ to rayse up chyldren vnto Abraham. Even nowe is the ax put vnto the rote of the trees : soo that every tree which bringeth not fforthe goode frute/ shalbe hewne doun/ and cast into the fyre.

I Baptise you in water ⁵in token of repentaunce/ but he that cometh after me/ is myghtier than I : whose shues I am not worthy to beare. he shal baptise you with the holy gost/ and with fyre/ which hath also his fan in his hond/ and will pourge his floore/ and gadre the wheat into his garner/ and will burne the chaffe with everlastinge fyre.

Then cam Jesus from Galile into Jordan/ to Jhon/ ffor to be baptised off hym. But Jhon ⁶fforbade hym/ saynge : I ought to be baptysed off the : and commest thou too me ? Jesus answered and sayde to hym : Lett hyt be so nowe. For thus hit becommeth us to fulfull all rightewesnes. Then he suffred hym. And Jesus as sone as he was baptised/ came straignt out of the water : And lo heven was open vnto hym : and ⁷he saw the spirite of God descende lyke a dove/ and lyght vpon hym. And lo there cam a voice from heven sayng : thys ys my deare sonne in whom is my delyte.

The Fourthe Chapter.

THEN was Jesus ledd awaye of the spirite in to a desert/ to be tempted of the devyll. And when he had fasted fourtye dayes and fourtye nyghtes/ att the last he was an hundred. For hit ys wrytten/ he shall geve his angels charge over the/ and with there handes the shall stey the vpp/ that thou dashe not thy fote agaynst a stone. Jesus sayde to hym/ hit ys wrytten also : thou shalt not tempte thy lorde god.

The devyll tolke hym up agayne and ledde hym in to an excedyng hye mountayne/ and shewed hym al the kyngdomes of the worlde/ and the ¹beauty of them/ and sayde vnto hym : all these will I geve the/ iff thou wilt faull dounē and worship me. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym. ²Avoyd Satan. For it is written/ Thou shalt worshyp thy Lorde God/ and hym only shalt thou serve.

Then the Dyvell left hym/ and lo/ the angels cam and ministred vnto hym.

When Jesus had herde that Jhon was taken/ he departed in to Galile/ and left Nazareth/ and went and dwelte in Caper-naum/ which is a cite apon the see/ in the coostes off Zabulon and Neptalim/ to ffulfill that whiche was spoken be Esay the prophet/ saynge : Beholde the londe of Zabulon and Neptalim/ the waye of the see beyonde Jordan/ Galile off the Gentyls/ the people whiche sat in dercknes/ sawe greate lyght : And to them which sate in the region and shadowe of deeth/ lyght is ³spronge.

From thatt tyme Jesus began to preache/ and to say/ repent : for the kingdome of heven is at honde.

As Jesus walked by the see off Galile/ he sawe two brethren : Simon which was called Peter/ and Andrew his brother/ castynge a neet into the see (for they were fisshers) and he sayde unto them : folowe me/ and I will make you fisshers of men. And they strayght waye lefte there nettes/ and folowed hym.

And they brought vnto hym all sicke people, that were taken with divers diseases and gripinges, and them that were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatyke, and those that had the palsey. The v. Chapter.

WHEN he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountayne, and when he was set, his disciples cam vnto hym, and he openned his mought, and taught them saynge: Blessed are the povre in sprete: for theirs is the kyngdome off heven. Blessed are they that morne: for they shalbe comforted. Blessed are the meke: for they shall inheret the erth. Blessed are they which honger and thurst for rightewesnes: for they shalbe filled. Agayne ye have herde howe it was sayd to them off olde tyme, thou shalt not forswere thy silfe, but shalst performe ¹⁸ thyne othe to God. But I say vnto you swere not at all: nether by heven for hyt ys goddes seate: nor yet by the erth, ffor it ys hys fote stole: Nether by Jerusalem, ffor hit ys the cite of the grete kynge: neither shalt thou sweare by thy heed, because thou canst not make one heer whyte, or blacke: But your communicacion shalbe, ye, ye: nay nay. TAKE hede to youre almes. That ye geve it not in the syght of men. to the intent that ye wolde be sene off them. Or els ye gett no rewarde off youre father in heven. Whensoever therefore thou gevest thine almes/ thou shalt not make a trumpet to be blowne before the/ as the ypocrites do in the synagoges and in the stretes/ ffor to ¹ be preyed off men/ Verily I say vnto you/ they have there rewarde. But when thou doest thine almes/ let not thy lyfte honde knowe/ what thy righte hand doth/ that thyne almes may be secret/ and thy father which seith in secret shall rewarde the openly. And when thou prayest/ thou shalt nott be as the ypocrites are. For they ²love to stond and praye in the synagogges and in corners of the stretes/ because they wolde be sene of men. Veriley I say vnto you/ they have there rewarde. But when thou prayest/ enter into thy ³chambre/ and shutt thy dore to the/ and pray to thy father which ys in secrete : and thy father which seith in secret/ shall rewarde the openly.

But when ye pray/ ⁴bable not moche/ as the gentyls do: for they thincke that they shalbe herde/ ffor there moche bablynges sake. Be ye not lyke them there fore. For youre father knoweth whereof ye have neade/ before ye axe off him. After this maner there fore pray ye.

But gaddr ye¹⁰ treasure togedder in heven/ where nether rust/ nor mothes corupte. and wher theves nether breake up/ nor yet steale. For whearesoever youre treasure ys/ there are youre hertes also.

The light off thy body is thyne eye. Wherefore if thyne eye be single/ all thy body ys full of light. But and if thyne eye be wycked/ then is all thy body full of dercknes. Wherefore yf the light that is in the be dercknes: howe greate ys that dercknes?

No man can serve two masters. For¹¹ other he shall hate the one/ and love the other: or els he shall lene the one/ and despise the other. Ye can nott serve God and mammon. Therefore I saye vnto you/ be not carefull for youre lyfe/ what ye shall eate/ or what ye shall dryncke/ nor yet for youre boddy/ what¹² rayment ye shall weare. JJUDGE not lest ye be iudged. ¹For as ye iudge so shall ye be iudged. And with what mesur ye mete/ with the same shall ²it be mesured to you agayne. Not all they thatt say vnto me, Master, Master, shall enter into the kyngdome off heven: but he that fulfilleth my fathers will which ys in heven.⁸ Many will saye to me yn that daye, Master, Master, have we nott in thy name prophesied? And in thy name have we nott caste oute devyls? And in thy name have we nott done many miracles? And then will I ⁹knowlege vnto them, that I never knewe ¹⁰them. Whosoever hearethe off me these saynges, and doethe the same, I wyll lyken hym vnto a wyse man which byllt his housse on a rocke: and ¹¹abundance off rayne descended, and the fluddes cam, and the wynddes blewe, and bett vpon that same housse, and it ¹²was not over throwen, because it was grounded on the rocke. AND it cam to passe when Jesus had ¹ended his preceptes vnto his disciples/ he departed thence/ to preache and teache in there cites.

When Jhon beinge in preson herde the workes of Christ/ he sent two of his disciples and sayde vnto him. Arte thou he that shall come : or shall we loke for another ? Even as they departed/ Jesus began to speake vnto the people of Jhon. The viij. Chapter.

IN that tyme went Jesus on the sabot day thorow the corn and his disciples wer anhongred/ and began to plucke the eares off coorne/ and to eate. When the pharises had sene that/ they sayde vnto him : Behold thy disciples do that which is not lawfull to do apon the saboth day. He sayde vnto them :
Have ye nott reed whatt David did/ when he was an houngered/and they alsoo which were with him ? How he entred into the housse of God/ and ate the halowed loves/ whiche wer not lawfull ffor hym to ete/ nether ffor them which were with hym : but only for the prestes. Or have ye not reed in the lawe/ howe that the prestes in the temple ¹breake the sab-here is one greater then the temple. Wherfore if ye had wist what this saynge meneth : I ²requyre mercy/ and not sacri-sonne off man is lorde even off the sabot daye.

And he departed thence/ and went into their Sinagogge, and beholde there was a man/ whiche had his hande dryed
vp. And they axed hym saynge : Ys yt lawfull to heale apon the sabot daye ? because they myght acuse hym. And he sayde vnto them : ³whyche ys he amonqe you/ iff he had a

Then the faryses went forthe/ and toke counsell agaynst

Then was brought to hym/ won possessed with a devyll whych was both blynde and domne. and he healed him/ insomuch that he which was blynd and domne both spake and sawe. And all the people were amased/ and sayde : Ys not this the sonne of david ? When the pharises herde that/ they sayde : ⁹ he dryveth the devyls no other wyse oute but by the helpe off belsebub the ¹⁰ chefe of the devylls.

But Jesus knewe their thoughtes and sayde to them. Every kyngdom divided with in it sylfe shalbe ¹¹ desolate. Nether shall eny cite or householde devyded agenst it sylfe/ contynue. So if satan cast out satan/ then ys he devyded agenst him sylfe. Howe shall then hys kyngdom endure ? Also yf y by the helpe of belzebub cast out devyls: by whose helpe do youre children cast them out ? therfore thei shalbe youre iudges : But if I cast out the devyls by the sprete of God : then ys the kyngdom of God come on you ?

Then ¹⁶answered certayne off the scribes and off the pharises saynge: Master/ we ¹⁷wolde fayne se a sygne of the. He answered them saynge: the evyll and advoutrous generacion seketh a signe/ but there shall no signe be geven to them/ but the signe of the prophete ionas. for as ionas was thre days and thre nyghtes in the whales belly: soo shall the sonne of man be thre days and thre nyghtes in the hert of the erth. The viij. Chapter.

THE same daye went Jesus out off the housse/ and sat by the see syde/ and moch people¹ resorted vnto him/ so gretly that he went and sat in a shyppe/ and all the people stode on the shoore. And he spake many thynges to them in similitudes/ sayinge: Beholde/ the sower went forth to sowe/
And as he sowed/ some fell by the wayes syde/ and the fowlles cam/ and devoured it vppe. Some fell apon stony² grounde where it had not moche erth/ and a non it spronge vppe/
³ hitt cauth heet/ and for lake off rotynge wyddred awaye.
Some fell amone thornes/ and the thornes arose and chooked
it. Parte fell in good grunde/ and⁴ broght forth good frute:
some an hundred fold/ some⁵ fifty fold/ some thyrty folde.
Whosoever hath eares to heare/ let him heare.

And hys disciples cam/ and sayde to him: Why speakest thou to them in parables? he answered and sayde vnto them:
Hit is geven vnto you to know the secrete off the kyngdom of heven/ but to them it is not geven. For whosumever hath to him shall hit be geven: and he shall have abundance.
But whosoever hath not: from him shalbe takyn awaye even that same that he hath. Therefore speake y to them in simili-tudes. For though they se/ they se not: and hearinge they heare not: nether vnderstonde. And in them ys fulfylled the prophesy of Esay/ which prophesi sayth:⁶ with youre eares their eyes have they closed/ lest they shoulde se with their eyes/ and heare with their eares/ and shuld vnderstonde with

But blessed are youre eyes/ for they se/ and youre eares/

ye heare/ and have not herde them. Heare ye therfore the similitude off the sower. When a man heareth the worde of the kingdom/ and vnderstandeth it not/ there cometh ⁹ the evyll man/ and catcheth awaye that which was sowne in ¹⁰ hys hert. And thys is he which was sowne by the waye syde. But he that ¹¹ was sowne in the stony grunde ys he/ which heareth the worde of God/ and ¹² anon with ioye receaveth it/ yet hath he no rottes in himselfe/ And therefore he dureth but a season : for as sone as tribulation and persecucion aryseth because of the worde/ by and by he falleth. He ¹¹ that was sowne amonge thornes/ ys he that heareth the worde off God/ But the care of this worlde/ and the dissaytfulnes off ryches choke the worde/ and so ys he made vnfrutfull. He ¹¹ which is sowne in the good grunde/ ys he that heareth the worde and vnderstandeth it/ which also bereth frute/ and bringeth forth/ some an hundred folde/ some⁵ fyfty folde/ and some thyrtys folde.

Another similitude put he forth/ vnto them saynge : The kyngdom off heven ys like vnto a man which sowed good seede in his felde. But whyll men slepte/ ther cam his foo/ and sowed tares amonge the wheate/ and went his waye : When the blade was spronge vp/ and had brought forth frute/ then appered the tares also. The seruauntes cam to the householder/ and sayde vnto him : ¹³ Syr/ sowedest not thou good seed in thy ¹⁴ closse/ from whence then hath it tares ? He sayde to them/ the ¹⁵ envious man hath done this. Then the seruauntes sayde vnto hym : wylt thou then that we go and gader it ? and he sayde/ nay/ lest whyll ye ¹⁶ go aboute to wede out the tares/ ¹⁷ ye plucke vppe also with them the wheate by the rottes : let bothe growe to gether till harvest come/ and in time of harvest/ I wyll saye vnto my repers/ gadther ye fyrst the tares/ and bynd them in ¹⁸ sheves to be brent : but gadther the wheete in to my barne.

Another parable he putt forthe vnto them saynge. The kyngedom of heven ys lyke vnto a grayne of mustarde seede/ which a man taketh and soweth in his felde/ whych ys the leest of all seedes. But when it is growne/ it is the greatest amonge yerbes/ and is a tree : so that the bryddes ¹⁹ of the aier come/ and ²⁰ bylde in the braunches of it.

Another similitude sayde he to them. The kyngdome of heven ys lyke vnto leven which a woman toke and ²⁰ hyd in ij peckes off meeles, tyll all was levended.

All these thynge spake Jesus vnto the people by similitudes, and with oure similitudes spake he nothinge to them, to fulfyll that which was spoken by the prophet sayinge: I wyll open my mouth in similitudes, and wyll speake forth thinges whych have bene kepte secrete from the ²¹ begynnynge off the worlde.

Then sent Jesus the people awaye, and cam to housse, and hys disciples cam vnto hym, saynge: declare vnto vs the similitude of the tares off the felde: Then answered he and sayde to them. He that soweth the good seed, ys the sonne of man, the felde ys the worlde. The chyldren off the kyngdom are the good seed. The evyll mans chyldren are the tares. But the enemy which soweth them, is the devill. The harvest is the end of the worlde and the repers be the angels. For even as the tares are gaddred, and brent in the fyre: so shall it be in the ende off this worlde. The sonne of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gadther out off his kyngdom all things that do hurte, and all them which do iniquite, and shall cast them into a furnes of fyre. There shall be waylynge and gnasshyng off teth. Then shall the ²² iuste men shyne as bryght as the sun in the kyngdom of their father, wosoever hath eares to heare, let him heare.

Agayne the kyngdom off heven is lyke unto treasure hidde in the felde, the which a man founde and hidde it: and ffor ioy there of goeth and selleth all that he hath, and byeth that felde.

Agayne the kyngdom off heven is lyke vnto a ²³ marchaunt, sekyng after good pearles, which when he had found one ²⁴ precious pearle, wentt and solde all that he had, and bought it.

Agayne the kyngdome off heven is lyke vnto a neet cast into the see, that gadereth off all kynedes off fysshys: which when it is full, men drawe to londe, and sitt and gadre the good in to their vessels and caste the bad awaye. So shall it be at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come and sever the bad from the goode, and shall caste them in to a furnes of fyre, there shall be waylinge and gnasshyng of teth.

And hyt cam to passe when Jesus had fynnesshed these similitudes that he departed thence/ and cam into his awne countre/ and taught in there synagogges/ in so moche that they were astunyed and sayde : whence cam all thys wysdon and²⁶ power vnto him ? is not thys the carpenters sonne ? is not hys mother called mary ? and hys brethren be called/ James and Joses and Symon and Judas ? and are not hys sistres all here with vs ? Whence hath he all these thynges ? And they wer hurte by him. Then Jesus sayde vnto them :²⁷ there is no prophet without honoure/ save in hys awne countre/ and²⁸ amonge his awne kynne. And he dyd not many myracles there/ for there vnbelefes sake.

IN that tyme Herod the tetrarcha herde off the fame of Jesu/ and sayde vnto his servauntes : This is Jhon baptist : he is risen agayne from deeth/ and therfore¹ hys power ys so greate. And he called the people vnto him, and saide to them: heare and vnderstonde. That which goeth in to the mough/ defyleth not a man: but that which commeth out of the mough/ defyleth the man.

Then cam his disciples/ and sayde vnto him: ⁷ perceavest thou/ howe that the pharyses are offended hearinge thys saynge? THE same tyme the disciples cam vnto Jesus sayng: who is the greatest in the kyngdom of heven? Jesus called a ¹ chylde vnto hym, and set him in the middes of them, and sayd: Verely I say vnto you: except ye ² tourne, and become as children, ye cannot enter into the kyngdom off heven. whosoever therfore shall ³ submit him silfe as this chylde, he is the greatest in the kyngdom of heven. And whosoever receaveth suche a chylde in my name, receaveth me. But whosoever offend one of these lytell wons, which beleve in me: yt were better for hym, that a millstone were hanged aboute his necke, and that he were drouned in the depth of the see. Wo be vnto the worlde because of ⁴ evill occasions. Hit is necessary that ⁴ evyll occasions be geven, neverthelesse woo be to that man, by whom ⁴ evyll occasion commeth. AND it folowed when Jesus had fynysshed those sayinges/ he gat hym from Galile/ and cam into the coostes of iewry beyonde Jordan/ and moche people folowed hym/ and he healed them theare. Then cam vnto hym the pharises to tempte hym/ and sayde to hym : Ys hit lawfull for a man to ¹put a waye his wyfe for ²all manner off causes ? Then sayde they to hym : why did Moses commaunde to geve vnto her a ⁵testimoniall of divorce-ment and to put her awaye ? And when the ten herde this, they desdayned att the two brethren. But Jesus called them vnto hym, and saide: Ye knowe, that the ¹⁵ lordes of the gentyls have dominacion over them. And they that are greate, exercise power over them. It shall not be so amonge you: But whosoever wyll be greate among you, let hym be youre minister, and whosoever will be chefe, let him be youre seruaunt. Even as the sonne off man cam, not to be ministered vnto, but to minister: and to geve his lyfe ¹⁶ for the redempcion off many.

And as they departed from Hierico, moche people folowed hym. And beholde two blynde men sytting by the waye side, when they herde, that Jesus passed by cryed sayinge:

The xxij. Chapter.

WHEN they drewe nye vnto Jerusalem/ and were come to Betphage/ vnto mounte olivete/ then sent Jesus two off his disciples/ sayinge to them : Go in to the toune that lyeth over agaynste you/ and anon ye shall fynde an asse bounde/ and her colte with her/ lose them and bringe them vnto me. And if eny man saye ought vnto you/ saye ye that ¹ youre master hath neade off them/ and streyght waye he will let them go. All this was done/ to fulfull that which was spoken by the prophet/ sayinge : Tell ye the daughter of Si-on : beholde thy kinge cometh vnto the meke/ sittinge vpon an asse and a colte/ the foole off an asse vsed to the yooke. The disciples went/ and did as Jesus commaunded them/ and brought the asse and the colte/ and put on them there clothes/ and set him there on. Many of the people spreid their garmentes in the waye. other cut doun braunches from the trees/ and strawed them in the waye. Moreover the people that went before/ and they also that cam after cried sayinge : hosanna to the sonne of David. Blessed be he that commeth in the name of the lorde/ hosanna in the hyest.

And when he was come in to Jerusalem/ all the cite was moved/ sayinge : who ys thys ? And the people sayde : thys ys Jesus the prophet of nazareth a cite of galile. And Jesus went in to the temple of God/ and caste out all them that bought and solde in the temple/ and overthrew the tables of the mony chaungers/ and the seates of them that solde doves. And saide to them : it is written/ mine housse shalbe called the housse off prayer/ butt ye have made it a denn of theves. And the blinde and the halt cam to hym in the temple/ and he healed them.

Jesus sayde vnto them : ³ have ye never redde off the mouth of babes and suckelinges thou hast ⁴ ordeyned prayse ? And he left them/ and went out of the cite vnto bethani/ and ⁵ passed the tyme there.

In the mornynge as he returned into the cite agayne/ he hungred/ and spyeid a fygge tree in the way/ and cam to it/ and founde nothyng there on/ but leves only/ and said to it/ never frute growe on the hence forwardes. And anon the fygge tree wyddered awaye. And when his disciples sawe it/ they marvelled sayinge : How sone is the fygge tree wyddered awaye ? And whatsoeuer thinge ye shall axe in youre prayers (if ye beleve) ye shall receave hit.

And when he was come into the temple/ the chefe prestes and the seniores of the people cam vnto him as he was teachinge/ and sayde : by what auctorite doest thou these thinges ? and who gave the this power ? Jesus answered/ and sayde vnto them : I also wyll axe ⁸ of you a certayne question/ which if ye ⁹ asoyle me/ y in lyke wyse wyll tell you by what auctorite I do these thinges. Whence was the baptism of Jhon ? from heven/ or of men ? And they thought in themselves/ sayinge : yf we shall saye/ from heven/ he wyll saye vnto vs : why dyd ye not then beleve hym : but and iff we shall saye of men then feare we the people. For all men helde Jhon as a prophet. And they answered Jesus/ and sayde : we cannot tell. He lykewyse sayde vnto them : neither tell I you by what auctorite y do these thinges : ¹⁰ What saye ye to thys ? a certayne man had ij sonnes/ and cam ¹¹ to the elder sayinge : go/ and worke to day in my vyneyarde. Jesus sayde unto them: verely I saye vnto you, that the publicans and the harlotes shal come into the kyngdome off God before you. For Jhon cam vnto you,¹² in the way of rightewesnes, and ye beleved hym not, but the publicans and the¹³ whoores beleved hym. But ye (though ye sawe it) yet were not moved¹⁴ with repentaunce, that ye myght afterwarde have beleved hym.

Herken another similitude. There was a certayne¹⁵ housholder whych set a vyneyarde, and hedged it rounde about, and made a wynpresse in it, and bilt a tower, and lett it out to husbandmen, and went into a straunge countre. And when the tyme of the frute drew near, he sent his servautes to the husbandmen, to receave the frutes of it, and the husbandmen caught his servautes, and bet won, kyllled another, and stoned another. Againe he sent other servautes moo then the fyrst, and they¹⁶ served them lyke wyse. But last of all, he sent vnto them hys awne sonne, sayinge: they wyll¹⁷ feare my sonne. When the husbandmen saw his sonne, they sayde amonge themselves: Thys ys the heyre, come on lett us kyll hym, and lett vs¹⁸ take hys inherytaunce to oure selves. And they caught hym and thrust him out of the vyneyarde, and shlewe him. When the lorde of the vyneyarde commeth, what wyll he do with those husbandmen? They sayde vnto hym: ¹⁹ he will²⁰ evyll destroye those²¹ evyll persons, and wyll lett out his vyneyarde vnto other husbandmen, whych shall delyver hym his frute²² att tymes convenient.

Jesus saide vnto them: dyd ye never reede in the scriptures? the same stone which the bylders²³ refused, is set in the princypall parte of the corner. this was the lordes doinge, and it is meravelous in oure eyes. Therefore saye I vnto you the kingdome of god shalbe taken from you, and shalbe geven to²⁴ the gentyles which shall brynge forth the frutes off it.

WHEN the mornynge was come/ all the chefe prestes and senyours off the people helde a counsayle agenst Jesu/ to put hym to deth/ and brought hym bounde and delyvered hym vnto Poncius Pylate the debyte.

For he knewe well, that for envy they had delyvered him.

When he was sett doune¹⁰ to geve iudgement, his wyfe sent to hym, sayinge : have thou nothinge to do with that iuste man, I have suffered many thinges this daye in¹¹ my slepe abouthe hym.

¹ THE saboth daye att even which dauneth the morowe after the saboth, Mary magdalene and the other Mary cam to se the sepulcre.

And beholde there was a greate erth quake. For the angell of the lorde descended from heven: and cam and rowlled backe the stone ffrom the dore, and sate apon it. His countenaunce was lyke lyghtnyng, and his rayment whyte as snowe. For feare of hym the kepers ²were astunyyed and were as deed men.

The angell answered, and sayde to the wemen, Feare ye not. I knowe well ye seke Jesus which was crucified: he is not here: he is rysen as he sayde. Come, and se the place where the lorde was put. And goo quickly and tell his disciples that he is rysen from deeth. And beholde, he wyll go before you into Galile, there ye shall se hym. Lo I have tolde you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulcre with feare and great ioye. And did runne to bringe his disciples worde. And as they went to tell his disciples, beholde, Jesus mett them sayinge: ³God sped you. They cam and held hym by the feté and worshypped hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: be not afayde: Go and tell my brethren, that they goo into galile, and there shall they se me. When they were gone, beholde, some of ⁴the kepers cam in to the cite, and shewed vnto the ⁵prelattes, all thinges whych had hapened. And they gaddeder them togedder with the senioures, and toke counsell, and gave ⁶large money vnto the souders, saynge: Saye that his disciples cam be nyght, and stoole hym awaye whyll ye slept. The Gospell of S. Marke.

The first Chapter.

THIS begynnynge off the Gospell of Jesu Christ the sonne off God/ as yt ys written in the prophettes/ beholde I sende my messenger before thy face/ whych shall prepare thy waye before the. The voyce of won that cryeth in the wildernes: prepare ye the waye off the lorde/ make his pathes streyght.

Jhon did baptise in the wildernes/ and preache the baptism ¹ of repentaunce/ for the remission of synnes. And all the londe of iewry/ and they of Jerusalem went out vnto hym/ and were all baptised of hym in the ryver Jordan/ ² knowledgynge their synnes.

Jhon was clothed with cammylles heer/ and wyth a ³ ger-dyll off a ⁴ [beestes] skyn about hys loynes. And he ate locustes and wylde hony/ and preached saynge: a stronger than I commeth after me/ whos shue latchett I am not worthy to stoupe doun and vnlose. I have baptised you with water: but he shall baptise you with the holy goost.

And yt came to passe in those dayes/ that Jesus cam from nazareth/ a cite of galile: and was baptised of Jhon in Jordan. And ⁵ immediately he cam out of the water/ and sawe the hevens ⁶ open/ and the ⁷ holy goost descendinge vppon him lyke a dove. And there cam a voyce from heven: Thou arte my dere sonne/ in whom I delite.

And immediatly the sprete drove hym into a wildernes:

and he was there in the wyldernes xl. dayes/ and was tempt-ed off Satan/ and was with wylde beestes. And the angels ministréd vnto hym.

After that Jhon was taken/ Jesus cam in to galile/ preach-yng the gospell off the kyngdom of god/ and saynge : the tyme ys ⁸ ful come/ and the kyngdom of god is even att honde/ ⁹repent and beleve the gospell.

As he walked by the see of galile/ he sawe Simon and Andrewe his brother castinge nettes in to the see/ for they were fysshers. And Jesus sayde vnto them : folowe me/ and I wyll make you to be fysshers of men. And they strayght waye forsoke their nettes/ and folowed him.

And when he had gone a lytell further thens/ he sawe James the sonne off zebede/ and Jhon his brother/ ¹⁰even as they were in the shippē ¹¹ dressyng their nettes. And anon he called them. And they leeft their father Zebede in the shippē with his heyred servauntes/ and went their waye after hym.

And they entred in to capernaum/ and streight waye on the sabot dayes he entred in to the sinagogge and taught. And they ¹²mervelled att hys ¹³learninge. for he taught them as won whych had power with him/ and not as the scrybes did.

And there was in the sinagogge/ a man vexed with an vnclene spirite/ and he cryed sayinge : ¹⁴lett me a lone : what have we to do with the Jesus of nazareth ? arte thou come to destroie vs ? I knowe what thou arte/ thou arte ¹⁵that holy man promysed of god. And Jesus rebuked him/ saynge : hoolde thy pace and com out of the man. And the vnclene spirite tare him/ cryed out with a lowde voyce/ and cam out of him. And they were all amased/ in so moche that they demaunded won off another among them selves/ saying : what thinge ys thys ? what newe doctrine is thys ? for he commaundeth the foule spirites with power/ and they obeye him. Anon his name spreid abroade throughoute all the re-gion borderynge on galile.

And immediatly as sonne as they were com out of the sinagogge/ they entred in to the housse of Symon and Andrew with James and Jhon. Symones ¹⁶ motherelawe lay

And at even when the sun was doun, they brought vnto him all that were diseased, and them that were ¹⁷ possessed with devyls and all the cite gaddred togedder at the dore, and he healed many that were sycke of dyvers diseases. And he cast out many devyls : and suffered not the devyls to ¹⁸ speake, because they knewe him.

And in ¹⁹ the moorninge very erly, ²⁰ Jesus arose and went out in to a solitary place, and there prayed. And Simon and they that were with hym folowed after hym. And when they had founde him, they sayde vnto him : all men seke for the, and he sayd vnto them : let vs go in to the nexte tounes, that y maye preache there also : for ²¹ truly I cam out for that purpose. and he preached in their sinagogges, throughout all galile, and cast devyls out.

And there cam a leper to him besechinge him, and kneled doun vnto him, and sayde vnto him : yf thou wylt thou arte able to make me clene. Jesus had compassion on him, and put forth his honde, touched him, and sayde vnto him : I will be clene. and as sone as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, ²² and he was clesned. And ²³ he charged hym, and sent him awaye forthwith. and sayd vnto him : Se that thou tell no man, but gett the hence and shewe thy sylfe to the prest, and offer for thy clensyng, those thinges which Moses commaunded, for a testimoniall vnto them. But he (as sone as he was departed) began to tell many thinges and to publyshe the dede, in so moche that Jesus coulde no more openly entre in to the cite, but was with out in desert places, and they came to him from every quarter.

And there cam vnto hym that brought wone sicke off the palsey, borne off fower men : and be cause they coulde not com nye vnto hym for³ preace : They⁴ opened the rofe of the housse where he was. And when they had broken yt open, they lett doun⁵ the beed where in the sicke of the palsey ley. When Jesus sawe their fayth, he sayde to the sicke of the palsey, sonne thy synnes are forgeven the.

There were certeyne of the scrybes syttinge, and reasoninge in their hertes :⁶ howe doeth thys felowe blasphemē ? who can forgeve synnes, but god only ? And immediatly when Jesus perceaved in his sprete, that they so reasoned in them selves, he saye vnto them : why thynke ye soche thinges in youre hertes ? whether ys it easyer to saye to the sicke of the palsey, thy synnes ar forgeven the : or to saye, aryse, take vppe thy beed and walke ? That ye may knowe that the sonne of man hath power in erth to forgeve sinnes, he spake vnto the sicke of the palsey : I saye vnto the, aryse and take vp thy beed, and get the hens in to thyne awne housse. And by and by he arose, toke vp hys beed, and went forth before them all, in so moche that they were all amased, and glorified god, sayinge : we never sawe⁷ it on thys passion.

And he went out agayne vnto the see, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught them. And as Jesus passed by, he sawe levy the sonne of alphey, sytt att the receyete of custome, and sayde vnto him : folowe me. And he arose and folowed hym. And yt cam to passe, as Jesus sate att meate in his housse, many publicans and synners sate att meate also with Jesus and his disciples. For there were many that folowed him. And when the scribs and pharises sawe him eate with publicans and synners, they sayde vnto his disciples : howe is it, that he eateth and drynketh with publicans and synners ? when Jesus had herde that, he sayd vnto them. The whole have no nede of the visicion : but the sicke. I cam⁸ to cal the sinners to repentaunce, and not the iuste.

As longe as they have the brydgrome with them/ they cannot faste. Butt the dayes wyll come when the brydegrome shalbe taken from them/ and then shall they faste in thoose dayes.

Also no man soweth a pece of newe cloth vnto an olde garment/ for ¹⁰then taketh he awaie the newe pece from the olde/ and so is the rent worsse.

In lyke wyse/ no man poureth newe wyne in to olde vesselles/ for yf he do the newe wyne breaketh the vesselles/ and the wyne runneth out/ and the vessels are ¹¹marde. Butt newe wyne must be poured in to new vesselles.

And it chaunsed that he went thorowe the corne feldes on the sabbath daye/ and his disciples ¹²[as they went on their waye/] began to plucke the eares of corne/ And the pharises sayde vnto him : Take hede why do they on the sabbath daye that which is vnlauffull ? And he sayde vnto them : have ye never redde what David did/ when he had nede/ and was an-hongred both he and they that were with him ? howe they went into the housse of God in the dayes of Abiathar the hye

the prestes only to eate : and gave also to them which were with him ? And he sayde to them : the sabbath daye was made for man/ and nott man for the sabbath daye. Wherfore is the sonne of man lorde even of the sabbath daye.

and he stretched it forth: and the honde was restored, even as whole as the other.

The pharises departed, and streyght waye gaddred a counsell with ⁵ them that belonged to Herode agaynst hym, that they myght destroye him. And Jesus avoyded with his discipiles to the see: and a greate multitude folowed him from galile and from Jewry, and from Hierusalem, and from Iudea, and from beonde Jordane: and they that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a greate multitude: which when they hadde herde ⁶ what thynges he did, cam vnto him.

And he comaunded his discipiles, that a shippe shulde wayte on him, because off the people, leste they shulde throunge hym, for he had healed many, in so moche that they preased apon him, for to touche him, as many as had plages and when the vnclene sprites sawe him, they fell doun before him, and cryed sayinge: thou arte the sonne of God: And he ⁷ streyghtly charged them that they shulde not ⁸ vtter him.

And he went vppe into a mountayne, and called vnto him whom he wolde, and they cam vnto him. And he ⁹ ordeined the twelve that they shulde be with him, and that he myght sende them to preache. When he was alone, they that were aboute hym with the twelve axed hym of the similitude. And he saide vnto them: To you it is geven to knowe the mistery of the kyngdom of God. But vnto them that are with out, shall all thinges be done in similitudes: that when they se, they shall se, and not discerne: and when they heare they shall heare, and not vnderstonde: leste at any tyme they shulde tourne, and their synnes shulde be forgeven them. And he sayde vnto them: Perceave ye not this similitude. And howe ³ ye shall knowe all similitudes?

The sower soweth the worde. ⁴ These be they whiche are by the wayes syde, where the worde is sownen, to whom as sone as they have herde it, commeth ⁵ the devyll and takith awaye the worde that was sownen in their hertes. There appered vnto him the lordes angell/ stondinge on the right syde off the aultre off odours. And when Zacharias sawe hym/ he was¹⁸ abasshed and feare cam on hym.

And he caryed hym to hierusalem, and set him on a pynacle of the temple, and sayd vnto him : Yf thou be the sonne of god, cast thy silfe doun from hens. For it ys written, he shall geve hys angelles charge over the, to kepe the, and with their hondis they shall ³ stey the vppe, that thou ⁴ hurt nott thy fote agaynst a stone. Jesus answered and sayde vnto hym, it is sayd, thou shalt nott tempte thy lorde god. And as sone as the devyll had ended all his temptacions, he departed from him for a season.

And Jesus retourned by the power of the sprete in to galilee, and the fame off hym went throwe oute all the region rounde aboue. And he taught in there sinagogges, and was ⁵ commended off all men.

And it folowed about an viij. dayes after thoose sayinges, he toke Peter, James, and Jhon, and went vp into a mountayne to praye. And as he prayed, the fassion of his countenaunce was changed, and his garment¹² was whyte, and shoone. And beholde, two men talked with him, and they were Moses and Helias, which apered¹³ gloriously, and spake of his departinge, whych he shulde ende att Jerusalem. Peter and they that wer with hym, wer hevy a slepe. And when they woke, they sawe his maiestie, and two men stondinge with him.

And it chaunsed as they departed from hym, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: Master, it is goode being here for us. Let us¹⁴ make thre tabernacles, won for the, and won for Moses, and won for Helias. The xx. Chapter.

AND yt fortuned in one off those dayes/ As he taught the people in the temple/ And preached the gospell. The hye prestes and the scrybes cam vnto hym wyth the seniours/ And spake vnto hym/ sayinge : Tell vs by what auctorite thou doest these thynges? Other who is he that gave the thys auctorite? He answered and sayde vnto them : I also will axe you ¹a question/ And answer me : was the baptem of Jhon/ from heven/ or of men? They ²thought wyth in them selves sayinge : Yff we shall saye from heven : he will saye : Why then beleved ye hym not? But and yff we shall saye of men/ all the people will stone vs. For they ³suerly beleved that Jhon was a prophett. And they answered that they coulde nott tell whence it was. And Jesus sayde vnto them : Nether tell I you by what auctorite I do these thynges.

Then began he to put forthe to the people/ this similitude : A certayne man planted a vinearde/ and lett it forthe to ⁴fermers/ and went hym silfe into a straunge countre for a greate season. And when the time cam/ he sent a seruaunt to his tennauntes that they shulde geve hym of the frutes/ of the vyneyard. The tennauntes bett hym/ and sent him awaye empty. ⁵And he ceased nott thereby but sent yett another seruaunt. And they bett hym/ and ⁶foule entreated hym alsoo/ and sent hym awaye empty. Morover/ he sent the thyrde alsoo/ And hym they wounded/ and cast hym out. Then sayde the lorde off the vyneyarde : what shall I do? I wyll sende my deare sonne/ hym ⁷peradventure they wyll ⁸reverence/ when they se hym.

When the fermers sawe hym/ they thought in them selves/ sayinge : this is the heyre/ come lett vs kyll hym/ that the inhereytance maye be oures. And they cast hym out of the vyneyarde/ and kylled hym. Nowe what shall the lorde off the vyneyarde do vnto them? He wyll come and destroye those fermers/ and will lett out his vyneyarde to other. When they herde that/ they sayde : God forbid.

And the hye prestes and the scrybes, the same howre went about to laye hondes on him, but they feared the people. For they perceaved that he had spoken this similitude agaynst them.

And they watched him, and sent forth spies, whych shulde fayne them selves perfecte, to take hym in hys wordes, and to delyvre hym vnto the power, and auctorite off the ¹³ presydent. And they axed hym sayinge: Master, we knowe that thou sayest, and teachest ryght, nether ¹⁴ considerest thou ¹⁵ eny mannes degré, but teachest the waye of god truely. Ys it laufull for vs to geve Cesar tribute, or noo? He perceaved their craftynes, and sayde vnto them: Why tempt ye me? Shewe me a peny. Whose ymage and superscription hath it? They answered and sayd: Cesars. And he sayde vnto them: Geve then vnto Cesar, ¹⁶ that which belondest vnto Cesar: And to God, ¹⁶ that which pertayneth to God. Then cam to hym certayne off the Saduces which denye that there is eny resurreccion. And he sayde vnto them: O foles, and slowe of herte to beleve all that the prophetes have spoken. Ought not Christ to have suffered these thinges, and to enter into his glory ? And he began at Moses, and at all the prophetes, and interpreted vnto them, in all scriptures ¹⁰ which were written of him. And they drue neye vnto the toune which they went to. And he made, as though he wolde have gone further. And they constrainyd hym, sayinge: Abyde with vs for it draweth tawardes nyght, and the daye is farre passed. And he went in to tary with them.

And it cam to passe as he sate att meate wyth them, he toke breed and ¹¹ blessed yt, and brake ytt and gave it vnto them. And their eyes were openned. And they knewe hym. And he ¹² vannished out of their syght, and they sayde betwene them selves: did not oure hertes burne wyth in vs, whyll he talked with vs by the waye, and openned to vs the scriptures ? The fyrst Chapter.

NE the begynnyng was ¹ that worde, and ¹ that worde was with god: and ² god was thatt worde. The same was in the begynnyng wyth god. All thynges were made by it, and with out it was made noo thinge: that made was. In it was lyfe, And lyfe was the light of men, And the light shyneth in darcknes, and darcknes comprehended it not.

There was a man sent from god, whose name was Jhon. The same cam as a witnes, to beare witnes, of the light, that all men through him myght beleve. He was nott that light: but ³ to beare witnes of the light. That was ⁴ a true light, which lighteneth all men that come into the worlde. He was in the worlde, and the worlde by him was made: and the worlde knewe hym not.

He cam into his awne, and his receaved him not. vnto as many as receaved him, gave he power to be the sonnes of god: ⁵ in that they beleved on his name: which were borne not of bloude nor of the will of the fleshe, nor yet of the will of men: but of god.

And that worde was made fleshe, and dwelt amonge vs, and he sawe the glory off yt, as the glory off the only begotten sonne off the father, ⁶ [which worde was] full of grace, and verite.

Jhon bare witnes off hym sayinge: Thys is he of whome

I speake,⁷ he that commeth after me,⁸ was before me be cause he was yer than I. And of his fulnes have all we receaved, even⁹ favour for favour. For the lawe was geven by Moses, but favour and¹⁰ verite cam by Jesus Christ. No man¹¹ sawe god at eny tyme. The only begotten sonne, which is in the fathers bosom, hath declared hym.

And this is the recorde off Jhon, When the iews sent prestes, and levites from Jerusalem, to axe hym,¹² what arte thou? And he confessed, and denyed nott, and sayde playnly: I am nott Christ. And they axed hym: what then? arte thou Helias? And he sayde: I am nott. Arte thou¹³ a prophet? And he answered noo. Then sayd they vnto hym: what arte thou? That we maye geve an answer to them that sent vs? what sayest thou of thy silfe? He sayde: I am the voyce of a cryar in the wildernes, make strayght the waye of the lorde, as sayde the prophet Esayas.

And they which were sent, wer off the pharises. And they axed hym: and sayde vnto him: why baptisest thou then, yf thou be nott Christ, nor Helias, nether a prophet? Jhon answered them sayinge: I baptise with water: butt one is come amoneg you, whom ye knowe nott: he it is¹⁴ that commeth after me, whiche¹⁵ was before me, whose shoue latchet, I am not worthy to vnlose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Jordan, where Jhon did baptise.

The nexte daye, Jhon sawe Jesus commynge vnto him, and sayde: beholde the lambe of god, whych taketh awaye the synne off the worlde. This is he of whom I sayde: After me commeth a man, which¹⁶ was before me. For he was yer then I, and I knew hym nott: butt that he shuld be declared to Israhell, therefore cam I baptisynge with water.

And Jhon bare recorde, sayinge: I sawe the sprete descende from heven, lyke vnto a dove, and it aboode apon hym, and I knewe hym not: but he that sent me to baptysye in water, sayde vnto me: Apon whom thou shalt se the sprete descende, and tary styl on hym, the same is he whych bap-

The next daye after Jhon stode agayne/ and two off hys disciples/ and he behelde Jesus as he walked by/ and sayde: beholde the lambe off God. They sayde vnto hym: Rabi (which is to say be interpretation/ Master) where ¹⁷ dwellest thou? He sayde vnto them: come and se. They cam and sawe where he dwelt: and abode with hym that daye. The Seconde Chapter.

AND the thyrde daye/ was there a mariage in Cana a ¹ citie of Galile. And Jesus mother was there. Jesus was called also and his disciples vnto the mariage. And when the wyne fayled/ Jesus mother sayde vnto hym : they have no wyne. Jesus sayde vnto her : woman/ what have I to do with the ? myne houre is not yett come. His mother sayde vnto the ² ministers : whatsoever he sayeth vnto you/ do itt. There were ³ stondyng sixe water pottes of stone after the maner of the purifyinge of the iewes/ contaynyng two or thre ⁴ fyrykyns a pece.

Jesus sayde vnto them : Fyll the water pottes with water/ and they fylled them vp ⁵ to the harde brym. And he sayde vnto them : Drawe outt nowe/ and beare vnto the governer of the feaste. And they bare itt. When the ruler off the feast had tasted the water that ⁶ was turned vnto wyne/ nether knewe whence it was (Butt the mynisters which drue the water knew) He called the brydegrome/ and sayde vnto hym : All men att the begynnngnge/ sett forth goode wyne/ And when ⁷ men be dronke/ then thatt which is worsse : Butt thou hast kept backe the goode wyne ⁸ hetherto.

Thys ⁹ begynnynge off myracles did Jesus in Cana of Galile/ and shewed his glory/ and his disciples beleved on hym. After thatt descended he in to Capernaum/ and hys mother/ and hys brethren/ and his disciples : But continued not ¹⁰ longe there.

And the iewes ester was even at honde/ And Jesus went vp to Jerusalem/ and founde in the temple those that sold oxen and shepe/ and doves/ and chaungers of money syttinge. And he made a scourge off small cordes/ and drove them all out off the temple/ bothe shepe and oxen/ and powred doun the changers money/ and overthru their tables. And sayde vnto them that sold doves : ¹¹Have these thynges hence/ and make nott my fathers housse/ an housse off marchandyse. The iiiij. Chapter.

THERE was a man off the pharises named Nicodemus a ruler amonge the iewes. He cam to Jesus be nyght/ and sayde vnto him : ¹ Master/ we knowe that thou arte/ a teacher whyche arte come from god. For no man coulde do suche miracles as thou doest/ excepte God were wyth hym : Jesus answered/ and sayde vnto hym : Verely verely I saye vnto the : except that a man be borene ² a newe/ he cannot se the kingdom of god. Nicodemus sayde vnto hym : howe can a man be borene/ when he is olde ? can he enter ³ into hys moders ⁴ body and be borene agayne ? Jesus answered : verely/ verely I say vnto the : except that a man be borene of water/ and of the sprete/ he cannot enter into the kyngdom of god. That whych is borene of the flesshe/ is flesshe. And noo man hath ascended vppe to heven/ butt he that cam doun from heven/ ⁶that ys to saye the sonne of man which is in heven.

And as Moses lifte vppe the serpent in wyldernes/ even soo must the sonne off man be lifte vppe/ that ⁷noo man which belevest in hym perisse : but have eternall lyfe.

God soo loved the worlde/ that he gave his only ⁸sonne ⁹[for the entent/] that none that beleve in hym/ shulde perisse : Butt shulde have everlastynge lyfe. For God sent not his sonne into the worlde/ to condempne the worlde : But that the worlde through him/ myght be saved. He that belevest on hym shall not be condempned. But he that belevest nott/ is condempned all redy/ be cause he belevest nott in the name off the only sonne off God. And this is the condempnacion : Light is come into the worlde/ and the men have loved darcknes ¹⁰more then light/ be cause their dedes were evyll. For every man that evyll doeth/ hateth the light : nether commeth to light/ lest his dedes shulde be reproved. Butt he that doeth the trueth/ commeth to the light/ that his dedes myght be ¹¹knownen/ howe that they are wrought ¹²in God.

After that cam Jesus and his disciples into the ¹³iewes londe/ and there abode with them and baptised/ and Jhon also baptised in Enon besydes Salim/ be cause there was moche water there/ and they cam/ and were baptised. For Jhon was not yet cast into preson.

The lxxij. Chapter.

AS sone as the lorde ¹ had knowledge/ howe that ² it was come to the eares off the pharises/ that Jesus had made and baptised moo disciples then Jhon (though that Jesus hym silfe baptised not: butt his disciples) he lefte iewry/ and departed agayne into galile. Jesus answered and sayde vnto her: whosoever drynketh of this water/ shall thurst agayne. But whosoever shall drynke of the water that I shall geve hym/ shall never be moare a thyrst: But the water that I shall geve hym/ shalbe in hym a well of water spryngynge vp into everlastynge lyfe/ The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr geve me of that water/ that I thyrst not/ nether come hedder to drawe. For thou haste had five husbandes/ and he whom thou nowe hast/ is not thy housband. That saydest thou truely.

The woman sayde vnto hym: Syr I perceave that thou arte a prophet. Oure fathers worshipped in this mountayne: And ye say thatt in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to praye. The v. Chapter.

AFTER that there was a feast off the iewes/ and Jesus went vppe to Jerusalem. There is at Jerusalem/ by the ¹ slaughterhousse a pole called in the ebrue tongue/ ²bethesda/ havynge/ five porches/ in them laye a greate multitude off sickle folke/ off blynde/ halt/ and wyddered/ waytynge for the movynge off the wather. For an angell went doun ³at a certayne ceason into the pole an stered the water. whosoever then fyrrst after the sterynge off the water stepped doun/ was made whoale of whatsoever disease he had. And a certayne man was there/ which had bene diseased xxxvij. yeares. When Jesus sawe hym lye/ and knewe that he nowe longe tyme had bene diseased/ he sayde vnto hym : Wilt thou be whoale ? The syke answered hym : Syr I have no man when the water is ⁴moved/ to put me into the pole. Butt in the meane tyme/ whill I am ⁵about to come/ another stoppeth doun before me.

Jesus sayde vnto hym/ ryse/ take vp thy beed/ and walke. And immediatly that man was whole/ and toke vp his beed/ and went. And the same daye was the sabeth daye. The iewes therfore sayd vnto hym that was made whole : It is the sabeth daye/ it is nott laufull for the to cary thy beed. He answered them : he that made me whole/ sayde vnto me : Take vp thy beed/ and ⁶gett the hence. Then axed they hym : what man is that which sayd vnto the/ take vp thy beed and walke. And he that was healed wist not who yt was. For Jesus ⁷gatt hym silfe awaye/ be cause that there was preace of people in the place.

And therfore the iewes did persecute Jesus/ and sought ⁹the meanes to slee hym/ be cause he had done these thynges on the saboth daye. Jesus answered them : My father worketh hidderto/ and I worke. Therfore the iewes sought the moore to kill hym/ not only be cause he had broken the saboth : but sayde alsoo that god was his father/ and made hym silfe equall with god.

Then answered Jesus and sayde unto them : verely/ verely I saye vnto you : the sonne can do noo thyng of hym silfe : but that he seyth the father do. For whatsoever he doeth/ that doeth the sonne also. For the father loveth the sonne/ and sheweth hym all thynges/ whatsoever he him silfe doeth. And he will shewe hym gretter thynges then these/ be cause ye shoulde marvayle. For lykwyse as the father rayseth vppe the deed/ and quyckeneth them/ even soo the sonne quyckeneth whom he woll. ¹⁰Nether iudgeth the father eny man : but hath committed all iudgment vnto the sonne/ be cause that all men shulde honoure the sonne/ even as they honoure the father. Howe ys yt then thatt he sayeth/ I cam doun from heven ? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them : Murmur not betwene youre selves. No man can come to me except my father which hath sent me/ drawe hym. These thinges sayd he in the sinagoge as he taught in capernaum. Many of his disciples, when they had herde this, sayde : This is an herde sayinge. Who can ²⁵ abyde the hearinge of it? Jesus knew in hym silfe, that his disciples murmured at hit, and sayde vnto them : Doth this offend you? What and if ye shall se the sonne off man ascende vp where he was before? It is the sprete that quyckeneth, ²⁶ the fleshe profeteth nothyng. The wordes that I speake vnto you are sprete and lyfe. But there are some off you that beleve not. For Jesus knewe from the begynnyng, which they were that beleved not. And who shulde betraye hym. And he sayde : Therefore sayd I vnto you : that no man can come vnto me, except it were geven vnto hym of my father.

From that tyme many of his disciples ²⁷ went a waye from him, and ²⁸ companyed no moore with hym. Then sayde Jesus to the twelve : will ye alsooo goo awaye? Simon Peter answered hym : Master to whom shall we goo? Thou haste the wordes off eternall lyfe. And we ²⁹ have beleved, and knownen, that thou arte Christe the sonne of the lyvynge God. As sone as his brethren were goone vppe, then went he also vppe vnto the feast, nott openly: but as it were prevely. Then sought hym the iewes at the feast, and sayde: where is he? And moche murmurynge was there of hym amoung the people. Some sayde He is goode. Wother sayde naye, but he deceaveth the people. No man spake openly of hym, for feare of the iewes.

⁵ In the myddes of the feast, Jesus went vppe into the temple, and taught. And the iewes maruelled, saiynge: Howe knoweth he the scriptures? seynge that he never learned. Jesus answered them, and sayde: My doctrine is nott myne, butt hys thatt sent me. Yff any man wyll do hys will, he shall knowe of the doctrine, whether it be of god: or wheth-er I speake of my silfe. He that speaketh of him silfe, sek-eth his awne prayse. Butt whosoever seketh his prayse that sent him he ys true, and no vnrightewesnes is in hym.

Did not Moses geve you a lawe? And yett none off you kepereth ⁶ the lawe? Why goo ye aboute to kill me? The people answered and sayde: Thou hast the devyll. Who goeth aboute to kill the? Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: I have done won worke, and ye all marvayle. Moses therfore gave vnto you circumcision, not because it is of Mo-ses, but of the fathers. And yet ye on the saboth daye circumcise a man. Yf a man on the saboth daye receave circumcision ⁷ with out breakynge of the lawe off Moses: ⁸ Dis-dayne ye at me, because I made a man every whit whoale on the saboth daye? Judge not ⁹ after the vtter aperaunce: but iudge rightewes iudgement.

Then sayd sum of them of Jerusalem: Is nott this he whom they went aboute to kill? beholde he speaketh ¹⁰ boldly, and they saye nothyng to him. ¹¹ Do not oure ruelars knowe in dede, that this is very Christ? But we knowe this man whence he is but when Christ commeth, no man shall knowe whence he is.

Then sought the iewes to take hym : butt no man layde hondes on hym, because hys tyme was nott yett come. Many off the people beleved on hym, and sayde : When Christ commeth : Will he do moo myracles then this man hathe done ?

The pharises herde that the people murmured such thynge about hym : and the pharises and ¹³ scribes sent ¹⁴ ministers forthe to take hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto them : Yett am I a lytell whyle with you, and then goo I vnto hym that sent me. Ye shall seke me, and shall nott fynde me : And where I am, thither can ye nott come. Then sayde the iewes betwene them selves : Whither will he goo ? that we shall nott fynde hym. Will he goo ¹⁵ amoninge the gentyls, which are scattered all a broade, and teache the ¹⁶ gentyls ? What maner off sayinge ys thys that he sayde : ye shall seke me, and shall nott fynde me : And where I am thither can ye nott come.

In the last daye, ¹⁷ that grett daye off the feaste : Jesus stode and cryed sayinge : Yf eny man thyrst, lett hym come vnto me and drynke. Whosoever belevest on me, as sayeth the scripture, out off his belly shall flowe ryvers off water off lyfe. This spake he off the sprete, which they that beleved on hym shulde receave. For the holy gost was not yett ¹⁸ there, because that Jesus was nott yett glorified. Many off the people, when they herde this sayinge sayde : ¹⁹ This is, no doute, a prophet. Wo ther sayde : This is Christ. Some sayde : shall Christ come out off galile ? Sayeth nott the scripture that Christ shall come off the seed off David : and out off the toune off Bethleem where David was ? So was there dissencion amoninge the people ²⁰ for hys sake. And some off them wolde have taken hym : butt noo man layde hondes on hym.

JESUS went vnto the Mounte Olivete, and erly in the mornynge cam agayne into the temple, and all the people cam vnto hym. And he sate doune, and taught them. AND as Jesus passed by/ he sawe a man which was blynde

He answered and sayde: The man that is called Jesus, made claye, and anoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Goo to the pole Siloe, and wesshe. I went and wesshed and receaved my sight. They sayde vnto hym: where is he? He sayde: I cannot tell.

Then brought they to the pharises, him that ⁴ a litell before was blynde (Hit was the saboth daye when Jesus made the claye, and opened his eyes) Then agayne the pharises also axed hym howe he had receaved his sight. He sayde vnto them: He putt claye upon myne eyes, And I wasshed, and I se. Then sayde some of the pharises: This man is not of god, because he kepereth not the saboth daye. other sayde: howe can a man that is a synner do suche myracles? And there was a stryfe amonge them. Then spake they vnto the blynde agayne: What sayest thou of hym, be cause he hath openned thyne eyes? And he sayd: He ys a prophet.

The iewes did nott beleve ⁵ off the felowe, howe that he was blynde, and had receaved hys sight: vntillthey had callled the father and mother off him that had receaved hys sight: And they axed them saying: Ys this youre sonne, whome ye saye was borne blynde? Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus. ⁵ After he herde thatt he was sicke, ⁶ then aboode he two dayes still in the same place where he was.

Then after that sayd he to his disciples: lett vs goo into iewry agayne. His disciples sayde vnto hym: Master, the iewes lately sought meanes to stone the: and wilt thou goo thither agayne? Jesus answered: are there not twelve houres in the daye? Yf a man walke in the daye he stomblyeth not, because he seith the light of this worlde. yf a man walke in the nyght he stomblyeth, be cause there is no light in hym. This sayd he. And after that he sayde vnto them: oure frende Lazarus slepeth, but I goo to ⁷ wake hym outt of slepe. Then sayde his disciples: Lorde iff he slepe: then shall ⁸ he do wele ynough. Whosoever beleveth on me : ye though he were deed, yet shall he lyve: and whosoever liveth, and beleveth on me, shall never deye. Belevest thou this ? She sayde vnto hym, ye lorde : I beleve thatt thou arte Christ the sonne off God, which shall come into the worlde.

THEN Jesus¹ before sixe dayes of ester, cam to bethany where Lazarus (which was deed) was, whom Jesus raysed from deeth. There they made him a supper, and Martha served: butt Lazarus was won of them that sate at the table with hym. This sayde he, not that he cared for the pover: butt be cause he was a thefe, and kept the bagge, and bare that which was geven. On the⁶ morowe moche people which cam to the feast (when they herde that Jesus shulde come to Jerusalem) toke braunches off palme trees and went and mett hym, and cryed Hosianna, ⁷ blessed is he that in the name of the lorde commeth kyng of israhell. Jesus⁸ gott a yonge asse and sate theron, accordynge to that wiche was written: feare nott doughter of Sion: beholde thy kynge commeth sittynge on an asses coolte. These thynges vnderstode not his disciples at the fyrist: but when Jesus was gloryfied, then remembryd they that soche thynges were written of hym, and that soche thynges they had done vnto hym.

There were certayne grekes amonge them, which cam to praye at the feast, the same cam to Philip which was of Bethsayda a cite in galile, and desired hym sayinge : Syr we wolde fayne se Jesus. Philip cam and tolde Andrew. and agayne Andrew and Philip tolde Jesus. And Jesus answered them sayinge : the houre is come that the sonne of man must be glorified.

Verely verely I saye vnto you, excepte the wheate corne fall into the grounde and deye, it bydeth alone. yf it deye, it brengeth forth moche frute. These thynge spake Jesus and departed/ and hid hym silfe from them. Jesus cryd and sayd: he that belevest on me belevest nott on me/ butt on hym that sent me. And he that seeth me/ seeth him that sent me. Then cam he to Simon Peter. And Peter sayde to him : Lorde ³ shalst thou wesshe my fete ? Jesus answered and sayde vnto hym : what I do thou wottest nott nowe/ thou shalt knowe here after. No man commeth vnto the father, but by me. Yf ye had knownen me ye had knownen my father alsoo. And⁵ nowe ye knowe hym. And ye have sene hym.

Phillip said vnto him : lorde shew vs⁶ thy father and it suffiseth vs. Jesus sayde vnto hym :⁷ have I bene so longe time with you : and yet hast thou not knownen me ? I AM the true vyne/ and my father ys an husbande man.

 frute off it sylfe/ excepte it byde in the vyne: no more can ye excepte ye abyde in me.

I am the vyne/ and ye are the braunches. He that abydeth in me/ and I in hym/ the same bryngeth forth moche frute.
 For without me can ye do no thyng. Yff a man byde nott in

 Continue in my love. Yf ye shall kepe my commaundmentes/

And ye shall beare witnes also, because ye have bene with me from the begynnyng.

The xvi. Chapter.

THESE thynges have I sayde vnto you be cause ye shulde nott be hurte in youre fayth. They shall excommunicat you, ye the tyme shall come, thatt whosoever killeth you, will thynke that he doeth God true service. Therefore sayd I vnto you that he shal take of mine and some of his disciples bitwene them selves: what is this that he sayth vnto vs/ after a whyle ye shall not se me/ and agayne after a whyle ye shall se me: and that I goo to my father.

⁴ After awhyle ye shall not se me/ and agayne ⁴ after a

They sayde therfore: what is this that he sayth after a while ?
we ⁵cannot tell what he saith. Jesus perceaved/ that they wolde axe hym/ and sayde vnto them: ⁶This is it that ye enquyre of bitwene youre selves/ that I sayd/ after a whyle ye

Verely verely I saye vnto you: ye shall wepe and lament/and the worlde shall reioyce. Ye shall sorowe: but youre sorowe shalbe tourned to ioye.

A woman when she traveyleth hath sorowe/ be cause her she remembreth no moare her anguysshe/ for ioye that a man

them which thou hast geven me, for they are thyne, and all myne are thyne, and thyne are myne, and I am glorifyed in them. The xviiiij. Chapter.

WHEN Jesus had spoken these wordes/ he went forth with his disciples over the broke Cedron/ where was a garden/ into the which he entered with his disciples (Judas also wiche betrayed hym knewe the place/ for Jesus often tymes resorted thither with his disciples) Judas then after he had receaved a bonde off men/ and ministers of the hy prestes/ and of the pharises cam thither with ¹ lanterns/ and ² fyerbrondes/ and wepons. Then Jesus knowyng all thynges that shulde come on hym/ went forth and sayde vnto them : whom seke ye ? They answered hym : Jesus off nazareth. Jesus sayde vnto them : I am he.

Judas also which betrayed him stode by with them. As sone as he had sayd vnto them I am he/ they went backe wardes and fell to the grounde. He axed them agayne : whome seke ye ? They sayde : Jesus off Nazareth. Jesus answered ³ I sayde vnto you I am he. Iff ye seke me ⁴ lett these goo theyr waye/ That the sayinge myght be fulfilled which he spake : of them which thou gavest have I not lost one.

Simon Peter had a swearde/ and drue hym out/ and smote the hye prestes seruaunt/ and cut off his right eare. The seruautes name was Malchas. Then sayde Jesus vnto Peter : put vppe thy swearde into the sheath : shall I not drynke of the cuppe which my father had geven me ? Then ⁵ the company/ and the Captayne/ and the ministers off the iewes/ toke Jesus and bounde hym/ and ledde hym awaye to Anna fyrst : For he was fatherlawe vnto Cayphas/ which was the hye preste thatt same yeare. Cayphas/ was he that gave counsell to the iewes that it was ⁶ expedient that won man shulde deye for the people.

Simon Peter folowed Jesus/ and another disciple/ that disciple was knownen of the hye preste/ ⁷ and went in with Jesus into ⁸ the pallys of the hye preste. Peter stode att the dore with outt. Then wentt outt thatt other disciple which was knownen vnto the hye preste/ and spake ⁹ to the damsell thatt kept the dore/ and brought in Peter. Then sayd the damsell that kept the dore vnto Peter : Arte nott thou wone off this mannes disciples ? He sayde : I am nott. The seruautes and the ministers stode there/ and had made a fyre off coles. For it was colde/ and they warmed them selves. Peter also stode amoungem them and warmed hym silfe.

The hye preste axed Jesus of his disciples/ and of his doctrine. Jesus answered hym : I spak openly ¹⁰ in the worlde. I ever taught in the sinagoge and in the temple whither ¹¹ all the iewes resorted : and in secrete have I sayde nothyng : why axest thou me ? Axe them whiche herde me what I sayde vnto them. Beholde ¹² they can tell what I sayde. When he had thus spoken/ one of the ministers which stode by/ smote Jesus ¹³ on the face sayinge : Answrest thou the hye preste soo ? Jesus answered hym : Yf I have evyll spoken/ beare witnes of the evyll : yf I have well spoken/ why smytest thou me ? ¹⁴ Annas sent hym bounde vnto Cayphas as the hye preste.

Simon Peter stode and warmed hym silfe/ and they sayde vnto hym : Arte not thou also won of his disciples ? He deneyed it/ and sayde : I am not. Won of the seruautes of the hye preste (his cosyn whose eare Peter smote of) sayde vnto hym : did not I se the in the garden with hym ? Peter denied it agayne. And immediatly the cocke crewe.

Then ledd they Jesus from Cayphas into ¹⁵ the housse of iudgement. Hit was in the mornynge/ and they them selves went not into the iudgement housse lest they shulde be defylled/ butt that they myght eate ¹⁶ Pascha. Pilate then went oute vnto them and sayde : What accusacion brynge ye agaynste this man ? They answered and sayde vnto hym : Iff he were nott an evyll doar/ we wolde not have delyvered hym vnto the. Then sayd Pilate vnto them : ¹⁷ take hym vnto you/ and iudge hym after youre awne lawe. The iewes sayde vnto hym. It is nott lawfull for vs to putt eny man to deeth. That the wordes of Jesus myght be fulfilled which he spake/ signifyinge what deeth he shulde deye.

Then Pilate entred into the iudgement housse agayne/ and called Jesus/ and sayd vnto him : Arte thou kynge of the iewes ? Jesus answered : sayst thou that off thy sylfe/ or did other tell ytt the of me ? Pilate answered : Am I a iewe ? Thyne awne nacion an hye prestes have delivered the vnto

Yff my kyngdome were of this worlde then wolde my ministers suerly fight that I shulde not be delyvered to the iewes, but nowe is my kyngdome not from hence. Pilate sayde vnto hym: Arte thou a kynge then? Jesus answered: Thou ¹⁸sayst that I am a kynge. For this cause was I borne, and for this cause cam I into the worlde, that I shulde beare witnes vnto the trueth. All that are of the trueth heare my voice. Pilate sayde vnto hym: ¹⁹ what is trueth.

And when he had sayde that, he went out agayne vnto the iewes, and sayde vnto them: I fynde in him no ²⁰ cause at all. THEN Pilate toke Jesus and scourged hym. And the soudiers ¹ wondre a croune off thornes and put it on his head. And they did put on hym a purple garment, and sayd: hayl kynge off the iewes. And they smote hym ² on the face. Pilate went forthe agayne, and sayde vnto them: beholde I brynge him forth to you, that ye maye knowe that I fynde no faute in hym. Then cam Jesus forthe wearynge a croune of thornes, and ³a robe of purple. And Pilate sayd vnto them: Beholde the man. When the hye prestes and ministers sawe him, they cryed sayinge: crucify him, crucify hym. Pilate sayde vnto them: Take ye hym and crucify hym: For I fynde no cause in hym. The iewes answered hym: We have a lawe, and by oure lawe he ought to deye: be cause he made hym silfe the sonne of God.

When Pilate herde that sayinge, he was the moare afayde, and went agayne in to the iudgment house, and sayde vnto Jesus: whence arte thou? Jesus gave hym none answere. And from thence forthe sought Pilate meanes to loose hym: but the iewes cryed sayinge: yf thou ⁵ lett hym goo/ thou arte not Cesars frende. Whosoever maketh him silfe a kynge/ ⁶ is agaynst Cesar.

When Pilate herde that sayinge he brought Jesus forthe/ and sate downe ⁷ to geve sentence/ in a place called the pavement: Butt in the he brue tongue/ Gabbatha. ⁸ (Hitt was the saboth even which falleth in the ester fest/ and aboute the sixte houre) And he sayde vnto the iewes: Beholde youre kynge. They cryed/ awaye with hym/ awaye with hym/ Crucify hym. Pilate sayde vnto them: Shall I crucify youre kynge? The hye prestes answered: We have noo kynge but Cesar. Then delivered he hym vnto them to be crucified.

And they toke Jesus and ledde hym awaye. And he bare his crosse/ and went forthe into a place ⁹ called the place of deed menns sculles (which is named in hebrue/ Golgatha) where they crucified hym. And with hym two other: on ether syde won/ and Jesus in the myddes. Pilate wrote his title/ and put it on the crosse. The wrytyng was/ Jesus off nazareth/ kynge off the iewes. This tylte reed many off the iewes. For the place where Jesus was crucified/ was neye to the cite. And it was written in hebrue/ greke/ and latyn. Then sayde the hye prestes off the iewes to Pilate: wryte nott/ kynge off the iewes: butt that he sayde/ I am kynge of the iewes. Pilate answered: what I have written/ that have I written.

The soudiers/ when they had crucified Jesus/ toke his garmentes and made foure partes/ to every soudier a parte/ and also his coote. ¹⁰ The coote was with out seme ¹¹ woven vpon thorowe and thorowe. After that when Jesus perceaved that all thynge were performed, that the scriptures myght be fulfyled: he sayde : I thyrst. There stode a vessell full off veneger by. They filled a sponge with venegre, and ¹⁴ wondē it about with ysoppe, and put it to his moughth. As sone as Jesus had receaved of the venegre, he sayd : It is fynnesshed, and bowed his heed, and gave vppe the goost.

The iewes then be cause it was the ¹⁵ saboth even that the bodyes shuld not remayne apon the crosse on the saboth daye (For that saboth daye was an hye daye) besought Pilate that their legges myght be broken and that they myght be taken dounē. Then cam the soudiers and brake the legges of the fyrst, and of the other which was crucified with Jesus. When they cam to Jesus and sawe that he was deed alredy, they brake not his legges: butt one off the soudiers with a speare, ¹⁶ thrust hym into the syde, and forth with cam there out blude and water.

These thinges were done that the scripture shulde be fulfilled: ¹⁷ Ye shall not breake a boone of him. And agayne another scripture sayeth : They shall loke on hym, whom they pearced.

After that, Joseph off Aramatia (whych was a disciple of Jesus: but secretly for feare off the iewes) besought Pilate that he myght take dounē the boddy off Jesus. And Pilate gave him licence. ¹⁸ And there cam also Nicodemus which ¹⁹ att the begynnyng cam to Jesus by nyght, and brought of mirre and aloes mingled to gedder aboute an hundred pounde wayght. The xx. Chapter.

TH^E morowe after the saboth daye cam Mary magdalene early when it was yet darcke vnto the sepulcre, and sawe the stone ² rowled awaye from the ³ tounbe. Then she ranne, and cam to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and sayde vnto them: They have taken awaye the lorde out off the tounbe and we cannot tell where they have layde hym. Peter went forth and that other disciple, and cam vnto the sepulcre. They ranne bothe to gether, and that other disciple did out runne Peter, and cam fyrist to the sepulcre. And he stouped doune and sawe the lynn clothes, yet went he not in. Then cam Simon Peter folowynge hym, and went into the sepulcre, and sawe the lynn clothes lye, and the ⁴ napkyn that was aboute hys heed nott lyinge wyth the lynn clothes, but wrapped togedder in a place by yt sylfe. Then went in also that other disciple whych cam fyrist to the sepulcre, and he sawe and beleved. For as yett they knew nott the scriptures, that he shulde ryse agayne from deeth. And the disciples went awaye agayne, ⁵ vnto their awne home.

Mary stode with out att the sepulcre wepynge: As she wept, she bowed her sylfe into the sepulcre and sawe two angels clothed in whyte sittynge the one att the heed, and the other at the fete, where they had layde the body of Jesus. They sayde vnto her: woman why wepest thou? She sayde vnto them: They have taken awaye my lorde, and I wote not where they have layde him. When she had thus sayde, she turned her sylfe backe and sawe Jesus stondyng, and knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayde vnto her: woman why wepest thou? Whom sekest thou? Butt goo to my brothren and saye vnto them, I ascende vnto my father, and youre father : my God, and youre god. Mary magdalene cam and tolde the disciples that she had sene the lorde,⁶ and that he had spoken soche thinges vnto her.

The same daye at nyght, which was the morowe after the saboth daye, when the dores were shutt (where the disciples were assembled to gedder for feare of the iewes) cam Jesus and stode in the myddes, and sayd to them : peace be with you. And when he had so sayde, he shewed vnto them his hondes⁷ [and his feate], and his syde. Then were the disciples glad when they sawe the lorde. He sayde vnto them agayne : peace be with you. As my father sent me, even so send I you. When he had sayde that, he⁸ blewe on them, and sayde vnto them : Receave the holy goost : whosoever synnes ye remyt, they are remitted vnto them : And whosoever synnes ye retayne, they are retayned.

Thomas one off the twelve, called didimus, was not with them when Jesus cam. The other disciples sayd vnto hym : we have sene the lorde. And he sayde vnto them : except I se in his hondes the prent of the neyles, and put my fynger in the⁹ holes off the nayles, and thruste my honde into hys syde, I will not beleve.

And after viij. dayes agayne, the disciples were within, and Thomas was with them. Jesus cam when the dores were shet, and stode in the myddes and sayde : peace be with you.

Then sayde he to Thomas : put in thy fynger here, and se my hondes, and put forth thy honde and thurst hym into my syde, and be nott¹⁰ wyt out fayth : but beleve. Thomas answered and sayde vnto hym :¹¹ my lorde, and my God. Jesus sayde vnto hym : Thomas because thou hast sene me, therefore hast thou beleved : Happy are they that have not sene, and yet have beleved.

And many other signes did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this boke. These are written that ye myght beleve that Jesus is Christ the sonne of God. and that ye in beleevynge myght have life thorewe his name.

We were all togedder in the shippe/ two hondred and thre score and sixtene soules. When they had eaten ynough/ they lightened the shippe and cast oute the weate in-

PAUL the seruaunte off Jesus Christ, called ¹vnto the office off an apostle, putt a parte to preache the gospell of God, which he promysed afore by his prophetes, in the holy scriptures ²that make mension of his sonne, ³the which was ⁴begotten of the seede of David ⁵as pertaynyng to the flesshe: and ⁶declared to be the sonne of God with power ⁷of the holy goost, that sanctifieth, ⁸sence the tyme that Jesus Christ oure lorde rose agayne from deeth, by whom we have receaved grace and apostle shippe, ⁹thatt all gentiles shulde obeye to the fayth which is in his name, of the which noumber are ye also, ¹⁰which are Jesus Christes by vocacion.

To all you of Rome beloved of God, and ¹¹sanctes by callinge. Grace be with you and peace from God oure father, and from the lorde Jesus Christ.

¹⁰ The electe of Jesus Christ, Cr. ¹¹ Saints by election, Cr. Called to be saints, Gen.

Fyrst verely I thanke my god thorow Jesus Christ for you all, be cause youre faith is publissed through out all the worlde. For god is my witnes, whom I serve in my sprete, in the gospell of his sonne that with out ceasyng I make mencion of you all wayes in my prayers, besechynge thatt at one tyme or another, a prosperous iorney (by the will of god) ¹² myght fortune me to come vnto you. For I longe to see you, that I myght bestowe amoninge you some spirituall gifte, ¹³ to strengthe you with all (thatt ys) that I myght ¹⁴ have consolacion togedder with you, ¹⁵ through the commen fayth, which bothe ye and I have.

I wolde that ye shulde knowe, brethren, howe that I have often tymes purposed to come vnto you (but have bene lett hidderto) to ¹⁶ have some frute amoninge you, as I have amoninge other of the gentyls. For I am detter both to the grekes, and to ¹⁷ them which are no grekes, vnto the ¹⁸ learned and also vnto the ¹⁸ vnlearned. ¹⁹ Lykwyse, as moche as in me is, I am redy to preache the gospell to you of Rome also.

For I am nott a shamed of the gospell of Christ, because it is the power of God vnto salvacion to all that beleve, namly to the iewe, and also to the ²⁰ gentyle. For by it the rightewesness which commeth of God is opened, from faythe to faythe. As it is written: The iust shall live by fayth.

For the wrath of god ²¹ of heven apereth agaynst all vngodlynes and vnrightewesnes of men which withholde the trueth in vnrightewesnes, seyng that that, which maye be knownen of god, is manifest amoninge them. For god did shewe it vnto them. For his invisible thynges (that is to saye, his eternall power and godhed) ²² are vnderstoned and sene, by the werkes from the creacion of the worlde. So that they are with out excuse, in as moche as when they ²³ knewe God they gloryfied hym not as god, nether were thankfull, but ²⁴ waxed full of vanities in their imaginacions. And their folissh hertes were

For this cause god gave them vppe vnto their hertes lustes vnto vnclennes to defile their awne boddies bitwene them selves: which tourned his trueth vnto a lye/ and worshipped and served the creatures ²⁸ more then the maker/ which is ²⁹ blessed for ever Amen. For this cause god gave them vppe vnto ³⁰ shamfull lustes. For even their wemen did chaunge the naturall vse vnto ³¹ vnnaturall. And lyke wyse also the men lefte the naturall vse of the woman/ and brent in lust won on another amonge them selves. And man with man wrought filthynes/ and receaved in them selves ³² the rewarde of their errour as it was accordyng.

And as ³³ it semed not good vnto them to be aknowen of god/ even so god deliveryd them vppe vnto a ³⁴ leawde mynd/ that they shulde do tho thynges which wer not ³⁵ comly/ beyng full of all vnrighteous doynges/ off fornicacion/ wickednes/ coveteousness/ maliciousnes/ full off envie/ morther/ debate/ dissayte/ ³⁶ evyll condicione/ whisperers/ backbiters/ ³⁷ haters off God/ ³⁸ doers of wronge/ proude/ bosters/ ³⁹ bryngers vppe of evyll thynges/ disobedient to their fathers and mothers/ with out vnderstondynge/ covenante breakers/ ⁴⁰ vnlovynge/ ⁴¹ stouborne and merciles. which men/ though they knew the ⁴² rightewesnes of God/ howe that they which soche thinges commyt are worthy off deeth/ yett not only did the same/ but also ⁴³ had pleasure in them that did them.

doest even the same silfe thynges. But we are sure that the iudgement of God is accordyng to trueth agaynst them which commit soche thynges. Thynkest thou O man that iudgest them which do soche thynges and yet dost even the very same, that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God: Other despisest thou the riches off his goodnes and pacience and longe sufferance and remembrest not how that the ¹ kyndnes of God ledith the to repentaunce?

But thou after thyne ² harde herte that cannott repent, heapest ³ the togedder the treasure of wrath agaynste the daye ⁴ of vengeance, when shalbe openned the rightewes iudgement of God, whych wyll rewarde every man accordyng to hys dedes, that is to saye ⁵ prayse, honoure, and ⁶ immortalite, to them which continuynge in goode doynges seke eternall lyfe: Butt vnto them thatt are ⁷ rebellious, and disobey the trueth, ⁸ yett folowe iniquytie, shall come indignacion, and wrathe tribulacion and anguysshe apon the soule of every mon that doth evyll. Of the Jewe fyrist And also off the gentyll. To every man that doeth good shall come prayse, honoure and peace, to the iewe fyrist, and also to the gentyll. For there is no ⁹ parcialite with god: But whosoever hath synned with out lawe, shall perishe with out lawe. And as many as have synned vnder the lawe, shalbe iudged by the lawe. For before God they are nott righteous which heare the lawe: but they which do the lawe shalbe iustifyed. For if the gentyls which have noo lawe, do of nature the thynges contayned in the lawe: then they havynge noo lawe, are a lawe vnto them selves, which shewe the ¹⁰ dede off the lawe written in theyr hertes, whyll their conscience beareth witnes vnto them, and also their thoughtes, accusynge won another, or excusynge at the daye wen God shall iudge the secretes off men, by Jesus Christ accordyng to my Gospell.

experience of good and bad, in that thou arte informed by the lawe : And ¹⁵ belevest that thou thy silfe arte a gyde vnto the blynde, a lyght to them which are in dercknes, an informer off them which lacke discretion, a teacher off the vnlearned, which hast the ¹⁶ ensample off thatt which ought to be knownen, and off the trueth in the lawe. ¹⁷ Howe teachest thou another : but teachest nott thy silfe. Thou preachest a man shulde not steale : and yet ¹⁸ thou stealest. Thou sayst a man shulde nott commit aduotry : and thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorest ymages, ¹⁹ and robbest God of his honoure. Thou reioysest in the lawe, and thorow breakynge the lawe dishonourest God. For the name off God is evyll spoken off amonege the gentylls thorowe you as it is written.

Circumcision verely ²⁰ avayleth if thou kepe the lawe : But if thou breake the lawe thy circumcision is made vncircumcision. Therefore yf the vncircumcised kepe the ²¹ right thynges contayned in the lawe : shall nott his vncircumcision be counted for circumcision ? And shall not vncircumcision which ys by nature (yf itt kepe the lawe) iudge the, which ²² beyng vnder the lawe and circumcision, dost transgresse the lawe ? For he is not a Jewe, which is a Jewe outwarde. Nether is that thynge circumcision, which is outwarde in the fleshe : But he is a Jewe which is ²³ hid within. and the circumcision of the herte ²⁴ [is the true circumcision,] which is in the sprete, and nott in the letter : whose prayse is not of men but of god.

The Thirde Chapter.

WHAT ¹ preferment then hath the Jewe ? other what avauntageth circumcision ? ² Surely very moche. ³Fyrst vnto them was committed ⁴ the worde off God. est be iustifyed in thy saynges and shuldest overcome when thou arte iudged. Yf oure vnrightewesnes⁶ make the rightewesnes off God more excellent: what shall we saye? Ys God vnrighteous⁷ which taketh vengeance? (I speake after the maner of men) god forbid. For howe then shall god iudge the worlde? yf the veritie of god⁸ apere more excellent thorow my lye/ vnto his prayse/ why am I hence forthe iudged as a synner? and saye nott rather (as men evyll speake of vs/ and as some afferme that we saye)⁹ lett vs do evyll/ that good maye come therof. whose damnacion is iuste.

What saye we then? Are we¹¹ better then they? no/ in no wyse. For we have all redy proved how that both Jewes and gentyls are vnder synne/ as it is written: There is none righteous/ no nott one: There is none that vnderstandith/ there is none that seketh after God/ they are all gone out of the waye/ they are all made vnprofitable/ there is none that doeth good/ no not won. Their throte is an open sepulcre/ with their tounges they have disceaved: the poyson of Aspes is vnder their lippes. whose mouthes are full of coursynge and bitternes. There fete are swytfe to sheed bloud.¹² Destrucion ande¹³ wretchednes are in their wayes. And the waye of peace have they nott knownen. There is no feare of God before their eyes.

Ye and we knowe that whatsoever the lawe sayth/ he sayth it to them which are vnder the lawe: That all mouthes maye be stopped/ and all the worlde be¹⁴ subdued to God/ be cause that by the dedes of the lawe/ shall no fleshe be iustified in the sight off god. For by the lawe commeth the knowledge off synne.

Nowe verely is the rightewesnes that commeth of God¹⁵ declared with out the fulfillinge of the lawe havyng witnes yet of the lawe/ and of the prophetes.¹⁶ The rightewesnes no dout which ys goode before God commeth by the sayth off Jesus Christe vnto all/ and apon all them that beleve.

For there is no difference/ all have synned/ and ¹⁷ lacke the prayse that is off ¹⁸ valoure before God: but are iustified frely by his grace/ through the redemecion that is in Christ Jesu/ whom God hath ¹⁹ made a seate of mercy thorow faith in his bloud/ to shewe the rightewesnes which before hym is of valoure/ in that he for geveth the synnes thatt are passhed/ ²⁰ which God did suffre to shewe at this tyme: ²¹ the rightewesnes that is alowed off hym/ that he myght be counted iuste/ and a iustifiar of hym which beleivith on Jesus.

Where is then thy ²² reioysynge? Hitt is excluded. By what lawe? by the lawe of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

We suppose therfore that a man is iustified by fayth with out the dedes of the lawe. Ys he the god of the iewes only? Ys he not also the god off the gentyls? ²³ He is noo doute, god also of the gentyls. For it is god only which iustifieth circumcision/ ²⁴ which is off faith: and vncircumcision throw fayth. Do we then ²⁵ destroye the lawe throw fayth? God forbid. We rather ²⁶ mayntayne the lawe.

The fift. Chapter.

WHAT shall we saye then/ that Abraham oure father ¹ as pertayninge to the flesshe dyd fynde? Yff Abraham were iustifyed by dedes/ then hath he wher in to rejoyce: butt nott with god. For what sayth the scripture? Abraham beleved god/ and it was counted vnto hym for rightewesnes. To hym that worketh ys the ² rewarde nott reckened off favour: but of ³ duety. Tho him that worketh nott but beleeveth on him that iustifieth the vngodly/ is fayth counted for rightewesnes.⁴ Even as David ⁵ desscribeth the blessedfulnes of a man/ vnto whom god ⁶ ascrybeth rightewesnes with out dedes. and whose synnes are covered. Blessed is that man to whom the lorde imputeth not synne.

Cam this blessednes then upon the circumcised or upon the vncircumcised⁷? We saye verely howe that fayth was reckened to Abraham/ for rightewesnes. Howe was it reckened? ⁸in the tyme of circumcision? or in the tyme before he was circumcised? Not in tyme of circumcision: bvt when he was yet vncircumcised. And he receaved the signe of circumcision as a seale of that rightewesnes whych is by fayth/ which fayth he had yett beyng vncircumcised/ that he shulde be the father of all them that beleve/ though they be nott circumcised/ that righewesnes myght be imputed to them also/ And that he myght be the father of the circumcised: ⁹not be cause they are circumcised only: but be cause they walke also in the steppes of fayth/ which was ¹⁰in oure father Abraham before the tyme of circumcision.

For the promes that he shulde be the heyre of the worlde was not geven to Abraham/ or to hys seed thorowe the lawe: but thorow the rightewesnes which cometh of fayth. For yf they which are of the lawe be heyres/ then is fayth ¹¹but vayne/ and the promes of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrathe. For where no lawe is/ there is no transgression. Therfore ¹²by fayth is the enheritaunce geven/ that it myght come off faveour: and that the promes myght be sure to all the seed. Not to them only which are of the lawe: but also to them which are of the fayth of Abraham/ which is the father of vs all. As hit is written: I have ordeyned the a father to many nacions/ before God whom thou hast beleved/ which ¹³quyckeneth the deed and calleth those thynges which be not as though they were.

BE cause therfore thatt we are iustifyed by fayth we are at peace with god thorowe oure lorde Jesus Christ : by whom ¹we have awaye in thorow faith vnto this faveour wherin we stonde and reioyse in hope of the ²prayse that shalbe geven of God. Nether do we so only : but also we reioyce in tribulacion : For we know that tribulacion bryngeth pacience/ pacience bryngeth ³felynge/ ³felynge bryngeth hope. and hope ⁴maketh vs not a shamed/ be cause ⁵the love that god hath vnto vs/ is sheed abrod in oure hertes/ by the holy gost/ which is geven vnto vs.

but we also joye in God by the meanes off oure lord Jesus Christ/ by whom we have receavyd this attonment.

Wherfore as by one man synne entred into the worlde/ and deeth by the meanes off synne. And so deeth went over all men/ in somoche that all men synned. For even vnto the tyme of the lawe was synne in the worlde: but synne ¹⁰ was not regarded/ as longe as there was no lawe. nevertheless deeth rayned from Adam to Moses/ even over them also that synned not/ with lyke transgression as did Adam: which ¹¹ is the similitude off hym that was to come.

But the gyfte is not lyke as is the ¹² synne. For yf thorow the synne of one/ many be deed: moche more ¹³ plenteous apon many was the faveour of God and gyfte by faveoure: which faveoure was geven by one man Jesus Christ.

¹⁴ And the gyfte is nott over one synne/ as deeth cam thorow one synne of one that synned. For ¹⁵ damnacion cam off one synne vnto condemnacion: But the gyft ¹⁶ cam to iustify from many synnes. For yff by the synne off one/ deeth raigned by the meanes of one/ moche more shall they which receave abundance off faveour and off the gyfte of rightewesnes raygne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Jesus Christe.

Lyke wyse then as by the synne of one/ ¹⁷ condemnacion cam on all men: even so by the ¹⁸ iustifyinge of one ¹⁹ commeth the rightewesnes that bryngeth lyfe/ apon all men. For as by one mannes disobedience many be cam synners: so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

The lawe in the meane tyme entred in thatt synne shulde encrease. And where abundaunce off synne was/ there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as sinne had raigned vnto deeth/ even so might grace raynge thorow rightewesnes vnto eternall lyfe/ ²⁰ by the helpe of Jesu Christ.

WHAT shall we saye then? shall we continue in synne, that there maye be abounding grace? God forbid. Howe shall we that are dead as touchyng synne live eny longer therin? Remember ye nott thatt all we which are baptysed in the name off Christ Jesu, are baptised ¹to deye with hym? We are buryed with him by baptim forto deye: That as Christ was raysed vp from deeth by the glory of the father: even soo we also shulde walke in a newe lyfe. For yff we be graft ²in deeth lyke vnto hym: even soo ³must we be in the resurreccion. Thys we must remember, that oure olde man ys crucified wyth hym also, that the body of synne myght vterly be destroyed, that hence forth we shulde not be seruautes off synne. For he that is dead, ys ⁴iustified from synne.

Wherfore yff we be dead with Christ, we beleve that we shall live with hym: remembryng that Christ once raysed from deeth, dieth no more. Deeth hath no more power over hym. For as touchyng that he died, he died ⁵as concernyng synne once. And as touchyng that he liveth, he liveth vnto God. Lykewyse ⁶ymmagen ye also, that ye are dead as concernyng synne: but are alive vnto God thorow Jesus Christ oure lorde. What then? Shall we synne, be cause we are not vnder the lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. Remember ye not howe that to whomsoever ye commit youre selves as seruautes to obey, hys seruautes ye are to whom ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto deeth, or of obedience vnto rightewesnes? For when ye were the servautes off synne/ ye were¹³ nott vnder rightewesnes. What frute had ye then in tho thynges/ where off ye are nowe ashamed. For the ende of tho thynges is deeth. For the¹⁴ rewarde off synne is deeth : butt eternall lyfe ys the gyft off God/ thorow Jesus Christ oure lorde.

The viij. Chapter.

REMEMBER ye not brethren (I speake to them thatt know the lawe) how thatt the lawe hath power over a man as longe as¹ yt enduereth : For the woman which is in subiec-cion to a man/ is bounde by the lawe to the man/ as longe as he liveth. What shall we saye then? is the lawe synne? God forbid: but I knewe nott what ¹⁰ synne meand butt by the lawe. For I had nott knowne what lust hadde meant/ excepte the lawe hadde sayde/ thou shalt not lust. Butt synne toke an occasion by the meanes off the commaundement/ and wrought in me all manner off concupiscence. For verily with out the lawe sinne was deed. I once lived with out lawe: butt when the commaundement cam/ synne revived/ and I was deed. And the very same commaundement which was ordeyned vnto lyfe/ was founde to be vnto me ¹¹ an occasion of deeth. For synne toke occasion by the meanes of the commaundement and so disceaved me/ and by the silfe commaundement slewe me. wherfore the lawe is holy/ and the commaundement holy/ iust/ and good.

Was that then which is good made deeth vnto me? God forbyd. ¹² Naye synne was deeth vnto me/ that it myght apere how thatt synne by the meanes of that which is good/ had wrought deeth in me: that synne ¹³ which is vnder the commaundement/ myght be out of measure synfull. For I doo not that goode thynge which I wold: but that evyll do I/ which I wolde not. Finally/ yff I do that I wolde not/ then is it nott I that doo it/ but synne that dwelleth in me doeth it. I fynde then by the lawe that when I wolde do good/ evyll is present with me. I delite in the lawe off God/ as concernyng the inner man. God/ and in my flesshe the lawe of synne.

The viii. Chapter.

THREE is then no damnacion to them which are in Christ Iesu/ which walke not after the flesshe: butt after the sprete. For the lawe of the sprete wherin is life thorowe Jesus Christ hath delivered me from the lawe off synne/ and deeth. For what the lawe coulde nott doo in as moche as itt was weake be cause off the flesshe: ¹ that performed God/and sent his sonne in the similitude of synfull flesshe/ and ² by synne damned synne in the flesshe: that the rightewesnes ³ requyred of the lawe/ myght be fulfilled in vs/ whych walke not after the flesshe: butt after the sprete.

For they that are ⁴ carnall/ are carnally mynded. and they that are ⁴ spirituall are goostly mynded. ⁵ To be carnally mynded is deeth. and ⁵ to be spirituall mynded is lyfe/ and peace:
because that the fleschly mynde is enmyte against God: For it is not obedient to the lawe of God/ nether can be. So then they that are ⁶ geven to the flesshe/ cannot please god.

But ye are not ⁶ geven to the flesshe/ But ⁶ to the sprete: ⁷ Yff
soo be that the sprett of God dwell in you. if there be eny man that hath not the sprete of Christ/ the same is none of his/ Yf Christ be in you/ the body is deed be cause of synne:
But the sprete is lyfe for rightewesnes sake. Wherfore if the sprete of hym that raysed vppe Jesus from deeth/ dwell in you: even he that raysed vp Christ from deeth/ shall quicken youre mortall bodyes/ be cause that his sprete dwelleth in you.

Therfore brethren we are nowe detters/ not to the flesshe/to live after the flesshe: For iff ye live after the flesshe/ ye must deye. But if ye mortifie the dedes off the body/ by the helpe off the sprete ye shall live/ for as many as are ledde by the sprete off God/ are the sonnes of god. For ye have not have receaved the sprete off adopcion wherby we crye abba

the sonnes of god. yf we be the sonnes/ we are also the heyres (the heyres I meane of god) and ¹⁰ heyres anexed with Christ/ yf so be that we suffer togedder/ that we maye be glorified togedder.

For I ¹¹ suppose that the affliccions of this ¹² lyfe/ are not worthy of the glory which shalbe shewed apon vs. also the fervent desire of the creatures ¹³ abideth lokynge when the sonnes of God shall apere because the creatures are ¹⁴ subdued to vanite ¹⁵ agaynst their will: but for his will which subdued them in hope. For the very creatures shalbe delivered from the bondage off corrupcion/ into the glorious liber-tie off the sonnes of god. For we knowe that every creature groneth with vs also/ and travayleth in payne even vnto this tyme.

Not they only/ but even we also which have the fyrst frutes of the sprete ¹⁶ morne in oure selves and wayte for the ¹⁷ adop-are savyd by hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. For how can a man hope for that which he seyth? but and if we hope for that we se not/ then do we with pacience abyde for it.

Lyke wyse the sprete also helpeth oure infirmities. For Moses describeth the rightewesnes which commeth off the lawe/ howe that the man which doth the thynges of the lawe shall live therein. But the rightewesnes which commeth off fayth/ speaketh on this wyse : Saye nott in thyne hert : who shall ascende into heven ? ⁶(That is nothyng els then to fetch Christ ⁷doun). O ther who shall descende into the depe ? ⁶That is nothyng els but to fetch vppe Christ from deeth. Butt whatt sayth ⁸the scripture ? The worde is nye the/ even in thy mough and in thyner herth.

This worde is the worde off fayth which we preache. For yf thou shalt ⁹knowledge whith thy mought that Jesus is the lorde/ and shalt beleve with thyner hert that God raysed hym vppe from deeth/ thou shalt be safe. For ¹⁰the belefe off the hert iustifieth : and to knowledge with the mough maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayth : whosoever beleeveth on hym/ shall not be ashamed.

There is no difference bitwene the iewe and the gentyll. For won is lorde of all/ which is riche vnto all that call on hym. For whosoever shall call on the name of the lorde shalbe safe. Howe shall they call on hym/ on whom they beleved not ? how shall they beleve on hym off whom they have nott herde ? howe shall they heare with out a preacher ? And howe shall they preach except they be sent ? As hit is written : howe beautifull are the fete of them which ¹¹brynge glad tdynges of peace/ and brynge glad tdynges of good thynges. But they have nott all obeyed to the gospell. For Esayas sayth : Lorde ¹²wo shall beleve oure sayinges ? So then fayth commeth by hearyng/ and hearyng commeth by the worde of god. But I axe : have they nott herde ? No dout/ their sounde went out ¹³into all londes : and their wordes into the endes of the worlde.

But I demaunde ¹⁴whether Israhel did knowe or nott ? Fyrst Moses sayth : I will provoke you forto envy by ¹⁵them that are no people/ and by a folissh nacion I will anger you. Esayas after that is bolde and sayth. I am founde off them thatt sought me nott/ and have apered to them that axed not after me. And against Israhel he sayth : All daye longe

I SAYE then: hath God cast awaye his people? God for-

The fyrst Chapter.

PAUL¹ by vocacion the Apostle of Jesus Christ thorowe the will of god/ and brother Sostenes Vnto the congregacion of God which is at Corinthum. To them that are sanctifyed in Jesus christ/ sanctes by callynge/ with all them thatt call on the name of oure lorde Jesus Christ in every place/ both of theirs and of ouers.

Grace be with you and peace from God oure father/ and from the lorde Jesus Christ.

I thanke my god all wayes on youre behalfe for the faveour of god which is geven you by Jesus Christ/ that in all thinges ye are made ryche by him/ in all ² speache and in all knowledge (even as the testimony of Jesus Christ was confermed in you) so that ye ³are behynde in no gyft/ and wayte for the aperynge off oure lorde Jesus Christ which shall ⁴ strengthe you vnto the ende/ that ye may be blamlesse in the daye off oure lorde Jesus Christ. God is faythful/ by whom ye are called vnto the fellishyppe off his sonne Jesus Christe oure lorde.

I beseche you brethren in the name of oure lorde Jesus Christ/ that ye all speake one thynge/ and that there be no dissencion amonge you: but be ye ⁵ perfecte in one mynde/and one ⁶ meanyngē. hit is shewed vnto me (by brethren) off you by them that are of the housse of Cloe/ that there is ⁷ stryfe amouge you/ I speake of that which every one of you sayth: ⁸ I holde of Paul/ Another sayth: I holde of Apollo: Another sayth: I holde off Cephas. and another sayth I holde of Christ. Ys Christ divided⁹? was Paul crucified for you? other were ye baptised in the name of Paul? I thanke god that I ¹⁰ cristenone none of you/ but Crispus and Gaius/ lest eny shulde saye that I in myn awne name had baptised. I baptised also the housse of Stephana. Forthermore knowe I not whether I baptised ¹¹ eny man or noo.

For Christ sent me not to baptise/ but to preache the gos-pell/ not with wisdom of wordes/ lest the crosse of Christ shulde have bene made of none effecte. For the preachynge off the crosse is to them that perisshe folisshnes: but vnto vs which are saved/ it is the power off God. For it is written: I will destroye the wisdome of the wyse and will cast awaye the vnderstandynge of the prudent. Where is the wyse man? where is the scrybe? where is the ¹² searcher of this worlde? hath not god made the wisdom of this worlde folisshnes?

For when the worlde thorow wisdom knew not god/ in the wisdom of god: it pleased god throw folisshnes off preachynge to to save them that beleve. For the iewes requyre a signe/ and the grekes seke after wisdom. but we preach Christ crucified/ vnto the iewes ¹³ an occasion of fallynge and vnto the grekes folisshnes. but vnto them which are called both of Jewes and grekes we preache Christ the power of god/ and the wisdom of god. For ¹⁴ Godly folysshnes is wyser then men: And ¹⁴ godly weaknes is stronger then are men.

Brethren ¹⁵ loke on youre callinge howe that not many wyse men after the fleshe/ not many myghty/ not many ¹⁶ of hye degré are called. But God hath chosen the folysshe thyngeſ of the worlde/ to confounde the wyse. and hath chosen the weake thyngeſ of the worlde/ to confounde the thyngeſ which are myghty. And vile thyngeſ off the worlde/ and thyngeſ which are despysed/ hath god chosen yee and thyngeſ ¹⁷ of no reputacion/ forto bryngē to nought thyngeſ ¹⁷ off reputacion/

The ij. Chapter.

AND I brethren when I cam to you/ cam not ¹ in gloriousnes of wordes or of wisdom/ shewynge vnto you the testimony of God. ² Nether shewed I my silfe that I knew eny thyng amoneg you save Jesus Christ/ ³ even the same that was crucified. And I was amoneg you in weaknes/ and in feare/ and in moche tremblynge. And my wordes/ and my preachinge were not with entysynge wordes of mannes wysdom: but in ⁴ shewynge of the sprete of power/ that youre fayth shulde nott ⁵ stonde in the wisdom off men/ but in the power of god.

We speake that which is wisdom amoneg them that are perfaicte: not the wisdom of this worlde nether off the ruelars off this worlde (which goth to nought) but we speake the wisdom off god/ which is ⁶ in secrete and lieth hid/ which god ⁷ ordeyned before the worlde vnto oure glory: which wisdom none of the ruelars of the worlde knewe. For had they knownen it/ they wolde not have crucified the lorde of glory: but as it is written The eye hath not sene/ and the eare hath not hearde/ nether have entred into the herte of man/ the thynges which god hath prepared for them that love hym.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by hys sprete. For the sprete searcheth all thynges/ yee the ⁸ bottom of goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man: save the sprete off a man whiche is with in hym? Even so the thynges off god knoweth no man/ but the sprete of god. and we have nott receaved the sprete off the worlde: but the sprete which commeth of god/ for to knowe the thynges that are geven to vs of god/ which thynges also we speake/ not in the ⁹ connynge wordes off mannes wisdom/ but ⁹with the connynge

The iii. Chapter.

AND I coulde not speake vnto you brethren as vnto spirituall: butt as vnto carnall, even as it were vnto babes in Christ. I gave you mylke to drynke and not meate. For ye then were not¹ stronge, noo nether yet are¹ stronge. For ye are yet carnall.² As longe verely as there is amonge you envyngē, stryfe, and³ dissencion: are ye not carnall, and walke after the manner of men? And⁹ I meante nott atall of the fornicatours of this world/ other off the coveteous/ or of extorsioners/ other of the ydolaters : for then muste ye nedes have gone out of the worlde : but now I have written vnto you that ye company not togedder. This I saye to youre shame Ys there vterly nowyse man amonge you? what not one att all? that can iudge bitwene ⁷ brother and brother? but one brother goeth to lawe with another: and that vnder the ⁸ vnbelevers?

Nowe therfore is there vterly a faute amonge you, be cause ye goo to lawe one with another. Why rather suffer ye not wronge? why rather ⁹ suffre ye not youre selves to be robbed? The viij. Chapter.

AS concernyng the thynges wher of ye wrote vnto me : Hitt isgood for a man/ nott to touche a wo man. Neverthelesse to avode fornicacion/ lett every man have his wyfe : and lett every woman have her husbande. Let the ¹ man geve vnto the wyfe due benevolence. Lykwyse also the wyfe vnto the the ¹ man. The wyfe hath nott power over her awne body : butt the husbande : And lykewyse the ¹ man hath not power over his awne body : but the wyfe. ² Withdrawe not youre selves one from another excepte itt be with consent for a tyme/ forto geve youre selves to fastynge and prayer/ and ³ afterwarde come agayne to the same thynge/ lest Satan tempt you for youre incontinency.

This I saye ⁴ of faveour/ not of commaundment. For I wolde that all men were as I my silfe am : but every man hath his proper gifte off god/ won after this manner/ a nother after that. I saye vnto the vnmarried men/ and widdowes : it is good for them yf they abyde even as I do : but and yf they cannot abstayne/ let them mary. For it is better to Mary then to bourne.

Vnto the maried commaunde not I/ but the lorde : that the wyfe ⁵ separate nott her silfe from the man. yf she separate her silfe/ let her remayne vnmarried, or be reconciled vnto her husbande agayne. And lett not the husbande put awaye his wyfe from hym.

with hym/ lett hym not⁶ putt her awaye. And the woman which hath⁷ to her husbande an infidell/ yff he consent to dwell with her/ lett her nott⁶ putt hym away. For the vnbelevynge husbande is sanctifyed by the wyfe: and the vnbelevynge wyfe ys sanctifyed by the husbande. Or els were youre chyldren vncleane: but nowe are they pure. Butt and yff the vnbelevynge departe/ lett hym departe. A brother or a sister ys not in subiecccion⁸ to soche. God hath called vs in peace. For howe knowest thou o⁹ woman/ whether thou shalt save thy husbande¹⁰ [or not?] O ther howe knowest thou o man/ whether thou shalt save the wyfe or not? but even as god hath distributed to every man.

¹¹ As the lorde hath called every person so let him walke: and so orden I in all congregacions. yf eny man be called beynge circumcised/ let hym¹² adde nothyng therto. yf eny man be called vncircumcised: let hym not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothyng. vncircumcision is nothyng: but the keppynge of the commaundmentes of god¹³ [is altogedder.] Let every man abide in the same state werin he was called. Arte thou called a servaunt? care not for hit. Nevertheless if thou mayst be fre/ vse it rather. For he that is called in the lorde beynge a servaunt/ is the lordes freman. Lykwyse he that is called beynge fre/ is Christes servaunt. Ye are dearly bought, be not mennes servauntes. Brethren lett evere man wherin he is called/ therin abyde with god.

As concernynge virgins/ I have noo commaundment of the lorde: yet geve I¹⁴ counsell as won that hath obtayned¹⁵ off the lorde to be faithfull. I suppose that it is good for the present necessite: ¹⁶ for it is good for a man so to be. Arte thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke nott to be lowsed. I wolde have you with out care/ the ²⁰ syngle man careth for the thynges of the lorde/ howe he may please the lorde: but he that hath maried/ careth for the thynges off the worlde/ howe he maye please ²¹ his wyfe. There is difference betwene a virgen and a wyfe. The single woman careth for the thynges of the lorde/ that she may be pure both in body and also in sprete: but she that is maried/ careth for thynges off the worlde/ howe she maye please her husband. This speake I for youre ²² proffit/ not to ²³ tangle you in a snare: but ²⁴ for that which is honest and comly vnto you And that ye maye quyetly cleave vnto the lorde with out ²⁵ separacion.

If eny man thynke that it is vncomly for his virgen if she passe the ²⁶ tyme off mariage/ and iff so nede requyre/ let him do what he listeth/ he synneth not: let them be coupled in mariage. Neverthelesse/ he that ²⁷ purposeth surely in his herte/ havynge none nede: but hath power over his awne will: and hath so decreed in his herte that he will kepe his virgen/ doth wele. So then he that ²⁸ ioyneth not his virgen in mariage doth wele. And he that ²⁸ ioyneth not his virgen in mariage doth better. The wyfe is bounde to the lawe as longe as her husband liveth. If her husbande slepe/ she is at her liberte to mary with whom she woll only in the lorde. but she is ²⁹ happiar yf she so abyde/ in my iudgement. And I thynke verely that I have the sprete off God.

to knowe. but yff eny man love god/ the same is knownen of hym.

To speake of meate dedicat vnto ydols/ we are sure that ³ there is none ydoll in the worlde : and that ther is none other god but one. And though there be that are called goddes/ whether in heven other in erth (as there be goddes many and lordes many) but vnto vs is there one god/ which is the father/ off whom are all thynges/ and we in hym : and one lorde Jesus Christ/ by whom are all thynges/ and we by hym.

But ⁴ every man hath not knowledge. for some ⁵ suppose that there is an ydoll/ vntill this houre/ and eate as off a thyng offered vnto the ydole/ and so their consciences beyng yet weake are defyled. Meate ⁶ maketh vs not accepted to god : nether yff we eate ⁷ are we the better : Nether yf we eate not ⁷ are we the worsse.

But take hede ⁸ that youre libertie cause nott the weake to faule. For yf some man se the which hast knowledge sitt at mate in the ydols temple shall not the conscience off hym which is weake be ⁹ boldened to eate those thynges which are offered vnto the ydole ? And so thorow thy knowledge shall the weake brother perisse for whom christ dyed. When we synne so agaynst the brethren and wounde their weake consciencies/ we synne agaynst Christ. Wherfore yf meate hurt my brother/ I will ¹⁰ eate no fleshe whill the worlde stondeth/ be cause I will not hurte my brother.

have not ⁵ power this to do? who goeth a warfare eny tyme att his awne cost? who planteth a vynearde and eateth nott of the frute? or who fedeth a flocke and eateth nott off the mylke.⁶

Saye I these thinges after the manner of men? or sayth nott the lawe the same also? For itt ys written in the lawe of Moses: Thou shall not mosell the mouth of the oxe that treadeth out the corne. doth god take thought for oxen? other sayth he it nott all togedder for oure sakes? For oure sakes no doubt this is written: that he which eareth shulde eare in hope: and that he which throssheth in hope/ shulde be part taker of his hope. Yf we sowe vnto you spirituall thynges: is it a greate thynge yf we reepe youre carnall thynges? yf other be part takers of this power over you? wherfore are not we rather.

Neverthelesse we have not vsed this power: but suffre all thinges lest we shulde hynder the gospell of Christ. Do ye not vnderstonde howe that they which minister ⁷ in the temple: have their fyndyne of the temple? And they which wayte att the ⁸ aulter ⁹ are parttakers with the ⁸ aultre? Wherfore lett hym thatt thynketh he stondeth, take hede lest he fall. There hath none other temptacion taken you, but soche as ⁷foloweth the nature of man. Wherfore my deare beloved, fle from worshippyng of ydols.

I speake as vnto them which have discrecion, Judge ye what I saye. Ys not the cuppe of ¹¹blessinge which we blysse, ¹²partakyng of the bloude of Christ? ys not the breed which we breake, ¹²partetakyng of the body of Christ? ¹³be cause that we (though we be many) yet are one breed, and one body in as moch as we all are partetakers off one breed. ¹⁴ Beholde Israhell which walketh carnally. Are not they which eate of the sacryfyse, partetakers off the aultre?

What saye I then? that the ymage is eny thinge? or that it which is offered to ymages is eny thinge? Naye, but I saye, that those thenges which the gentyls offer, they offer to devyls, and not to god. And I wolde not that ye shulde have fellishippe with the devyls. Ye cannot drynke of the cuppe off the lorde, and of the cuppe off the devyls. For yf I ²⁰ take my parte with thankes : why am I evell spoken off for that thyng wher fore I geve thankes.

The vi. Chapter.

I COMMENDE you brethren that ye remember me in all thynges/ and kepe the ordinaunces ¹ which I gave you. I wolde ye knowe that Christ is the heed of every man. and the womans heed is the man/ and Christes heed is God. Every man prayinge or prophesyng havynge eny thyng on his heed/ ²shameth his heed. Every woman that prayeth or prophesieth bare hedded dishonesteth her heede. For it is even allwon/ and the very same thyng even as though she were shaven Yf the woman be not covered/ lett her also be shaven. Yf it be ³ shame for a woman to be shaven or shorne/ let her cover her heed.

A man ought not to cover his heed/ for as moche as he is the ymage and glory of god. The woman is the glory of the man. For the man is not of the woman/ but the woman of the man. Nether was the man created for the womans sake : but the woman for the mannes sake. For this cause ought the woman to have power in her heed/ for the angels sakes. Neverthelesse/ nether is the man with oute the woman/ nether the woman with out the man in the lorde. For as the woman is of the man/ even soo is the man by the woman : but all is of god.

praye vnto god ⁴ bare hedded. Or els doth not nature teach you/ that it is a shame for a man/ if he have longe heere : ⁵ [and a prayse to woman if she have longe heere ?] For her heere is geven her to cover her with all. yf there be eny man amonge you that lusteth to ⁶ stryve/ let him knowe that we have no soche customes/ nether the congregacions of God.

⁷ This I warne you of/ and commande not that ye come togedder ⁸ after a worsse manner/ and nott after a better. Fyrst of all when ye come togedder in the congregacion/ I heare that there is dissencion amonge you : And I partly beleve it. For there must be ⁹ sectes amonge you/ that they which amonge you are ¹⁰ perfaict myght be knownen. When we come togedder in one place/ ¹¹ aman cannot eate the lordes supper. For every man ¹² begynneth a fore to eate his awne supper. and one is hongrye/ and another is dronken. Have ye nott houses to eate and to drynke in ? Or els despysye ye the congregacion off God ? and shame them that have nott ? what shall I saye vnto you ? shall I prayse you ? in this prayse I you not.

That which I gave vnto you I receaved off the lorde. For the lorde Jesus the same nyght in the which he was betrayed/ toke breed : and thanked and brake/ and sayde : Take ye/ and eate ye this is my body which is broken for you. This do ye in the remembraunce of me. After the same manner he toke the cuppe when sopper was done sayinge : This cuppe is the newe testament in my bloud/ this do as oft as ye drinke it/ in the remembraunce off me. For as often as ye shall eate this breed/ and drynke thys cuppe/ ye shall shewe the lordes deeth/ till he come. Wherfore whosoever shall eate off this bred/ or drynke off the cuppe ¹³ vnworthely/ shalbe giltie off the body and blout off the lorde. Let a man therfore examen hym silfe/ and so let hym eate off the breed and drynke off the cuppe. For he that eateth or drynketh vnworthely/ eateth and drynketh his awne damnacion/ be cause he ¹⁴ maketh no differenceof the lordis body.

There are diversites of gyttes verely/ yet but one sprete. And there are ⁴ differences of ⁵ administracions/ and yet but one lorde. And there are divers manners off operacions/ ⁶ and yet but one God/ which worketh ⁷ all thynges that are wrought in all creatures. ⁸ The gyttes off the sprete are geven to every man ⁹ to proffit the congregacion. But nowe hath god disposed the members, every one of them in the body, at his awne pleasure. Yf they were all won member: where wer the body? nowe are there many members, yet but one body. and the eye cannot saye vnto the honde: I have no nede of the: nor the heed also to the fete: I have no nede of you. Ye ¹⁷ rather a greate dele those membres off the body which seme to be most feble, are most necessary. And apon those members of the body which we thynke ¹⁸ lest honest, put we most honestie on. And our ¹⁹ vngoodly parties have most ¹⁹ beauty on. for oure ¹⁹ honest members nede it not: but God hath so ²⁰ disposed the body, and hath geven most honoure to that parte which laked, lest there shulde be eny ²¹ stryfe in the body: butt that the members shulde ²² indifferently care one for another. And iff one member suffer all suffer with hym: yff one member be had in honoure, all members ²³ be glad also.

Ye are the body off Christ, and members won off another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregacion, fyrst the Apostels, secondarely prophetes, thyrdly teachers, then them that do miracles, after that the gyftes off healyng, helpers, governers, diversite off tonges.

The xv. Chapter.

BRETHREN as pertaynyng to the gospell which I preached unto you/ which ye have also ²accepted/ and in the which ye continue: by the which also ye are saved/ ³I do you to witt after what maner I preached vnto you/ [yf ye kepe it/] except ye have beleved in vayne.

For fyrst of all I gave vnto you that which I receaved: howe that Christ dyed for oure synnes/ ⁴agreynge to the scriptures: and thatt he was buried/ and thatt he arose agayne the thyrd daye accordyng to the scriptures: and thatt he was sene of Cephas/ then of the twelve/ after thatt he was sene off moo than five hondred brethren atonce: off the which ⁵many ⁶remayne vnto ⁷thys daye/ and ⁸many are fallen a slepe. After that ⁹apered he to James/ then to all the Apostles.

And last off all he was sene off me/ as off one thatt was borne out off due tyme. For I am the lest off all the Apostles/ which am nott worthy to be called an apostle/ be cause I persecuted the congregacion of God: but by the faveour of God I am that I am. And his faveour whych is in me was not in wayne: butt I labored moare aboundingantly then they all/ not I/ butt the faveour of God which is with me. Whether ytt were I or they/ so have we preached/ and so have ye beleved.

Yf Christ be preached howe that he rose from deeth: howe saye some that are amonge you/ that there ys no resurreccion from deeth? Yff there be no rysyng agayne from deeth: then is Christ nott rysen. Yff Christ be nott rysen/ then ys oure preachyng vayne/ and youre fayth is also vayne: Yee/ and we are founde falce witnesses of God. For we have testified ¹⁰agaynst god howe that he raysed vppe Christ/ whom he raysyd nott uppe/ yf it be so that the deed ¹¹ryse nott vppe agayne. For yf the deed ryse nott agayne, then is Christ not rysen agayne. Yf it be so thatt Christ rose not, then is youre fayth in vayne. and yet are ye in youre synnes. Also they whiche are fallen a slepe in Christ, are perrished. Yf in thy lyfe only we ¹² beleve on Christ, then are we off all men the miserablest.

Nowe is Christ rysen from deeth, and is be come the fyrst frutes off them that slept. For ¹³ by a man cam deeth, and by a man cam resurrection from deeth. For as by Adam all deye: even so by Christ, shall all be made alive, and every man in his awne order: The ¹⁴ fyrst is Christ, then they that are Christis att his commynge. Then commeth the ende, when he hath delivered vppe the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath putt doun all rule, auctorite and power. For he must ruele till he have putt all his enemys vnd' his fete.

The last enemy that shalbe destroyed is deeth. For he hath put all thynges vnder his fete. butt when he sayth, all thynges are ¹⁵ putt vnder hym, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did putt all thynges vnder him. When all thynges are subdued vnto hym: then shall the sonne also hym silfe be subiecte vnto hym thatt ¹⁵ put all thynges vnder hym, that God maye be all in all thynges.

Other els what do they which are baptised ¹⁶ over the deed, if the deed ryse not at all? why are they baptised ¹⁶ over the deed? And why stonde we in ieoperdy every houre? by oure reioysynge which I have in Christ Jesu oure lorde, I deye dayly. ¹⁷ That I have fought with beastes att Ephesus after the maner of men, what avauntageth it me, yf the deed ryse not agayne? Lett vs eat and drynke, to morowe we shall deye. Be not deceaved: ¹⁸ malicious speakynges corrupte good manners. Awake ¹⁹ truely out off slepe, and synne nott: For some have not the knowledge off God. I speake this vnto youre ²⁰ rebuke.

But some man will saye: howe shall the deed aryse? with what body shall they come? Thou fole, thatt which thou sowest is nott quickened except it deye. And ²¹ what sowest thowe? Thowe sowest not that body that shalbe: but bare corne ²² (I meane other off wheate, or of some other) and God gegetteth it a body att his pleasure, to every seed ²³ a severall body.

All fleshe is not ²⁴ one manner of fleshe: but there is ²⁵ one maner fleshe off men, another maner fleshe of beastes, another maner fleshe of fysshes, and another of byrdes. There are ²⁶ celestiall bodyes, and there are bodyes ²⁷ terrestrial: Butt the glory of the ²⁶ celestiall is one, and the glory of the ²⁷ terrestriall is another. There is one maner glory of the sonne, and another glory of the mone, and another glory of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurreccion of the deed. Hit is sowne in corruption, and ryseth in incorrupcion. Hitt is sowne in dishonoure, and ryseth in honoure. It is sowne in weaknes, and ryseth in power. Hit is sowne a naturall body, and ryseth a spretuall body.

There is a naturall bodye and there is a spretuall body, as it is written: The fyrst man Adam was made a livynge soule: and the last Adam was made a quickenyng sprete: but that is nott fyrst which is spirituall: but that which is naturall, and then that which is spretuall. The fyrst man is of the erth, erthy: The seconde is ²⁸ from heven, heavenly. As is the erthy, soche are they that are erthy: And as is the hevenly, soche are they that are heavenly: And as we have borne the ymage off the erthy, so shall we beare the ymage of the hevenly.

This saye I brethren, that fleshe and bloud cannot inheret the kyngdom of god. Nether corruptiōn inhereteth vncorruption. Beholde I shewe ²⁹ a mistery vnto you: we shall not all slepe: butt we shall all be chaunged, and that in a moment, and the twincklynge of an eye, at ³⁰ [the sounde of] the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the deed shall ryse incorruptible: And we shalbe chaunged. For this corruptible must put on ³¹ incorruptibilite: and this mortall must put on immortalite.

When this corruptible hath put on ³¹ incorruptibilite: and this mortall hath putt on immortalite: then shalbe brought to passe

Seconde Pistle off Paul the Apostle to the Corinthyans.

The fyrst Chapter.

PAUL an Apostle off Jesus Christ by the will off God, and brother Timotheous.

Vnto the congregacion of god/ which is at Corinthum/ with all the sayntes which are in all Achaia : Grace be with you and peace from God oure father/ and from the lorde Jesus Christ.

Blessed be god the father of oure lorde Jesus Christ/ the father of mercy/ and the god of all conforter/ which comforte-th vs in all oure tribulacion/ ¹ insomoche that we are able to comforte them which are ² troubled/ in what soever tribulacion it be/ with the same conforter wher with we oure selves are comforted of god. For as the affliccions of Christ ³ are plenteous in vs : even so is oure consolacion plenteous by Christ.

Whether we be troubled ⁴ for your consolacion/ and helth/
⁵ which helth sheweth her power in that ye soffre the same affliccions which we also suffre : or whether we be comforted ⁴ for youre consolacion and helth : yet oure hope is stedfast for you inasmoch as we knowe howe that as ye have youre parte in afflictions/ so shall ye be part takers of consolacion.

Brethren I wolde not have you ignoraunt of oure trouble/which happened vnto vs in Asia. For we were ⁶ greved out of measure passynge strengthe,⁷ so greatly that we despaered even off lyfe.⁸ Also we receaved⁹ an answer of deeth in oure selves/ and that was done be cause we shulde not put oure trust in our selves: but in god/ which rayseth the deed to lyfe egayne: Which delivered vs from so grett a deeth/and doth delivre/ on whom we trust/ that yet here after he will delivre vs,¹⁰ by the helpe of youre prayer for vs:¹¹ That by the meanes of many occasions/ thankes maye be geven of many on oure behalfe/ For the grace geven vnto vs.

Oure reioysyne is this/ the testimony of oure conscience/that we¹² with out doublenes/ but with godly purenes: not in

The Iij. Chapter.

¹ I CALL god for a recorde vnto my soule, that forto ² faver you with all, I cam not ³ eny moare vnto Corinthum. Not that we ⁴ be lordes over youre fayth: but helpers of youre ioye. For by faith ye stonde. but I determined this in my silfe, that I wolde nott come agayne to you in hevines. For yf I make you sory: who is it that shulde make me glad, but the same which is made sory by me? And I wrote ⁵ this same pistle vnto you, lest yf I cam, I shulde take ⁶ hevines of them, of whom I ought to reioyce. Certaynly this confidence have I in you all, that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For in grett affliction and anguissh of hert I wrote vnto you with many teares: not to make you sory, butt that ye myght perceave the love which I have most specially vnto you.

Yf eny man hath caused sorowe, the same hath not made me sory: but ⁷ partly, lest I shuld greve you all. Hit is sufficient vnto the same man that he was rebuked off many. So that ⁸ nowe contrary wyse ye ought to forgeve hym and comforthe hym: lest the same persone shulde be swallowed vpp with moch hevines. Wherfore ⁹ I exhorte you, that ¹⁰ love maye have strengthe over hym. For this cause verely did I write, that I myght knowe the professe off you, whether ye shulde be obedientie in all thynges. To whom ye forgeve eny thyng, I forgeve also. And verely if I forgave eny thinge, to whom I forgave it for youre sakes forgave I it, in the ¹¹ roume of Christ, lest Satan shulde ¹² prevent us. For ¹³ his thoughtes are not vnknownen vnto vs.

When I was come to Troada ¹⁴ for Christes gospels sake (and a grett dore was openned vnto me of the lorde) I had no rest in my sprete, be cause I founde not Titus my brother: but toke my leave of them and went my waye into Macedonia.

For we are vnto god the swete saver of Christ/ both amonge them that are saved/ and also amonge them which perisshe : to the one parte are we the saver of deeth vnto deeth : vnto the other parte are we the saver of lyfe vnto lyfe. And who is ¹⁶ mete vnto these thynges ? For we are not as ¹⁷ many are which ¹⁸ choppe and chaunge with the worde of god : bút ¹⁹ as ²⁰ [they which speake] off ²¹ purenes/ and as ²⁰ [they which speake] of God in the sight off God/ so speake we in Christ.

If the ministracion ⁵ of deeth ⁶ thorowe the letters figured in stones was gloriouſ/ so that the children of israel coulde not beholde the face off Moses for the glory of his countenaunce (which glory nevertheless is done awaye) why shall not the ministracion off the sprete be moche more glorious ? Seynge then that we have soche trust we vse gret boldnes/ ¹⁰ and not as Moses/ which put a vayle over his face that the children of Israell shulde not ¹¹ se for what purpose that served whiche is not put awaye. But their mindes are blynded. For vntill this daye remayneth the same coverynge vntaken awaye in the olde testament when they rede hyt, which in Christ is put awaye: But even vnto this daye, when Moses is redde the vayle ¹² hangeth before their hertes. Nevertheless when they tourne to the lorde, the vayle shalbe taken awaye. The lorde no dout is a sprete. off God/ for we preache nott oure selves/ but Christ Jesus the lorde/ and preache oure selves youre seruautes for Jesus sake. For it is god that commaunded the light to shyne out off darknes/ which hath shyned in oure hertes/ for to geve the light of knowledge off the ⁷ glorious god/ in the face off Jesus Christ.

But we have this treasure in erthen vesseles that the ⁸ ex-cellent power off it myght apere to be off Gode/ and nott off vs. We are trowbeled on every syde/ yett are we nott ⁹ with out shyft. We are in povertie: but not ¹⁰ vtterly without somwhat. We are persecuted: but are not forsaken. We are ¹¹ cast doune: nevertheless we perisse not. And we allwayes beare in oure bodyes the deyinge of the lorde Jesus/ that the lyfe of Jesu myght apeare in oure bodyes.

For we which live are always delyvered vnto deeth for Jesus sake/ that the lyfe also of Jesu myght apere in oure mortall flesshe. So then deeth worketh in vs/ and lyfe in you. Seynge then that we have the same sprete of fayth/ accordynge as it is written (I beleved and therfore have I spoken) we also beleve/ and therfore speake. Yff the trueth off Christ be in me/ this reioysnge shall nott be ¹³ taken from me in the regions of Achaia. Wherfore ? be cause I love you not ? God knoweth. Neverthelesse what I doo/ that will I do to cut awaye occasion from them which desyre occasion/ that they myght be founde lyke vnto us in that wher in they reioyce : for these falce apostles are disceatefull workers/ and ¹⁴ fassion them selves lyke vnto the apostles of Christ. And no marvayle/ for satan hym silfe is ¹⁴ chaunged into the fassion of an angell of light. Therfore it is no grett thyng/ though his ministers ¹⁴ fassion them selves as though they were the ministers of rightewesnes : whose ende shalbe accordynge to their dedes.

I saye agayne lest eny man thynke that I am folishe : or els even nowe take me as a fole/ that I maye bost my silfe a lytell. That I speake/ I speake it not ¹⁵ after the wayes of the lorde : but as it were folyssh, ¹⁶ whill we are nowe come to bostynge. Seynge that many reioyce after the flesshe I will reioyce also. For ye suffre foles gladly be cause ye youre selves are wyse. GOD the father of oure lorde Jesus Christ/ which is blessed for evermore/ knoweth that I lye nott. ¹ Hit is not expedient for me no dout to reioyce/ ² Neverthelesse I will come to visions and revelacions of the lorde. The fyrt Chapter.

PAUL an Apostle, nott off men, nether by man, but by Jesus Christ, and by god the father which raysed him from deeth, and all the brethren whych are with me. Vnto the congregacion off Galacia.

Grace be with you and peace from god the father, and from oure lorde Jesus Christ, which gave him silfe for oure synnes, to deliver vs from this present evill worlde, thorowe the will of God oure father, to whom be prayse for ever Amen.

I marvayle that ye are so sone ¹ tourned from hym that called you in the grace of Christ, vnto another gospell, which is ² nothyngel els, but that there be some which trouble you, and intende to pervert the gospell off Christ. Neverthelesse though we oure selves, or an angell from heven, preache ³ eny other gospell vnto you then that which we have preached vnto you, ⁴ holde hym as acursed. As I sayde before, so saye I nowe agayne, yf ene man preache eny other thinge vnto you, then that ye have receaved, ⁴ holde hym acursed. ⁵ Seke nowe faveour off men, or off God? Other go I abut to please men? Yf I stodyed to please men, I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

lacion of Jesus Christ. ye have herde of my conversacion in tymes past in ⁶ the Jewes wayes/ howe that ⁷ be yonde measure I persecuted the congregacion off god/ and ⁸ spoyled it: and ⁹ prevayled in ⁶ the iewes lawe/ above many of my companions/ which were of myne awne nacion/ and ¹⁰ moche more fervently mayntayned the tradicions of ¹¹ the elders.

But when it pleased god/ which seperated me from my mothers wombe/ and called me by his grace/ forto ¹² declare his sonne by me/ that I shulde preache hym amonge the hethen: Immediatly I ¹³ commended not of the matter with fleshe and bloud/ nether returned to Jerusalem to them which were Apostles before me: but went my wayes into Arabia/ and cam agayne vnto Damascon. Then after thre yeare I returned to Jerusalem vnto Peter and abode with him .xv dayes/ no nother off the Apostles sawe I/ save James the lordes brother. The thynges which I write/ beholde/ ¹⁴ god knoweth I lye not.

When Peter was come to Antioche/ I withstode him ¹⁰ in the face/ for he was worthy to be blamed. For ¹¹ yerre that certayne cam from James/ he ate with the gentyls: butt when they were come/ he withdrew and seperated hym silfe/ feareyng them which were off the circumcision/ and the wother Jewes dissembled lykewyse/ In so moche that Barnabas was brought into their simulacion also. Butt when I sawe/ thatt they went nott the ryght waye after the trueth of the gospell/ I sayde vnto Peter before all men/ yff thou beynge a Jewe/ livest after the manner off the gentyls and not as do the Jewe: why ¹² causest thou the gentyls to ¹³ folowe the Jewes? we which are Jewes by nature and not synners off the gentyls/ knowe thatt a man is nott iustified by the dedes off the lawe: but by the fayth of Jesus Christ: and we have beleved on Jesus Christ/ that we myght be iustified by the fayth of Christ and not by the dedes of the lawe: be cause thatt noo fleshe shalbe iustified by the dedes of the lawe.

I¹⁵ despysē not the grace of god: For if rightewesnes come of the lawe, then¹⁶ is Christ deed in vayne.

The iiij. Chapter.

O FOLISSHE Galathyans: who hath bewitched you, that ye shulde not¹ beleve the trueth? to whom Jesus Christ² was described before the eyes, and amonge you crucified? This only wolde I learne of you. receaved ye the sprete by dedes of the lawe? or els by³ preachinge of the faith? Are ye⁴ so vnwyse, that after ye have begon in the sprete, ye wolde nowe⁵ ende in the flesch? So many thyngeſ ye have suffred in vayne. Yf it be so that ye have suffered in vayne. Which ministered to you the sprete, and worketh miracles amonge you doth he itt thorowe the dedes off the lawe? or by preachinge of the faith? Even as Abraham believed god, and it was⁶ a scribed to him for rightewesnes. Vnderstonde therfore, thatt they which are off fayth, are the children of Abraham.

The scripture sawe afore honde, that god wolde iustifie the hethen thorow fayth, and⁷ shewed before honde glad tdynges vnto Abraham: In the shall all⁸ nacions be blessed. So then they which be of fayth, are blessed with faythfull Abraham. For as many as are und' the dedes of the lawe, are⁹ vnder malediccion. For it is written: cursed is every man that continueth not in all thyngeſ which are written in the boke of the lawe to fulfill them. That no man is iustified by the lawe in the sight of god is evident. For the iust shall live by faith. cursed for vs (for it is written : Cursed is every one that hangeth on tree) that the blesynge of Abraham might come on the gentyls throwe Jesus Christe/ that we might receave the promes of the sprete thorowe fayth.

Brethren I will speake after the manner of men : Though it be but a mans testament/ yet no man ¹² despyseth it/ or addeth eny thynge thereto when it is ¹³ once alowed. To Abraham and his seede were the promyses made. He saith not/ in thy seedes as in many : But in thy sede/ as in won/ which is Christ. This I saye that the lawe which ¹⁴ began afterwarde/ beyonde iiiij C. and xxx. yeares/ doth not disanull the testament/ that was confermed of god ¹⁵ vnto Christ ward/ to make the promes of none effect. For yf the inheritaunce ¹⁶ come off the lawe/ hit commeth not of promes : but god gave it vnto Abraham by promes.

Wherfore then serveth the lawe ? The lawe was added be cause of transgression (till the seede cam vnto which seede the promes was made) and it was ordeyned by angels in the honde of a mediator. A mediator is nott a mediator of one. Butt god is one. Ys the lawe then agaynst the promes off god ? God forbid. Yff there had bene a lawe geven which coulde have geven lyfe : ¹⁷ then no doute rightewesnes shulde have come by the lawe : but the scripture concluded all thinges vnder sinne/ that the promes by the faith of Jesus Christ/ shulde be geven vnto them that beleve. Before that fayth cam/ we were kept ¹⁸ and shut vppe vnder the lawe/ vnto the fayth which shulde afterwarde be ¹⁹ declared.

Wherfore the lawe was oure scolemaster ²⁰ vnto the tyme of Christ/ that we myght be made rightewes by fayth. But after that faith is come/ nowe are we no lenger vnder a scolemaster. For ye are all the sonnes of god/ ²¹ by the faith which is in Christ Jesus. For all ye thatt are baptised²² have put Christ on you. Nowe is there no Jewe/ nether greke : there is nether bonde/ nether fre : there is nether ²³ man/ nether woman : for all are one thynge in Christ Jesu. yf ye be Christes/ then are ye Abrahams seede/ and heires by promes.

AND I saye that the heyre as longe as he ys a chylde differtyeth not from a seruaunt, though he be lorde of all, but is vnder tuters and governers, vntill the tyme apoynted of the father. Even so we, as longe as we were children, wer in bondage vnder the ¹ordinacions of the worlde: but when the ²tyme was full come, god sent his sonne borne of a woman, and ³made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeme them which were vnder the lawe: that we ⁴thorowe eleccion shulde receave the inheritaunce that belongeth vnto the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, God hath sent the sprete of his sonne into oure hertes, which cryeth abba ⁵father. Wherfore nowe arte thou not a seruaunt, but a sonne. yff thou be the sonne, thou arte also the heyre of God thorowe Christ.

Tell me ye that ¹⁹ desyre to be vnder the lawe : ²⁰ have ye not herde of the lawe ? For it is written that Abraham had two sonnes, the one by ²¹ a bonde mayde, the wother by a fre woman. Yee and he which was of the bonde woman was borne after the flesshe : but he which was of the fre woman was borne by promes. ²² Which thynges ²³ betoken mistery. For ²⁴ these wemen are two testamente, the one from the mounte Sina, which gendreth vnto bondage, which is Agar (²⁵ For mounte Sina is called Agar in Arabia, and ²⁶ bordreth apon the citie which is nowe Jerusalem) and is in bondage with her Children.

But Jerusalem, which is above, is fre: which is the mother of vs all. For it is written: reioyce thou baren, that bearest no children: breake forthe and crye, thou that travelest not. For the desolate hath many moo children, then she which hath an husbande. Brethren we are ²⁷ after ²⁸ [the maner off] Isaac children of promes: But as then he that was borne ²⁹ carnally, persecuted hym that was borne ²⁹ spiritually. Even so is it nowe. Neverthelesse what sayth the scripture: ³⁰ Caste a waye the bonde woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman shall not be heyre with the sonne off the fre woman. PAUL an apostle off Jesu Christ, by the will off God.
To the saynctes at Ephesus, and to ¹ them whiche believe on Jesus Christ.

Blessed be God the father of oure lorde Jesus Christ, which hath blessed vs with all maner of spirituall blesinges in hevenly thynges by Christ, accordynge as he had chosen vs in hym thorowe love, before the foundacion of the worlde was layde, that we shuldebe ² sayntes, and ³ with out blame in his sight. ⁴ And ordeyned vs before ⁵ vnto him silfe that we shulde be chosen to heyres thorowe Jesus Christ, accordynge to the pleasuer of his will, to the prayse of ⁶ his glorious grace, where with he hath made vs accepted in the beloved.

Grace be with you, and peace from god oure father, and from the lorde Jesus Christ.

And ye counterfaited vs, and the lorde: and receaved the worde in moche affliccion, with ioye of the holy gost: so that ye were an ensample to all that beleve in Macedonia, and Achaia. For from you sounded out the worde off the lorde,

The seconde Chapter.

FOR ye youre selves brethren knowe of oure entraunce in vnto you/ howe that it was not in vayne: but even after that we had suffered before and where shamfully entreated at Phillippos (as ye wele knowe) then were we bolde in oure God to speake vnto you the gospell off God/ with moche strivynge. Oure exhortacion was not¹ to bryng you to errour/ nor yet to vnclemnes/ nether was it with gyle: but as we were alowed of God/² that the gospell shulde be commytted vnto vs: even so we speake/ not³ as though we entended to please men/ butt God/ which trieth oure hertes.

Ye remember brethren oure laboure and travayle. For we labored daye and nyght/ be cause we wolde not be⁹ greuous vnto eny off you/ and preached you the gospell of God. Ye are witnesses/ and so is god/ howe holyly and iustly which hath called you vnto his kyngdom and glory.

For this cause thanke we god without ceasyng/ be cause that when ye receaved ¹² of vs the worde/ wherwith God was preeched/ ye receaved it not as the worde of man: but even as it was in dede/ the worde of God/ which worketh in you that beleve. For ye brethren did counterfaite the congregacions of god which in iewry are in Christ Jesu: for ye have suffered ¹³ lyke thynge of youre kynsmen/ as we oure selves have suffered of the Jewes/ ¹⁴ which as they kyllled the lorde Jesus and their ¹⁵ one prophetes/ even so have they persecuted vs/ and God they please not/ and are contrary to all men: and forbid vs to preach vnto the gentyls/ that they myght be saved/ to fulfill their synnes: For the wrath off God is come on them/ even to the vtmost.

For as moch brethren as we are kept from you for a season/ ¹⁶ as concernyng the bodyly presence but not in the herte/ we ¹⁷ enforso the more to se ¹⁸ you personally with great desire/ and therfore we wolde have come vnto you I Paul ¹⁹ once and agayne: but Satan ²⁰ withstode vs. For what is oure hope or ioye/ or croune off reioysyng? are not ye in the presence off oure lorde Jesus Christ at his commynge? yes ye are oure glory and ioye.

 Timotheus.

The fyrst Chapter.

PAUL an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the ¹ commaundement of god oure savioure, and of the lorde Jesu Christ, which ys oure hope.

Vnto Timotheus ² hys naturall sonne in the fayth.

Grace mercy and peace from god oure father, and from the lord Jesu Christ.

As I besought the to abyde styllyng in Ephesus when I departed into macedonia, even so do that thou ³ warne some that they ⁴ teache no other wyse: nether geve hede to fables and genealogies, which are endlesse, and brede ⁵ doutes, more then godly edyfyinge which is by faith: for the ende of the commaundement is love that commeth off a pure herte and of a good conscience, and of fayth vnfayned: from the which thynges, some have erde, and have turned vnto vayne iangleynge, ⁶ be cause they wolde be doctours in the scripture and yett vnderstonde nott what they speake, nether wherof they afferme.

We knowe that the lawe is god, yf a man vse it lawfully, ⁷ vnderstandinge this, howe that the lawe is not geven vnto a righteous man, butt vnto the ⁸ vnrighteous and disobedient, to the vngodly and to synners, to vnholy and ⁹ vnclean, to murtherers of fathers and murtherers of mothers, to ¹⁰ manquel-lars and whormongers: to ¹¹ them that defile them selves with mankynde: to menstealers: to lyars and to periured: and ¹² [so forth] yf there be eny wother thyngē that is contrary to holsome doctryne accordynge to the ¹³ glorious gospell off the ¹⁴ holy god: which gospell is committed vnto me.

And I thanke ¹⁵ hym that hath made me stronge ¹⁶ in Christ Jesu oure lorde: for he counted me ¹⁷ true: and put me in office: when before I was a blasphemar, [and a persecuter] and ¹⁸ a tyraunt. Neverthelesse ¹⁹ I obtayned mercy because I did it ignorantly in vnbelefe: but the grace of oure lorde was more abundant: with fayth and love: which is in Christ Jesu.

This is a true saynge: and by all meanes worthy to be receaved: that Christ Jesus cam into the worlde to save synners: of whom I am chefe: Notwithstantdynge ²⁰ vnto me was mercy geven: that ²¹ Jesus Christ shulde fyrst shewe on me all ²² long pacience: vnto the ensample off them which shall in tyme to come beleve on hym vnto eternall lyfe. So then vnto ²³ god: kynge everlastynge: ²⁴ immortall: invisible: and wyse only: be honoure and prayse for ever and ever Amen.

This commaundement commit I unto the sonne Timotheus: accordynge to the prophesies which ²⁵ in tyme past were prophesied off the: that thou in them shouldest fyght a good fyght: havyng fayth and good conscience: which some have put awaye from them: and as concernynge fayth have made shipwracke. of whose nombre is Himeneus: and Alexander: which I have delivered vnto Satan: that they might be taught not to blaspheme.

For that is good and accepted in the sight of god oure savioure/ which wolde have all men saved/ and to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth. For there is one god/ and one mediator bitwene god and man/ which is the man Christ Jesus/ which gave hym silfe a raunsom for all men/ ⁴ that it shulde be ⁵ preached at his tyme/ where vnto I am apoynted a preacher/ and an apostle (I tell te trueth in Christ and lye not) beyng the teacher of the gentyls in fayth and veritie.

He must also be wele reported off amonge them which are with outforth/ lest he fall into rebuke/ and into the snare off ¹⁶ the evyll speaker.

PUAL an Apostle of Jesu Christ, by the will of god,

Jesu.

To Timothe ² his beloved sonne Grace, mercy, and peace,
from god the father, and from Jesus Christ oure lorde.

I thanke god, whom I serve from myn elders with pure and am assuered that itt dwelleth in the also.

Wherfore ⁴ I warne the that thou stere vppe the gyfte of god hath not geven to vs the sprete of feare: but of power, and of love, and of ⁵ honest behaveour. Be not a shamed ⁶ to tes-

For I knowe ⁹ whom I have beleved/ and am ¹⁰ sure that he is able to kepe that which I have committed to his kepyng agaynst that daye.

¹¹ Se that thou have the ensample of the holsome wordes which thou herdest of me/ in sayth and love which is in Jesu Christ. That good thyng whiche was committed to thy kepyng/ kepe in the holy gost which dwelleth in vs. This thou knowest howe that all they which are in Asia be turned from me. of which sorte are Phigellos and Hermogenes. the lorde gave mercie vnto the housse off Onesiphoros/ for he ofte refresshed me/ and was not a shamed off my chayne: but when he was at Rome he sought me out very diligently/ and founde me. Remember that Jesus Christ beyng off the sede of David, rose agayne from deth accordyng to my gospell, where in I suffre truble as an evill doar, even vnto bondes. but the worde of god was not bounde. Herfore I suffre all thinges, for the electes sakes, thatt they might also obtayne that helth which is in Christ Jesu, with eternall glory.

It is a ⁷ true sayinge, if we be deed with hym, we also shall live with hym. Yf we ⁸ be pacient, we shall also raigne with him. If we denye him, he also shall denye vs. Yf we ⁹ beleve not, yet abideth he faithfull. He cannot denye hym silfe. Of these thynges put them in remembraunce. and ¹⁰ testifie before the lorde, that they ¹¹ stryve not about wordes, which is to no proffet, but to pervert the heares.

Studdy to shewe thy silfe ¹² laudable vnto god, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, ¹³ divydyng the worde of trueth ¹⁴ iustly. ¹⁵ Vngostly and vayne voyces passe over. For they shall ¹⁶ encrease vnto gretter vngodlynes, and their wordes shall fret even as doth a cancre. of whose nombre ys hymeneos, and Philetos, which as concernynge the trueth have erred, sayinge that the resurreccion is past all redy, and do destroye the fayth ¹⁷ of divers persones.

But the ¹⁸ sure grounde of god remayneth, and hath this seale : the lorde knoweth them that are his, and let every man that calleth on the name of Christ, departe from iniquitie. Notwithstondynge in a grete housse are not only vesselles off golde and of silver: but also of wood and of erthe: Some for honoure, and some vnto dishonoure. THAT which was from the begynnyng¹ [declare we vnto you] which we have herde which we have sene with oure eyes/ which we have loked apon/ and oure hondes have handled/ of the worde of lyfe. The seconde Chapter.

MY lytell children, these thinges write I vnto you, that ye shulde not sinne: and yf eny man synne, yet we have an advocate with the father, Jesus Christ, ² which is righteous: and he ³itt is that obteyneth grace for oure synnes: not for oure sinnes only: but also for the sinnes of all the worlde. And herby we knowe that we have knownen him, yf we kepe his commaundementes. He that sayth I knowe hym, and kepereth nott his commaundementes is a lyar, and the veritie is not in him. Whosoever kepereth his worde, in hym is the love of god parfet in dede. And ⁴therin knowe we that we are in hym. He that sayth he ⁵bydeth in hym, ought to walke even as he walked.

Brethren I write no newe commaundement vnto you: but that olde commaundement which ye herde from the begynnyng. The olde commaundement is the worde which ye herde from the begynnynge. Agayne a newe commaundement I write vnto you, a thynge that is true in hym, and also in you: for the darknes is past, and the true lyght nowe shyneth. He that sayth howe that he is in the true lyght, and yet hateth his brother, is in darcknes even vntyll this tyme. He that loveth his brother, abydeth in the light, and there is none occasion of evyll in him. He that hateth his brother is in darknes, and walketh in darknes: and ⁶cannot tell whither he goeth, be cause thatt darknes hath blynded his eyes.

For all that is in the worlde (as the lust of the fleshe, the lust of the eyes, and the pryde¹⁰ of gooddes) is not of the father: butt of the worlde. And the worlde¹¹ vanyssheth awaye, and the lust ther of: butt he that fulfilleth the will of god, abydeth ever.

They went oute from vs but they were nott of vs. For yf they had bene of vs, they wolde no dout have continued with vs. But that fortuned that ytt myght apere, that they were not¹² of vs.

And ye have an oyntment¹³ of the holy gost, and ye knowe all thinges. Whosoever denyeth the sonne, the same hath not the father.¹⁵ Let therfore abyde in you that same which ye herde from the begynnyng. Yf that which ye herde from the begynnyng shall remayne in you, ye also shall continewe in the sonne, and in the father. And this is the promes that he hath promysed vs, even eternall lyfe.

This have I written vnto you, as concernynge them that disceave you. And the anoyntyng which ye have receaved of hym dwelleth in you. And ye nede not that eny man teache you: but as that anoyntyng teacheth you all thinges, and is true, and is no lye: and as it taught you,¹⁶ even so byde therein. The iii. Chapter.

BEHOLDE what love the father hath shewed on vs/ that we shulde be called the sonnes of god. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not be cause it hath not knownen him. Derely beloved/ nowe are we the sonnes of god/ and yet it hath not apere what we shalbe. but we knowe that when ¹ it shall apere/ we shalbe lyke hym. For we shall se hym as he is. And every man that hath thys hope in hym/ pourgeth hym silfe/ even as he ys pure. Whosoever committeth synne/² committeth vnrightewesnes also/ and synne is vnrightewesnes. and ye knowe that he apere to take awaye oure synnes/ and in him is no synne. As many as byde in him/ synne not: whosoever synneth hath not sene hym/ nether hath knownen him.

Babes let no man deceave you/ He that doeth rightewesnes is righteous/ even as he is righteous. He that committeth sinne is of the devill: for the devyll synneth sence the begynninge. For this purpose apere the sonne of god/ to lowse the workes of the devill. Whosoever is borne of god/ sinneth not: for his seede remayneth in hym/ and he cannot sinne/ be cause he is borne of god. In this are the children of god knownen/ and the children of the devill. Whosoever doeth not rightewesnes/ is not of god/ nether he that loveth not his brother.

For this is the tydinges/ that ye herde from the begynnynge/ that ye shulde love one another: not as Cayn which was of the wicked and slewe hys brother. And wherfore slewe he him? be cause hys awne workes were evyll/ and his brothers goode. Marveyle nott my brethren yff the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated from deeth vnto lyfe/ be cause we love the brothren. He that loveth not his brother/ abydeth in deeth. Whosoever hateth his brother/ is a man slear. And ye knowe thatt no man slear/ hath eternall lyfe abydyng in hym.

Hereby perceave we love: for he gave his lyfe for vs: And we ought also to geve oure lives for our brethren. Who soever hath this worldes goode and seyth his brother ³ in necessitie/ and shetteth vppe ⁴ his compassion from him: howe dwelleth the love of god in him? My babes/ let us not love in worde/ nether in tonge: but with dede/ and in veritie. And herby we knowe that we are off the veritie/ and ⁵ will before hym put oure hertes out of dout: For (yff oure hertes condempne vs) god is gretter then oure hertes/ and knoweth all thinges. ⁶ Tenderly beloved/ yff oure hertes condempne vs not/ then have we ⁷ trust to god warde: and whatsoever we axe/ we shall receave of hym: be cause we kepe his commaundements/ and do those thynges which are pleasyng in his sight.

And this is his commaundement/ that we beleve on the name of his sonne Jesus Christ/ and love one another/ as he gave commaundment. And he that kepeth hys commaundementes dwelleth in him/ and he in him/ And herby we knowe that ⁸ there abydeth in vs of the sprete which he gave vs.

The iiiij. Chapter.

DEREPLY beloved beleve not every sprete: but ¹ prove the spretes whether they are of god/ ²[or no :] for many falce prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Herby shall ye knowe the sprete off god. Every sprete that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesshe/ is off god. And every sprete which confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesshe/ is not off god. And this is that sprete of Antichrist/ of whom ye have herde/ howe that he shulde come: and even nowe alredy is he in the worlde.

Lytell children/ ye are of god/ and have overcome them: for gretter is he that is in you/ then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde/ therfore speake they of the worlde/ and the worlde heareth them. We are of god. He that knoweth god heareth vs: He that is nott off God/ heareth vs not. Herby knowe we the sprete of veritie/ and the sprete of errore.

Dereley beloved/ lett vs love one another: for love commeth of god. And every one that loveth is borne of god/ and knoweth god. He that loveth nott/ hath not knownen god: for god is love. In this apered the love of god to vs ward/ because that god sent his only begotten sonne into the worlde/ that we myght live thorowe him. Herin is love/ not that we loved god, but that he loved vs, and sent his sonne to ³ make agreement for oure sinnes.

Dereley beloved yf god so loved vs, we ought also to love one another. no man hath sene god at eny tyme. Yf we love one another, god dwelleth in vs, and his love is parfet in vs. Herby knowe we, that we dwell in hym, and he in vs. be cause he hath geven vs of his sprete. And we have sene and do testifie that the father sent the sonne, ⁴ which is the saveour of the worlde. Whosoever confesseth that Jesus is the sonne of god, in hym dwelleth god, and he in god. And we have knownen and beleved the love that god hath to vs.

God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in god, and god in hym. Herin is the love parfet in vs, thatt we shulde have trust in the daye of iudgement, ⁵ that as he is, even so are we in this worlde. There is no feare in love, but parfet love casteth out all feare, for feare hath paynfulnes. He that feareth is not parfet in love.

We love hym, for he loved vs fyrst. Yf a man saye, I love god, and yet hateth his brother, he is a lyar. Howe can he that loveth nott his brother whom he hath sene, love god whom he hath not sene? And this commaundement have we of hym: that he which loveth God, shulde love his brother also.

The v. Chapter.

WHOSOEVER belevest that Jesus is Christ, is borne of god, and every one that loveth hym which begat, loveth him also which was begotten of him. In this we knowe that we love the children of god, when we love god, and kepe his commaundements. This is the love of god, that we kepe his commaundementes, and his commaundementes are not greveous. For all that is borne of god, over commeth the worlde, and this is the victory that over commeth the worlde, even oure faythe. who is it that over commeth the world: but he which belevest that Jesus is the sonne of god?

This Jesus Christ is he that cam by water and bloud, not by water only: but by water and bloud. And it is the sprete that beareth witnes, be cause the sprete ys trueth. ¹ For there are thre whych beare recorde in heven/ the father/ the worde/ and the wholy goost. And these thre are one. And there are thre which beare recorde in erth: the sprete/ and water/ and blood:² and these thre ³are one. Yf we receave the witnes of men/ the witnes of god is gretter. For this is the witnes of god,⁴ which he testifyed of his sonne. He that belevest on the sonne of god hath the witnes in hym silfe. He that belevest nott God/ hath made hym a lyare/ be cause he beleved nott the recorde that god ⁵gave of his sonne. And this ys that recorde/ howe that god hath geven vnto vs eternall lyfe/ and this lyfe is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne/ hath lyfe: and he that hath not the sonne of god/ hath not lyfe.

These thynges have I written vnto you that beleve on the name of the sonne off God/ that ye maye knowe howe that ye have eternall lyfe/ and that ye maye beleve on the name of the sonne off god. And this is the ⁶trust that we have in hym: that yf we axe eny thynge accordynge to his will he heareth vs. And yff we knowe that he heare vs whatt soever we axe/ we knowe that we shall have the peticions that we desyred of hym.

Yff eny man se his brother synne a synne that is not vnto deeth/ let hym axe/ and he shall geve hym lyfe for them that synne not vnto deeth. There is a synne vnto deeth/ for which saye I not that ⁷a man shulde praye. All vnrightewesnes is synne/ and there is a synne not vnto deeth.

We knowe that whosoever is borne of God/ synneth not: but he that is begotten of god kepeth hym silfe/ and that wicked toucheth hym not. We knowe that we are of god/ and that ⁸the worlde is altogedder set on wickednes. We knowe that the sonne of God is come/ and hath geven vs a mynde to knowe hym which is true: and we are in hym that is true,⁹ through his sonne Jesu Christ. ¹ Dereley beloved thou doest faythfully whatt soever thou doest to the brethren/ and to straungers/ which bare witnes off thy love before all the congregacion. ³ Which brethren when thou bryngest forwardes on their iorney (⁴ as it besemet God) thou shalt do wele: be cause that for his names sake they went forth/ and toke no thyng off the gentyls. Not only he hym silfe receaveth not the brethren : but also he forbiddeth them thatt wolde/ and thrusteth them out off the congregacion.

The fyrist Chapter.

GOD ¹ in tyme past diversly and many wayes/ spake vnto the fathers by prophetes: but in these last dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his sonne/ whom he hath made heyre of all thynges: by whom also he made the world. which sonne beyng the brightnes of his glory/ and ²very ymage off his substance/ ³bearynge vppe all thynges ⁴with the worde of his power/ hath ⁵in his awne person pourged oure synnes/ and is sytten on the right honde of the maiestie ⁶an hye/ and is more excellent then the angels/ in as moche as he hath ⁷[by inheritaunce] obteyned an excellenter name than have they.

For vnto which of the angels sayde he at eny time : Thou arte my sonne/ this daye begate I the? And agayne : I will be his father/ and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne when he bryngeth in the fyrist begotten sonne in the worlde/ he sayth : And ⁸all the angels of god shall worshippe hym. And ⁹vnto the angels he sayth : He maketh ¹⁰his angels spretes/ and his ministers flammes of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth : ¹¹God thy seate shalbe for ever/ and ever. The cepter of thy kyngdom is a ¹²right cepter/ Thou hast loved righbewesnes and hated iniquitie: Wherfore hath god/ ¹³which is thy god/ anoynted the with the oyle off gladnes above thy felowes.

The ij. Chapter.

WHHERFORE we ought ¹ moche more to attende vnto tho thynges which we have herde, lest ² we be spilt. For yff the worde which was spoken by angels was stedfast: and every transgression and disobedience receaved a iust recompence ³ to rewarde: howe shall we escape yf we ⁴ despise so great helth? which at the fyrist began to be preached off the lorde hym silfe, and after warde was confermed vnto vs warde, by them that herde it, god bearynge witnes there to, bothe with sygnes and wonders also, and with divers miracles, and gyftes off the holy gooste, accordyng to his awne will.

He hath not vnto the angels ⁵ put in subieccion the worlde to come, where of we speake: but one in a certayne place witnessed, sayinge: What is man, that thou arte myndfull of hym: other the sonne of man, that thou ⁶ visitest hym? ⁷ After thou haddest for a season made hym lower then the angels: thou crounedst hym with honour and glory, and hast set hym above the workes off thy hondes. Thou hast put all thynges in subieccion vnder his fete. In that he put all thynges vnder hym, he left nothyng that is not put vnder him. Neverthelesse we yet se nott all thynges subdued vnto hym but ⁸ that Jesus which for a season was made lesse then the angels, we se thorowe the ⁹ punnyshment of deeth crouned with glory and honour/ that he by the grace of god/ shulde tast of deeth for all men.

For hit becam hym/ for whom are all thynges/ and by whom are all thynges/ ¹⁰ after that he had brought many sonnes vnto glory/ that he shulde ¹¹ make the lorde of their helth ¹² [parset] thorowe afflictions: For as moche as he which sanctifieth/ and they which are sanctified/ are all off won. For which causes sake/ he is not a shamed to call them brethren sayinge: I will declare thy name vnto my brethren/ in the myddes off the congregacion will I prayse the. And agayne: I will put my trust in hym. And agayne: beholde here am I and the children which god hath geven me.

For as moche then as the children were parte takers of fleshe and bloud/ he also hym silfe lyke wyse toke parte with them/ ¹³ forto put doun thorowe deeth hym that had lordshippe over deeth that is to saye the devyll. And that he myght delyver them which thorowe feare of deeth all their lyfe tyme were in daunger of bondage. For he ¹⁴ in no place taketh on hym the angels: but the sede of Abraham taketh he on hym. Consyder ² what a man this was/ vnto whom the patriarche Abraham gave tythes off the spoyles. And verely those children off levy/ which receave the office of the prestes/ have a commaundement to take a cordynge to the lawe/ tythes of the people/ that is to saye/ of their brethren/ yee though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kynred is not counted amone them/ receaved tythes of Abraham/ and blessed him that had the promyses. and ³ no man deniyeth but that which is lesse/ receaveth blessinge of that which is gretter. And amonge them many were made prestes/ be cause they were not suffred to endure by the reason of deeth. Butt this man/ be cause he endureth ever/ hath an everlastinge prest-hod: Wherfore he is able also ¹⁴ ever to save them that come vnto God by hym/ seynge he ever liveth/ to make interces-sion for vs.

Which nedeth not dayly (as ¹⁵ yonder hie prestes) to offer vppe sacrifice/ fyrst for his awne synnes/ and then for the peoples synnes. ⁷ Nowe hath he obtayned a more excellent office/ in as moche as he is the mediator off a better testament/ which was ⁸ made for better promyses. For yff that fyrist testament had bene ⁹ soche a won that no man coulde have founde fault with it: then shulde no place have bene sought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them he sayth: Beholde the dayes will come (sayth the lorde) ¹⁰ and I will fynnishe apon the housse off Israhell/ and apon the housse off Juda/ a newe testament/ not lyke the testament that I made with their fathers/ at that tyme/ when I toke them by the hondes/ to ledde them out off the londe off Egipte/ for they continued nott in my testament/ and I regarded them not sayth the lorde.

For this is the testament that I will make for the housse off Israhell: Affter those dayes (sayth the lorde) I will put my lawes in their myndes/ and in their hertes/ I will wryte them/ and I wilbe their God/ and they shalbe my people. And they shall not teache/ every man his neghhoure/ and every man his brother/ sayinge: knowe the lorde: For they shall a knowe me/ from the ¹¹ lest to the moste off them: For I wilbe mercifull over their iniquities: and ¹² on their synnes and on their vnrightewesnes/ will I not thynke eny more. In that he sayth a newe testament/ he ¹³ hath abrogat the olde. Nowe that which is disanulled and waxed olde/ is redy to vannysse a waye.

in the seconde vayle was the tabernacle/ which is called holiest off all/ which had the golden senser/ and the arcke off the testament overlayde round about with golde/ wherin was the golden pot with manna/ and Aarons rodde that ⁵spronge/ and the tables off the testament. Over the arcke were the ⁶cherubyns off glory shadowyng ⁷the seate off grace. Off which thynge^s we woll nott nowe speake perticularly.

When these thynge^s were thus ordeyned/ the prestes went all wayes into the fyrst tabernacle ⁸which excuted the service ⁹[of god :] In to the secounnde went in the hye prest alone/ once every yeare: but not with out bloud/ which he offered for hym silfe/ and for the ignoraunce of the people : The holy goost this signifyinge/ that the waye ¹⁰off holy thynge^s was not yet openned/ whill as yet the fyrst tabernacle was stondynge/ which was ¹¹a similitude off this present tyme/ in which gyftes and sacrificises are offered/ which ¹²cannot make them that minister parfect/ as pertaynyng to the conscience/ ¹³with meates only and drinke^s/ and diverse wesshynges/ and ¹⁴iustifynges/ off the fleshe/ [which were ¹⁵ordeyned] vntyll the tyme off reformacion.

And for this cause is he the mediator off the newe testament/ that ²¹ as sone (as his deeth was fulfilled for the redempcion of those transgressions that were in the fyrst testament) they which were called/ myght receave the promes off eternall inheritaunce. For wheresoever is a testament/ there must also be the deeth of hym that maketh the testament. For the testament ²² taketh auctoritie when men are deed : For it is of no value as longe as he that made it is a live. For which cause also/ nether that fyrst testament was ²³ ordeyned with out bloud. For when ²⁴ all the commaundementes were redde of Moses vnto all the people/ he toke the bloud of calves/ and of Gotes/ whith water and purple woll and ysope/ and sprynkled both the boke and all the people/ sayinge this is the bloud off the testament/ which God hath apoynted vnto you. Moreover/ he sprenkled the tabernacle with bloud also/ and all the ²⁵ ministrynge vessels. And almost all thynges/ accordyngē to the lawe/ ar ²⁶ clesned with bloud/ and with out ²⁷ effusion of bloud/ is no remission.

Hit is then nede that the ²⁸ similitudes of hevenly thynges/ be purifid with soche thynges : but the hevenly thynges them selves are purifid with better sacrifices then are these. For Christ is not entred into the holy places/ that are made wit hondes/ which are but ²⁸ similitudes off ²⁹ true thynges : but is entred into ³⁰ very heven/ for to apere nowe in the syght of God for vs. Not to offer hym silfe often/ as the hye prest entreth in to the holy place every yeare with ³¹ straunge bloud : for then must he have often suffered sence the ³² worlde began : Butt nowe in the ende off the worlde/ hath he apered once for all/ to put synne ³³ to flyght/ by the offerynge vppe off hym silfe. FOR the lawe which hath but the shadewe of goode thynges to come/ and not ¹ the thynges in their owne fassion/ can never with the sacryfises whiche they offer yeare by yeare continually ² make the commers there vnto parfayte. For wolde not then those sacrificises have ceased to have been offered? be cause that the offerers once pourged/ shulde have hadde no moare consciences of sinnes. Neverthelesse in thos sacrificises is there ³ mencion made of synnes every yeare. For it is vnpossible that the bloud of ⁴ oxen/ and off gotes shulde take awaye synnes.

Wherfore when he commeth into the world/ he sayth : Sacrifice and offeringe thou woldest not have : but a bodie hast thou ordeyned me/ ⁵ holocaustes and sacrifice for synne thou hast not alowed. Then I sayde : Lo I come/ In the begynnyng off the boke is it written of me/ that I shulde fulfill thy will/ o god. Above when he sayth sacrifice/ and offerynge/ and ⁶ holocaustes/ and sacrifice for synne/ thou woldest not have/ nether ⁷ hast alowed (which are offered by the lawe) then he sayde : Lo ⁸ I am redy to do thy will o god he taketh awaye the fyrist to stablisse ⁹ the latter By the which will we are sanctified/ by the offerynge of the body of Jesu Christe ¹⁰ once for all.

¹⁶ Seynge brethren that by the meanes off the bloud of Jesus, we ¹⁷ maye be bolde to enter into that holy place, by the newe and livynge waye, which he hath prepared for vs, through the vayle, that is to saye by his flesshe. And seyng also that we have an hye prest ¹⁸ which [is?] ruler over the housse of god, let vs drawe nye with a true herte in ¹⁹ a full sayth sprynckled in oure hertes, ²⁰ from an evyll conscience, and wesshed in oure bodies with pure water, and let vs ²¹ kepe the profession of oure hope, with oute waeringe (for he is faythfull that promysed) and let vs consyder one another to provoke vnto love, and to good workes: and lett vs not forsake ²² the felishippe thatt we have a monge oure selves, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhorte one another, and that so moche the moare, be cause ye se ²³ that the daye draweth nye.

For yff we synne willyngly after that we have receaved the knowledge off the trueth, there remayneth no more sacrifice for synnes: but a fearfull lokynge for iudgement, and violent fyre, which shall devoure the adversaries. He that despiseth Moses lawe, dyeth without mercy vnder two or thre witnessesse. Off howe moche sorer punnyshment suppose ye shall he be counted worthy, which treadeth vnder fote the sonne of god: and counteth the bloud off the testament as an unholy thyng, werwith he was sanctified, and doth ²⁴ dishonoure to the sprete off grace. Happy is the man that endureth in temptation, for when he is tryed he shall receave the croune of lyfe, which the lorde hath¹⁴ prepared for them that love hym.

Let no man saye when he is tempted that he is tempted of god: for god¹⁵ tempteth not vnto evyll: he tempteth no man: But every man is tempted¹⁶ drawne a waye,¹⁷ and entysed of his awne concupiscence. Then when lust hath conceaved, she bryngeth forth synne, and synne when it is fynnisshed bryngeth forthe deeth.

Erre not my deare brethren. Every good¹⁸ gyfte, and every parfaite gyft, is from above and commeth doun from the father off light, with whom is no variablenes, nether¹⁹ is he chaunged vnto darkness. Wherfore deare brethren, let every man be swyfste to heare, slowe to speake, and slowe to wrathe. For the wrathe off man²² worketh not that which is righteous before God.

Wherfore laye a parte all filthynes, all superfluitie off²³ maliciousnes, and receive with meknes the worde that is grafted in you, which is able to save youre soules: And se that ye be doares of the worde and not heares only, deceavinge youre owne selves. BRETHREN ¹ have not the fayth of oure lorde Jesus Christ ²the lorde off glory in respecte off persons. Yff there come into youre company a man with a golden ryng/ and in goodly aparrell and there come in also a poore man in vyle rayment/ and ye have a respect to hym that weareth the gaye clothynge and saye vnto hym: Sit thou here in a goode place: and saye vnto the povre/ stonde thou there/ or sit here vnder my fote stole: are ye not even parciall in youre selves/ and ³have iudged after evyll thoughtes?

Harken my deare beloved brethren/ hath not God chosen the povre off this worlde/ ⁴which are ryche in fayth/ and heyres off the kyngdom/ which he promysed to them that love hym? But ye have despised the povre. ⁵Are not the ryche they which oppresse you: and they which drawe you before iudges? Do not they ⁶speake evyll of that good name that is called on over you?

If ye fulfill the roiall lawe accordynge to the scripture which sayth: Thou shalt love thyne neghbour as thy silfe/ ye do wele: but if ye regarde ⁷one person more than another/ ye commit synne/ and are rebuked off the lawe as transgresours. Whosoever shall kepe the whole lawe/ and yet fayle in one poynt/ he is gyltie in all. For the that sayde: Thou shalt not commit ⁸fornicacion/ sayde also: thou shalt not kyll. Though thou shallt do no ⁸fornicacion/ yet yff thou kill/ thou arte a transgressor off the lawe. So speake ye/ and so do as they treq shalbe iudged by the lawe off libertie. Wilt thou vnderstonde o thou vayne man/ that fayth with out dedes is deed? Was not Abraham oure father iustifyed off his dedes when he offered Ysaac his sonne apon the aultre? ¹⁵ Thou seyst howe that fayth wrought in his dedes/ and through the dedes was the fayth made parset. And the scripture was fulfilled which sayth: Abraham beleved god/ and it was ¹⁶ reputed vnto hym for rightewesnes: and he was calld the frende off God. Ye se then howe that off dedes a man is iustifyed/ and nott off fayth only. Lyke wise also was nott Raab the harlot iustifyed ¹⁷ when she receaved the messengers/ and sent them out a nother waye? For as the body/ with out the sprete is deed/ even so fayth with out dedes is deed.

The fyrst Chapter.

THE revelacion of Jesus Christ, which god gave vnto him, forto shewe vnto his seruautes thynges which must shortly ¹ come to passe. And he sent and shewed by hys angell vnto hys seruaunt Jhon, whych bare recorde off the worde off god, and off the testimony off Jesus Christe, and of all thynges that he sawe. Happy is he that redith, and they that heare the wordes of the prophesy, and kepe thoo thynges which are written therin. For the tyme is at honde.

Jhon to the viij. congregacions in Asya. Grace be with you and peace, from hym which is, and which was, and which is to come: and from the viij. spretes which are present before his trone, and from Jesus Christ which is a faythfull witnes, and fyrst begotten of the deed: and ² lorde over the kynges of the erth. Vnto hym that loved vs and wesshed vs from oure synnes in his awne bloud, and made vs kynges and prestes vnto god his father, be glory, and dominion, for ever more amen. Beholde he commeth with cloudes, and all eyes shall se hym: ³ and they also which peersed him. And all kynredes of the erth shall wayle. ⁴ even so amen. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnynge and the endinge, sayth the lorde almyghty, which is and which was and which is to come.

Jhon youre brother and companyon in tribulacion, and in the kyngdom and pacience which is in Jesu Christe, was in the yle of Pathmos for the worde of god, and for the witnes-synge of Jesu Christe. I was ⁵ in the sprete on ⁶ a sondaye, and herde behynde me/ a gret voyce/ as itt had bene of a trompe sayinge: I am Alpha and Omega/ the fyrst and the last. That thou seiste write in a boke/ and sende hit vnto the congregacions which are in Asia/ vnto Ephesus/ and vnto Smyrna/ and vnto Pargamos/ and vnto Thiatira/ and vnto Sardis/ and vnto Philadelphia/ and vnto Laodicia.

And I turned bake to se the voice that spake to me. And when I was turned : I sawe vij. golden candelstyckes/ and in the myddes of the candelstyckes/ one lyke vnto the sonne of man clothed with a lynnern garment doun to the ground/ and gyrded aboute the pappes with a golden gyrdle. His heede/ and his heares were whyte/ as whyte woll/ and as snowe : and his eyes were as a flame of fyre : and his fete lyke vnto ⁷ brasse/ as though they brent in a fvrnace: and his voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had in his right honde vij. starres. And out of his moughth went a twoo edged swarde. And his face shone even as the sunne in his strengthe.

And when I sawe hym/ I fell at his fete/ even as deed. And he layde hys ryght honde apon me/ sayinge vnto me : feare not. I am the fyrst/ and the laste/ and am a lyve/ and was deed. And beholde I am a lyve for ever more/ and have the kayes off hell and off deeth. Let hym that hath earys heare what the sprete sayth vnto the congregacions.

And wryte vnto the angell off Philadelphia: This sayth he that is holy and true, which hath the kaye off David: which openyth and noman shutteth, and shutteth and no man openeth. I knowe thy workes. Beholde I have set before the an open doore, and no man can shutt hit, for thou haste a lyttell strengthe, and haste kepe my saynges: and haste not denied my name. Beholde. The l*iv*. Chapter.

AFTER this I loked/ and beholde a dore was opene in heven/ and the fyrste voyce which I harde/ was as hit were of a trumpet talkinge with me/ which said: come vppe hydder/ and I will shewe the thynges which muste be fulfyllyd here after. And immediatly I was in the sprete. and beholde/ a seate was put in heven and won sat on the seate. And he that sat was to loke apon lyke vnto a iaspar stone/ and a sardyne stone: And there was a rayne boll abouthe the seate/ ¹ to loke apon/ lykevnto an emeralde. And abouthe the seate were xxiiij. seates. And Isawe on the seates .xxiiij. seniours syttinge clothed in whyterayment/ and had on their heddes crounes of gold.

And out of the seate proceded lightnynges/ and thoun-drynges/ and voices: and there were viij. lampes off fyre/ byrninge before the seate/ which are the viij. sprettes off God. And before the seate there was a see off glasse/ lyke vnto cris-tall/ and in the myddes of the seate/ and rounde abouthe the seate/ wer iiij. biestes full off eyes before and behynde. And the fyrste biest was lyke a lion/ the seconde biest lyke a caulf/ and the thyrde bieste had a face as a man/ and the fourthe bieste was lyke a flyinge egle. And the iiij. biestes had eche one of them vj. wynges abouthe hym/ and they were full off eyes within. And they ²had noo reste daye nether nyght sayinge: holy/ holy/ holy/ lorde god almyghty/ which was/ and is/ and is to come.

And when these beestes gave glory and honour and thankes to hym that sat on the seate/ which levith ³ ever more/ the xxiiij. seniours fell doune before the trone/ before hym that sat on the trone/ and worshipped hym thatt levith ³ ever/and caste their crounes before the trone sayinge : thou arte worthy lorde to receave glory/ and honoure/ and power/ for thou haste created all thinges/ and for thy ⁴ wyllis sake they are/ and were created.

The v. Chapter.

AND I sawe in the right honde of hym/ that sat in the trone/ a boke written with in and on the backside/ sealyd with viij. seales. And I sawe a stronge angell which ¹cryed with a loude voyce : Who is worthy to open the boke/ and to loose the seales ther off. And no man in hevyn ner in erth/ nether vnder the erth/ was able to open the boke/ nether to loke thereon. And I wepte moche/ be cause no man was founde worthy to open/ and to rede the boke/ nether to loke thereon.

And one of the seniours sayde vnto me : wepe not : Beholde ²a lion beinge off the tribe of Juda/ the rott off Dauid/ hath obtayned to open the boke/ and to lose the viij. seales theroff. And I behelde/ and loo/ in the myddes of the seate/ and off the iiij. biestes/ and in the myddes off the seniours/ stode a lambe as though he had bene kylled/ which had viij. hornes and viij. eyes/ which are the sprettes off God/ sent into all the worlde. And he cam and toke the boke ute off the right honde of hym that sate apon the seate.

And when he had taken the boke/ the iiij. bestes and xxiiij. seniours fell doun before the lambe/ havyng harpes and golden vialles full off odoures/ which are the prayers off saynctes and they songe a newe songe saynge : thou art worthy to take the boke and to open the seales thereof/ for thou waste kylled and haste redemed vs ³by thy bloud/ out off all kynreddes/ and tonges/ and people/ and nacions/ and haste made vs vnto oure god/ kynges and prestes and we shall raygne on the erth.

And I behelde/ and I herd the voyce off many angylles about the trone/ and about the biestes and the seniours/ and I herde thousand thousandes/ saynge with a lowde voyce : Worthy is the lambe that was killed to receave power/ and riches and wisdom/ and strengthe/ and honour and glory/ and ⁴blyssyng. And all creatures/ which are in heven/ and on the erth/ and vnder the erth/ and in the see/ and all that are in them herd I saynge: blyssinge, honour, glory, and power, be vnto hym, that sytteth apon the seate, and vnto the lambe for ever more. And the .iiij. biestes sayd: amen. And the xxiiij. seniours ⁵ fell apon their faces, and worshypped hym that lyveth for ever more.

The vi. Chapter.

AND I sawe when the lambe openyd one of the seales, and herde one of the .iiij. biestes saye, as hit wer the noyse off thonder, come and se. And I sawe, and beholde there was a whyte horsse, and he that sat on hym had a bowe, and a croune was geven vnto hym, and he went forth conqueringe and forto overcome. And when he opened the seconde seale, I herde the seconde bieste saye: come and se. And there went out another horsse that was red, and power was geven to hym that satte there on, to take peace from the erth, and that they shulde kyll one another. and there was geven vnto hym a gret swearde.

And when he opened the thyrde seale, I herde the thyrde bieste saye: come and se. And I behelde, and loo, a blacke hors: and he that sate on hym, had a payre of balances in his honde. And I herde a voyce in the myddes off the .iiij. bestes saye: a measure of whete for a peny, and .ij. measures of barly for a peny: and oyle and wyne se thou hurte not.

And when he opened the fourthe seale, I herde the voyce of the fourthe beste saye: come and se. And I loked, and beholde ¹a grene horsse, and his name that satt on hym was deeth, and hell folowed after hym, and power was geven vnto them over the fourthe parte off the erthe, to kyll with swearde, and with honger, and with deeth, ² that cometh of vermen of the erth.

And when he opened the fyfte seale: I sawe vnder the autre, the soules of them that were kylled for the worde of God, and for the testymony which they ³had, and they cryed with a lawde voyce sayinge: Howe longe ⁴tariest thou lorde holy and true, to iudge and to avenge oure bloud on them that dwell on the erth? And longe whyte ⁵garmentes were geven vnto every one off them. And hit was sayde vnto them that they shulde reste for a lyttle season vnyll⁶ the nomber off their felowes/ and brethren/ and of them that shulde be kylled as they were/ were fulfylled.

And I behelde when he opened the sixte seale/ and loo there was a grett erthquake/ and the sunne was as black as sacke clothe made of heare. and the mone waxed even as bloud. and the starres of heven fell vnto the erth/ even as a fygge tree castith⁷ from her fygges/ when she is shaken off a myghty wynde. And heven⁸ vanysshed awaye/ as a scroll when hit is rolled togedder. And all mountayns and yles/ were moved oute of their places. And the kynges of the erth/ and the grett men/ and the ryche men/ and the chefe captaynes/ and the myghty men/ and every bond man/ and every free man/ hyd themselves in dennes/ and in rocks off the⁹ hylles/ and sayd to the⁹ hylles/ and rockes: fall on vs/ and hyde us from the presence off hym that sytteth on the seate/ and from the wrath of the lambe/ for the grete daye off his wrath ys come/ And whoo can¹⁰ endure hit.

The viij. Chapter.

AND after that I sawe iiiij. angels stonde on the iiiij. corners of the erth/ holdynge the iiiij. wyndes off the erth/ that the wyndes shulde nott blowe on the erthe/ nether on the see/ nether on the see/ nether on eny tree. And I sawe another angell¹ ascende from the rysyne of the sunne/ which had the seale off the lyvynge god/ and he cryed with a loude voyce to the iiiij. angelles (to whom power was geven to hurt the erth and the see) sayinge: Hurt not the erth nether the see/ nether the trues/ tyll I have sealed the servauntes of oure god in their forheads.

And I herde the nombre of them which were sealed/ and there were sealed c. and xlivij. m. of all the trybes of the chylidren of Israhell. Of the trybe of Juda were sealed xij. m. After this I behelde/ and lo a gret multitude (which noman culde nombre) off all nacions/ ²and people/ and tonge/ stode before the seate/ and before the lambe/ clothed with longe whyte garmentes/ and palmes in there hondes/ and cryed with a lowde voyce/ saynge: ³Helth be to hym that sittith upon the seate of oure god/ and vnto the lambe. And all the angelles stode ⁴in the compace of the seate/ and off the seniours/ and off the iiiij. bestes/ and fel before the seat on their faces/ and worshipped god/ sayinge/ amen: Blessynge and glory/ wisdom and thankes/ and honour/ and power and myght/ be vnto oure god/ for evermore amen.

And one off the seniours answered/ sayinge unto me: what are these which are arayed in longe whyte garmentes/ and whence cam they? And I sayde vnto hym: lorde thou wottest. And he sayde unto me: these are they which cam oute off gret tribulacion and ⁵made their garmentes large and made them whyte in the bloud of the lambe: therfore are they in the presence off the seate off God and serve hym daye and nyght in hys temple/ and he that sitteth in the seate wyll dwell amonge them. And the viij. angelles which had the viij. trompettes prepared them selves to blowe. And the thyrde angell blewe/ and ther fell a grett starre from heven burnyng as hit wer ⁷ a lampe/ and hit fell into the thyrde parte off the ryvers/ and into fountaynes of waters/ and the name of the starre is called wormwood. And the thyrde parte ⁴ was turned to wormwood. And many dyed off the waters be cause they were made bytter. And the fourthe angell blew/ and the thyrde part of the sunne was smytten and the thyrde parte off the mone/ and the thyrde part off starres : so that the thyrde parte of them was derckened. And the daye was smytten that the thyrde part of hit shulde not shyne/ and lyke wyse the nyght. And I behelde and herd an angell flyinge thorowe the myddes of heven/ sayinge with a lowde voyce : Woo/ Woo/ to the inhabiters off the erth because of the ⁸ voyces to come of the trompe of the iij. angels which were yet to blowe.

AND the fyfte angell blewe/ and I sawe a starre fall from heven vnto the erth. And to him was geven the kaye of the bottomlesse pytt/ And he opened the botomlesse pytt/ and there arose the smoke of ¹a grett fornace. And the ⁴similitude off the locustes was lyke vnto horses prepared vnto battayll/ and on their heddes were as hit were crownes/ lyke vnto golde. and their faces were as hit had bene the faces of men. And they had heares as the heares of wemen. And their tethe were as the tethe off lyons. And they had habbergions/ as hit were habbergions off yeron. And the sounde off their wynges was as the sounde of charettes when many horsses runne togedder to battayle. And they had tayles lyke vnto scorpions/ and there were stynges in their tayles. And their power was to hurt men v. monethes. And the iiiij. angelles were loosed which wer prepared ⁷ for an houre/ for a daye/ for a moneth/ and for a yeare/ for to slee the thyrde part off men. And the nombre of horsmen of warre/ were twenty tymes x m. And I herde the nombre of them. And thus I sawe the horses in a vision and them that sate on them/ havynge fyry habbergions of a ⁸Jacynct coloure/ and brymstony. and the heeddes of the horses were as the heeddes of lyons. And out of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke and brymstone. For their power was in their mouthes and in their tayles : for their tayles were lyke unto serpentes/ and had hedges/ and with them they dyd hurtt : And the remnaunt off the men which were not kyllled by these plages repented not of the dedes of their hondes/ that they shulde not worshyppe devyls/ and ymages/ off golde/ and sylver/ and brasse/ and stone/ and of woode/ which nether can se/ nether heare/ nether goo Also they repented not of their murther/ and of their sorcery nether of their fornicacion nether of their theste.

And the grett dragon/ thatt olde serpent called the devyll and Sathanas/ was cast out. which desceaveth all the worlde/ And he was cast into the erth/ and his angelles were cast out also.

And I harde a lowde voyce sayinge: in heven is nowe made helth and strengthe/ and the kyngdom of oure God/ and the power of his Christ: For ⁴ he is cast doun which accused them before god daye and nyght: And they overcam hym by the bloudde off the lambe/ and by the worde off their testimony/ and they loved not their lyves vnto the deeth. And the dragon gave hym hys power and his seate, and grett auctorite: and I sawe won off his heddes as hit were wonded to deth, and his dedly wonde was healed. And all the worlde wondred ² at the beest, and they worshipped the dragon, which gave power ynto the beest, and they worshipped the beest sayinge: who is lyke vnto the beeste? who is able to warre with hym?

And there was a mowth geven vnto hym that spake grett thynges, and blasphemys and power was geven vnto him, ³ to continue xlij. monethes. And he opened his mowth vnto blasphemy agaynste God, to blaspheme hys name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heven. And hit was geven vnto hym to make warre with the sayntes, and to overcome them. And power was geven hym over all kynred, tongue, and nacion: ⁴ and all that dwell apon the erth worshept hym: whose names are not written in the boke of lyfe off the lambe, which was kyllled from the begynnynge of the worlde. And I behelde another best commynege vpp oute off the erth, and he had two hornes lyke a lambe, and he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyrste beest coulde do ⁵ in his presence, and he caused the erth, and them whiche dwell therin, to worshippe the fyrst beest, whose dedly wonde was healed. The xiij. Chapter.

AND I loked, and loo a lambe stode on the mount Syon, and with hym c. and xlviij. thousands havyng his fathers name written in their forhedes. And I herde a voyce from heven, as the sounde off many waters, and as the voyce off a grett thoundre. And I herde the voyce off harpers harpyng with their harpes. And they songe as hit were a newe songe, before the seate, and before the foure beestes, and the seniours, and no man could learne that songe, but the hondred and xlviij m. which were ¹ redemed from the erth. These are they, which were not defyld with wemen, for they are virgyns. These folowe the lambe whither soever he goeth. These were ¹ redemed from men beyng the fyrste fructes vnto God and to the lambe, and in their mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are with outen spott before the trone off God.

And I sawe an angell flye in the myddes off heven havyng an everlastynge gospel, to preache vnto them ² that sytt and dwell on the erth, and to all nacions, kinreddes, and tonges, and people, sayinge with a lowde voyce: Feare God and geve honour to hym, for the houre off his iudgment is come: and worshyppe hym, thatt made heven and erth, and the see, and fountayns off water. And another angell cam oute off the temple/ which is in heven/ havynge also a sharppre sycle. And another angell cam oute from the aultre/ which had power over fyre/ and cryed with a lowde crye to hym that had the sharppre sycle/ and sayde : thrust in thy sharppre sycle/ and gaddrē the clustres ⁸ of the erth : for her grapes are rype. AND I herde a gret voyce out of the temple/ sayinge to the seven angels: goo youre wayes/ poure out youre vialles of ¹ wrath apon the erth. And the sixte angell poured ont his vyall upon the grett ryver Euphrates, and the water dried vppe, that the wayes off the kynges off the este shulde be prepared. And I sawe thre vnclene sprettes lyke frogges come out off the mouthe off the dragon, and out off the mouthe off the beeste, and out off the mouthe off the falce prophett. AND after that I sawe another angell come doun from heven/ havinge gret power/ and the erth was lyghtned with hys ¹ bryghtnes. AND after that I herde the voyce off moche people in heven sayinge: Alleluia. Helth and glory and honour/ and power be vnto oure lorde god/ for true and ryghteous are his iudgmentes/ for he hath iudged the grett whore/ which did corrupt the erth with her fornicacion/ and hath avenged the bloud of his servauntes¹ of her hond. And there cam vnto me one the viij. angels which had the viij. vyalls full of the viij. laste plages : and talked with me sayinge : come hydder I will shewe the the bryde/ the lambes wyfe. And he carued me awaye in the sprete to a grett and an hye mountayne/ and he shewed me the grett cite/ holy Jerusalem descendinge out off heven from God/ havynge the ⁴ brightnes off God. And her shynynge was lyke vnto a stone moste precious/ even a Jaspar cleare as cristall : and had walles grett and hye/ and had xij gattes/ and att the gattes xij angels : and names wrytten/ which are the xij trybes ⁵ of Israell : on the est parte iij gatis/ and on the north syd iij gates/ and to wardes the south iij gates/ and from the west iij gates : and the wall off the cite had xij foundacions/ and in them the names off the lambes .xij. The xij gattes were xij pearles/ every gate was of one pearle/ and the strete of the cite was pure golde/ as thorowe shynyne glasse. And ⁷there was no temple therin. To the Reder.

GEVE diligence Reder (I exhorte the) that thou come with a pure mynde/ and as the scripture sayth with a syngle eye/ vnto the wordes of health/ and of eternall lyfe : by the which (if we repent and beleve them) we are borne a newe/ created a fresshe/ and enioye the frutes off the blood of Christ. Whiche blood cryeth not for vengeance as the blood of Abel : but hath purchased/ lyfe/ love/ faveour/ grace/ blesynge/ and whatsoever is promysed in the scriptures/ to them that beleve and obeye God : and stondeth bitwene vs and wrathe/ vengeance/ cursse/ and whatsoever the scripture threateneth agaynst the vnbelevers and disobedient/ which resist/ and consent not in their hertes to the lawe of god/ that it is ryght/ wholy/ iuste/ and ought soo to be.

Marke the playne and manyfest places of the scriptures/ and in doutfull places/ se thou adde no interpretacion contrary to them: but (as Paul sayth) let all be conforinable and agreynge to the fayth.

Note the difference of the lawe/ and of the gospell. The one axeth and requyreth/ the wother perdoneth and for geveth. The one threateneth/ the wother promyseth all good thynges/ to them thatt sett their trust in Christ only. The gospell signifieth gladde tydynges/ and is nothyng butt the promyses off good thynges. All is not gospell that is written in the gospell boke: For if the lawe were a waye/ thou couldest not know what the gospell meante. Even as thou couldest not se perdon/ favour/ and grace/ excepte the lawe rebuked the/ and declared vnto the thy sinne/ mysdede/ and treaspase.

Repent and beleve the gospell as sayth Christ in the fyrist of Marke. Applye all waye the lawe to thy dedes/ whether thou find luste in the bottom of thyne herte to the lawe warde: and soo shalt thou no dout repent/ and feale in the silfe a certayne sorowe/ payne/ and grefe to thyne herte: be cause thou canst nott with full luste do the dedes off the lawe. Apply the gospell/ that is to saye the promyses/ vnto the deservynge off Christ/ and to the mercye of god and his trouth/ and so shalt thou nott despeare: butt shalt feale god as a kynde and a mercifull father.

And his sprete shall dwell in the/ and shall be stronge in the:
and the promises shalbe geven the at the last (though not by and by/ lest thou shuldest forgett thy sylfe/ and be negligent) and all threatenynges shalbe forgeven the for Christis blouddis sake/ to whom commit thy silfe all togedder/ with out respect/ other of thy good dedes or of thy badde.

Them that are learned Christenly/ I beseche: for as moche as I am sure/ and my conscience beareth me recorde/ that of a pure entent/ singilly and faythfully I have interpreted it/ as farre forth as god gave me the gyfte of knowledge/ and vnderstandinge:
that the rudues off the worke nowe at the fyrist tyme/offende them not: but that they consyder howe that I had no man to counterfet/ nether was holpe with englysshe of eny that had interpreted the same/ or soche lyke thinge in the scripture before tyme. Moreover/ even very necessitie and combraunce (God is recorde) above strengthe/ which I will not rehearce/ lest we shulde seme to host oure selves/ caused that many thynges are lackynge/ which necessaryly are requyred. Count it as a thyng not havynge his full shape/ but as it were borne afore hys tyme/even as a thing begunne rather then fynnesshed. In tyme to come(yf god have apoynted vs there vnto) we will geve it his full shape: and putt out yf ought be added superfluously: and adde to yff ought be oversene thorowe negligence: and will enfoarce to brynge to compendeousnes/ that which is nowe translated at the lengthe/ and to geve lyght where it is requyred/ and to seke in certayne places more proper englysshe/ and with a table to expounde the wordes which are nott commenly vsed/ and shewe howe the scripture vseth many wordes/ which are wother wyse vnderstonde of the commen people: and to helpe with a declaracion where one tonge taketh nott another. And will endeuer oureselves/ as it were to sethe it better/ and to make it more apte for the weake stomakes: desyrynge them that are learned/and able/ to remember their duetie/ and to helpe there vnto:

and to be stowe vnto the edysyngе of Christis body
